For a number of years he had the Memphremagog House at Newport, Vt., a noted summer resort, and made it one of the most popular places in that region. He also conducted the Haines House at Springfield, one of the best hotels in that city, for ten years. He has a large acquaintance with hotel patrons, and his previous experience will enable him to maintain the high reputation of the Hunnewell has always enjoyed as one of the best of suburban hotels. It has numbered many prominent Boston people among its patrons, and many who have come there intending to remain only a few months, have ended by remaining years, and finally have become so fond of Newton that they have bought houses here and become permanent residents. Mr. Bowman has recently been living in Cincinnati, and will come east with his family as

—Last Monday afternoon quite a number of the Newton Hospital nurses, all that could be spared, accepted an invitation from Dr. J. F. Friable, and accompanied him to Chelsea to visit the New England Vaccine Company's propagating establishment. They were first taken to the stable where they saw an animal vaccinated and were also shown other animals that had been vaccinated one or more days up to the time when the product is ready to take. They had the opportunity of seeing the vaccine lymph taken from the animal, and to see the vaccine being selected and purchased by a thoroughly competent man taken to a farm in Everett and kept for a time, then examined by a veterinary surgeon, recognized by the State as well skilled in his profession, who gives a certificate of perfect healthfulness of the animal. Then and not till then the animal is vaccinated. The room where the animals are vaccinated has cement tiles on the floor, porcelain tiles on the walls and ceiling of adamant so that all can be kept thoroughly clean. Dr. W. C. Cutler, the president of the New England Vaccine Company, had invited the nurses of the Chelsea Hospital to meet the Newton nurses at the stable, and nearly all of them were on hand, so there was quite a gathering of young ladies to see, to learn and to investigate.

—The company went to the headquarters office, 294 Broadway, where they were shown the further care and preparation of the vaccine before being sent away. The young ladies found all very interesting and instructive and thoroughly enjoyed the pleasant day outing.

—The Festival of the Ascension was celebrated at Grace church, last evening, by an evening service and the rendering of Sir Arthur Sullivan's cantata, "The Prodigal Son." The choir was assisted by an orchestra of 20 pieces from the Symphony orchestra, and Mr. Arthur B. Hitchcock of Boston, baritone, and Mr. Fred N. Sladen, organist. Mr. H. B. Day conducted, and many prominent musicians from out of town were among the audience. Tickets were given to members of the church, to be used before 7:30, and at that hour the doors were thrown open, and every seat was soon filled, while many stood throughout the evening. The production of the cantata was magnificent in every way, the choir singing the most difficult parts of the work with ease, and even the fugue choruses "O that men would praise the Lord," which many adult musical societies have found too difficult for them, was beautifully rendered by Mr. Hitchcock took the baritone solos, and his fine voice was never heard to better advantage. Master William H. Clapp sang the "I will praise thee, O Lord," with a kind, and Mr. Sladen did good work in the tenor solos. One of the most beautiful selections was the quartet by Mr. Fred O. Brown, Mr. Sladen and Masters Harold F. Hill, John C. St. nemetz and Harry Wilson. In the last chorus Mrs. Fred A. Wetherbee played the piano accompaniment. It is seldom one hears such a work under so favorable conditions, with organ and orchestral accompaniments, and Mr. Day received many congratulations at the close upon the magnificent work done by his choir. A prominent Boston organist, who was present, said he had never heard it surpassed, even by any of the choirs in the large cities.

—But for the spring weddings, the china and glass shops would be dull. Since Jones, McDuffee & Stratton bought the glass stock of the Boston & Sandwich Glass Company, and took most of their men, they have enlarged their glass department to extensive proportions, and do an extensive trade with the Eastern and Western cities. The American cut crystal glass is equal to the foreign, but in the delicate colors and gilded glass the Austrians and French excel.

—At the Methodist church next Sunday morning there will be a short sermon by the pastor, followed by the communion service and singing by the male quartet.

—Mr. and Mrs. Phillip A. Butler returned the first of the week from California where they have been residing during the winter months after traveling extensively. They have taken their old home, corner of Vista and Woodland avenues, and its hospitable doors will be opened to the many friends who will welcome their return to Auburndale with unforgotten pleasure.

—The Girls' Friendly Society of Church of the Messiah held its 21 annual meeting last Friday evening; it was presided by the G. F. S. service, after which the secretary's annual report was read by the rector, followed by an address on the "Principle of Association." Miss Jones was re-elected branch secretary for the third year. There will soon be held a service of admission for members and associates.

—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. J. B. Stewart, corner of Grove and Auburn street at 8 o'clock Monday evening, the contracting parties being Miss Anne C. Stewart and Mr. Clinton W. Grandell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Matteson, Church of the Messiah. It was a very quiet wedding, only the members of each family being present. After the couple were pronounced husband and wife a supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Grandell will reside in Auburndale for the present.

—The sewer work is still one of the chief industries in this usually quiet ward. The city has commenced work on Grove and Lexington streets the past week and yesterday another force was put at work on Auburn near Woodbine street, and the line of sewer will now be carried down past the post-office and stores. The Worcester contractor who has charge of the men at work on the Metropolitan sewer near Rowe street, is finding a great deal of difficulty in getting through a heavy ledge which underlies the swampy land between Rowe and Lexington streets. Every foot of progress has to be gained by blasting and it will be very slow work getting to Lexington street if the ledge proves to run way through.

—The friends of Rev. Calvin Cutler of the Congregational church have great hopes of being able to have the veteran pastor retained. The trouble is not deep seated. Mr. Cutler is beloved and respected even by his opponents, so it is thought there are good grounds for his retention. His pastorate has been an exceptionally happy and peaceful one, and when he tendered his resignation those who had criticized him at once felt that he was too valuable a man to lose. Yet there are some in the congregation who feel that a man of more modern views would be more acceptable to the young people, and from that feeling grew the criticism, which, coming to the ears of Mr. Cutler, caused him to resign. At the meeting Friday night, the matter will be further discussed.

—"R. E. Porter at City Hall."

Friday evening, May 11, at 7:45 and Saturday afternoon, May 12, at 2, the operetta, "R. E. Porter" or the "Interviewer and the Fairies," is three acts, will be given in City Hall, West Newton.

Mr. T. E. Sutson will sing the leading comedy part and Miss Maud K. Williams, who made such a success in "1492" and the "Golden Wedding," will sing the soprano part. The chorus will consist of twenty trained voices of Newton people and forty children's voices.

As the proceeds are for the benefit of the "Country Week" it is hoped there will be a large attendance. The children specially will enjoy seeing the Fairies in their fancy dances.

Tickets at 75 and 50 cents may be obtained at Ingraham's, Payne's and Hubbard's drug stores and of those taking part.

The Fire Record.

The last seven days have seen an unusual number of fires in Newton. Last Friday, besides the fire in the Adams school, there was an alarm from box 63, at 9:37 p. m. for a fire in the woods at the corner of Centre and Boylston streets. At 11:09 p. m. an alarm was sounded for a fire in Leavitt's block at Newtonville, caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp. The damage was about $25.

Saturday, an alarm from box 5, was for a fire in a tenement block owned by the Dudley Mills at Lower Falls. Damage $50, caused by sparks from a brush fire. At 7 p. m., an alarm was sounded for a fire in the restaurant in Howes' block, Newton, due to the explosion of a gasoline stove. No damage.

THE YEAR'S WORK.

Newton Civil Service Reform Association.

Report of the secretary presented at the annual meeting, April 23, 1894.

Gentlemen: Owing to the continued ill health of our president, the meetings of the executive committee have been held during the past year without the stimulus of his presence. Recognizing, as we all do, the great force given to the movement in this community by his earnest and persistent advocacy; and admiring the incisive clearness and unwavering integrity of intellect which enables him to judge with equal candor of the progress of the reform, whether administered by those with whom he is in general political accord, or otherwise; we feel that we suffer a distinct loss in his absence from our meetings, and the halting progress of our cherished reform can ill spare the earnest speech and the vigorous pen that we associate with his name. We are certain, however, that his name at the head of our organization carries more meaning and distinctiveness than any other that could be substituted, and we hope that it may long remain there as our inspiration.

Mr. R. L. Bridgman has been elected chairman of the executive committee, thus completing our working organization.

At the meeting of the committee held Dec. 27th, the following expressions were adopted:

1. The Newton Civil Service Reform Association, through its Executive Committee, expresses its gratification with the strong support given to the Civil Service Law by President Cleveland in his annual message to Congress.

2. The committee is in full accord with his recommendation that the entire clerical force of the Civil Service Commission be put upon its own roster, and dependence upon the other Departments discontinued; and it calls upon the Massachusetts Representatives in Congress to aid in the accomplishment of the needed legislation and the securing of adequate appropriations for the support of the Commission.

3. It recognizes with great satisfaction the benefit conferred upon this movement, and upon every kindred reform, by the recent change made by the President in the personnel of the Civil Service Commission.

4. It is pleased to recognize in the report of the Secretary of the Navy his cordial endorsement of the regulations adopted by his predecessor for the appointment of laborers in the Navy Yard; and it eagerly awaits legislation which shall permanently secure the benefit of these regulations by placing all of the Civil Employees of the Navy Yard under Civil Service Rules.

5. It heartily thanks the Postmaster General for the exposition in his report of the improvement in the Railway Mail Service attendant upon its being brought into the Classified Civil Service. It applauds his desire for further extensions of the Law in the Postal Service, and urges him to make a trial of the proposed system of appointing Fourth Class Postmasters on the reports of Inspectors, uninfluenced by Congressional interference.

6. It will gladly welcome all extensions of the Classified Service by which the President may bring more government employees under Civil Service Rules; for it believes that every department of the government service will be improved, and the political morals of our people raised by a firm insistence upon that independence of the Executive and Legislative branches intended by the framers of the Constitution.

Notwithstanding the evident wish of the President and several members of his cabinet to further the cause of the reform; and their recognition of the evil in the present methods of making appointments in so large a part of the government service; it seems as if the abuses of the patronage system must almost go on accumulating until some vast scandal shall rise to show the rottenness of a legislative system, based to so great an extent upon the distribution of the national pay roll.

Under the present administration an abuse has arisen which though not heretofore unknown, has been so little worked that it comes with startling force, and opens to the reformer an almost endless vista of struggle and dismay. Heretofore the debauchery of the public service has been mostly for the purpose of aiding in factional fights; for the advancement of one or another person within the ranks of a party, the implied return being in the form of personal loyalty to the appointing power and support to his claims for party position. The new bargain is on a different basis. It being understood that the head of the administration has no further desires for place for himself, his return for feed at the public crib is to come, not in the shape of votes for him in convention, but of votes for his measures in Congress. We are thus brought face to face with the presence of a most insidious and dangerous corruption.

Heretofore our congressmen have found their forces sapped, their energies weakened and their time taken from their legitimate duties by the office brokering demands, which have first weakened their power as legislators, and second, tended to a great deterioration in the character of the men seeking Congressional honor. Now it is supposed that their votes on public questions are to be the price of places for their henchmen.

In the past a congressman has earned his re-election by much running after and importuning of the cabinet and heads of departments. In the future he is to earn it by the sale of his convictions. An abyss of corruption so great as to be conquerable only by overturn, instead of by uplifting, yawns at our feet. That this is not more generally seen and more speedily denounced, lies in the fact the use of the system so far has been in the interest of legislation which is in accord with the beliefs and convictions of most of us who are identified with the Civil Service Reform movement. How doubly dangerous is such an evil, when men whose mental clearness and moral purpose we are wont to applaud, can throw them both to the winds; and not only uphold it in the excitement of debate, but can defend and approve it in studied communications to the press?

It would be idle to claim that the evil named does not exist because there is no evidence of corrupt bargaining can be shown. Of course it can't. But it is nevertheless believed that this evil is upon us, and is already working.

Other failures in the National Administration are in the Consular Service, which has been overturned with a brutal rapidity, heretofore unknown even in our barbarous methods; rendered all the more cutting and shameful for being conducted by one who had been expected to raise party to the service of principle instead of abandoning principle to the needs of party.

And in the Indian service, where there seems to be an inhuman breach of our obligations, in the more open introduction of political proscription in the distribution of the age-cies.

In the treasury department, Secretary Carlisle has permitted and shared in a most unrighteous and indefensible violation of the spirit of the Civil Service Reform Law and Rules, quartering personal and political favorites upon the public treasury, and making removals in entire disregard of the public interest.

While there is much to deplore in the condition of the reform in connection with national affairs, there is also much cause for encouragement and congratulation. A qualified satisfaction may be found in the administration of the post office department, where although the number of changes made in postmasters is numerically greater in the first year of this administration than of the last one, the ratio of changes to that entire number is somewhat less. There is now also recognized some sort of principle in allowing fourth class postmasters to generally complete four years of service before removal. There has, however, been no sign of improvement in the method of selection of new postmasters, it being still done in general on the basis of influence by congressmen, and with the added suspicion as noted above, of being often designed for its influence upon congressional action.

In the clerical service in the city of Washington, the conduct of the post office department has been altogether admirable and praiseworthy.

In the navy department, Secretary Herbert has adopted, extended, and improved the admirable methods introduced by Secretary Tracy for the selection of laborers, and has withstood the repeated and aggravated assaults made upon the system by his political associates.

In the department of agriculture Secretary Morton, while yielding to the importunities of congressmen to the extent of greatly demoralizing the field service, has maintained an admirable adherence to the Civil Service Rules, following both their letter and spirit in the management of the clerical force in Washington.

In the Civil Service Commission, President Cleveland has earned the thanks of all reformers, by retaining Mr. Roosevelt, and by removing General Johnson and appointing in his place Mr. Procter, whose position on the reform is believed to be entirely satisfactory.

There is also light ahead in the introduction by Senator Morgan of a carefully considered bill for the reorganization of the entire state and diplomatic, including the consular service, with examinations for entrance and promotion.

In our own local relations to the National Administration, we are principally affected through our postmasters, and we are liable to be more affected by our sympathies than by any probable mention of the efficiency of the service. In the village of West Newton, Mr. Stacey, though of opposite political faith from the administration, has been re-appointed. It was an appointment in every way suitable to be made, and having as he did, the nearly unanimous endorsement of the patrons of the office, it would seem as if no administration could have done otherwise. It is believed, however, that but for the active co-operation of Mr. Quincy, who took upon himself the personal task of securing the re-appointment, a different result might have ensued.

At Auburn, the vacancy occurred through resignation based on entirely private reasons. The new appointment, though not to be commended on business grounds, had much in its favor on sentimental considerations. The appointee was the daughter of a distinguished officer, who rendered great service in our war of rebellion, especially in exciting the patriotic ardor of his countrymen, who had adopted America as their home, and securing their great aid in filling our Massachusetts regiments. The office had been previously filled by a woman, and there was a gracefulness in selecting another of the sex, which appeals to the many who foresee the greater occupation of woman in public affairs.

At the Lower Falls there was no great effort made to retain the old incumbent, and practically no urgency of any other applicant than the one appointed.

We may therefore feel that our city has a very well as could be expected in the absence of any general rule for making non partisan appointments. In the State of Massachusetts the only legislation directly affecting the Civil Service is the passage of the very bad law making party spoils of the assistant assessors of Boston, by requiring their distribution equally between the members of the leading political parties. If there were a feeling that the dominant party were using these offices as spoils, and proscribing their political opponents, the evil could have been remedied by a law requiring appointment by merit.

In our own city of Newton, the entire labor and mechanical service of the highway department, has by ordinance of the city government been this month put under a system of rules for appointment, which is almost identical with the method of appointing laborers which exists in those cities that have come under the rules of the state commission.

We now have, therefore, our entire clerical, police and highway forces appointed under definite rules instead of by party favor. We believe that we are very free from either scandal or abuse in any of our departments, but it seems reasonable to hope that before many years our city shall adopt the provisions of the general law, and by thus bringing our fire department and the remaining labor service under reform rules, take the place which it ought to bear among the enlightened municipalities.

Referring to the progress of the reform in general, it is to be noted that in the State of New York, Gov. Flower has done great injury to the reform by direct violations of the law, and by juggling with the classification, and taking many places out from the operation of the rules for the sake of making party spoils. He has also used the veto power to defeat legislation intended to aid in the execution of the Civil Service law.

On the other hand, in the city of Brooklyn, the movement has received great aid and encouragement in the adoption of the Boston rules for appointment of city laborers, and in the unparis- administration of Mayor Schieren and his appointees.

A vigorous Civil Service Reform Association of 250 members has been organized in Harvard College, and a movement is under way looking to their formation in a number of other colleges. An association has also been organized in Washington city.

An attempt is now in progress to excite a more general interest in the abolition of political spoils, by the formation of a great National Anti-Spoils League. This movement is under the management of the officers of the National Civil Service Reform League. More than 8400 signatures of membership are already actually received. These are scattered throughout the entire country, representing about 900 different localities, and 47 different states and territories. In more than 60 different cities, where there are at present no local Civil Service Reform Associations, the number of signers is sufficient to warrant immediate steps toward permanent organization. Individual members of our association have contributed $31.00 to further the work of the Anti-Spoils League.

Our own association has lost several members during the past year, by death and by removals. We have a present total of 308 members. It is now four years since we began our active movement, and we have undertaken toward increasing our list, and it would seem as if the present might be a favorable time to place our principles before the large number of new residents, who have come into our territory, and invite them to become identified with our movement.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES P. TOLMAN, Sec'y.

Boulevard in Auburndale.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—The people of Auburndale are not yet fully awakened to the importance of the new boulevard, which is projected in their midst, and a little further discussion and explanation would seem quite proper.

It goes without saying, that the centre of a town is the place where may be found its railway station, postoffice and principal business blocks, and any boulevard which leaves these at one side, injures those properties and does not consult the convenience of the inhabitants. This would be particularly true of Auburndale where everyone is obliged to go to and from the station more or less, and where we have as yet no postal delivery system.

A boulevard was originally a road built upon the high walls and fortifications of a city, and was intended for giving its citizens a fine view in all directions, the word coming directly from the French, meaning bulwark, and we should see to it that our boulevard is not only handsome and attractive in itself but that everything around it is beautiful.

There should be no houses at sharp angles or turning their backs upon it, and all buildings should be placed at reasonable distances away from it and from each other. For this reason care should be taken to select a route not thickly settled, where too much property would have to be disturbed, for no matter how small or poor a man's home may be, it is "deim, schweet Heim" to him, and he does not enjoy leaving it to accommodate, and finds it hard to reconcile himself to the law of eminent domain.

We must use the care and forethought of William Penn, who laid out the plan of Philadelphia's streets so skillfully that they have remained the same to this day, a matter of two hundred years or more. We must consider both the experience of the last hundred years and the probabilities of the hundred years to come, and through these magnifying spectacles we see that new boulevards should follow or parallel existing roads and turnpikes, as these indicate in which direction people most desire to travel, and they should also follow in a general way natural watercourses.

The Rowe street route, so called, opens an entirely new direction and disturbs a large amount of already established property. It asks for a new bridge over the railroad and asks to do away with Rowe street entirely. (This title of Rowe street is very misleading. There is no Rowe street, then it is Auburn street or any other street which it happens to cross, and has no connection whatever with Rowe street.) By tearing down, buying up and destroying some very good property, taking a nick here, a corner there and a little somewhere else, it seeks to build up a section of Auburndale at city expense, which is as useful as it is new and which can never be made into desirable estates for fine residences. It will go near coal sheds, through lively stables, over marshes and low lands, for the sake of arriving—where?

It will be a road beginning no where, ending no where, convenience and source of pride to no one.

There is another route about which little has been said, but which has been well approved by many fair minded citizens. I speak of the Berkeley place route.

A general direction following Woodland avenue and Auburn street in almost parallel lines and continuing the "northern route" directly, would pass over the hill where are some fine building lots near the hotel, to land owned formerly by Mr. Noyes, and now largely by E. L. Pickard, Esq. Crossing Maple street at right angles as it should, this route passes through the Willard Rice estate, which is a very valuable property awaiting development. By setting the Rice house back a little, the boulevard would make a graceful curve, between the two handsome houses of N. F. Nye, Esq. and Mr. Frank Miller, and taking off a sharp corner at Central street, which has always been considered dangerous, it would cross the property of Mr. Darling, and so in full view of our pretty station by a widened bridge, enter Auburndale. The expense of this route would be comparatively little. Land would largely be given, and its convenience and attractiveness cannot be over estimated.

Let us hear the objections to such a boulevard as this before we decide.

Who formerly resided in Connecticut, but who now resides in Honolulu, writes: "For 20 years past, my wife and I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and we attribute to it the dark hair which she and I now have, while hundreds of our acquaintances, ten or a dozen years younger than we, are either gray-headed, white, or bald. When asked how our hair has retained its color and fullness, we reply, 'By the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor—nothing else!'"

"In 1868, my affianced was nearly bald, and the hair falling out every day. I induced her to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and very soon, it not only checked any further loss of hair, but produced an entirely new growth, which has remained luxuriant and glossy to this day. I can recommend this preparation to all in need of a genuine hair-restorer. It is all that it is claimed to be."—Antonio Alarcon, Bastrop, Tex.

THE LICENSES.

The long struggle over the licensing of druggists in Newton was ended Tuesday evening, when the board finally granted all but three of the licenses asked for, with the intimation that any druggist found violating the law would have his license revoked without delay.

As so many prominent residents of Upper Falls had protested against any license being granted for that village,
the board acted on their advice, and Upper Falls will have the distinction the coming year of being the only village in Newton without a license.

In Nonantum the two drug stores
which had a license last year were again favored, but there have been so many complaints from this section that the action of the board is looked upon as rather inconsistent. Most people will fail to understand why they should not have applied the same principle to Nonantum that they applied to Upper Falls, and it is understood that several members of the board advocated this, and urged that the board should either grant
all the licenses asked for by the former holders, or else should treat them all alike and refuse to grant licenses to any druggist to whom objections were made.
The board were in possession of remonstrants against a number of druggists,
and the evidence was quite as strong against them as against the one whose license was refused.

However, it has been a very difficult question to decide, and the contest made, and the long discussion of the board in their secret sessions, will probably serve as a useful warning in cases where it is needed, that the simple provisions of the law must be strictly observed, or else there will be trouble.

The Metropolitan park commission
and the state board of health have prepared an elaborate plan for the redemption of the banks of the Charles river as far as the Waltham line, and making them into a chain of recreation grounds, expanding here and there into broad,
park-like spaces, with drives and prome-nades, and a magnificent speedway a mile long in Brighton. The daily papers have given full reports of the plan, which seems a feasible one, and one not too expensive to be carried out. It would be of great benefit to Newton, and the other towns included, as the river would then become an attractive spot, instead of an offense to the sight and the smell, which it is at present. The main feature of the plan is to build a dam across the river from the Charlesbank to the front in East Cambridge, which would convert the stream above into a full basin of fresh water, maintained at a level of 2 1/2 feet below the high water mark. The landscape architects, Messrs. Olmsted, Olmsted & Eliot, explain the plan in a very instructive and interesting manner.
They say "the advantage which would be reaped by the towns and cities of the river valley from the joint possession of a thoroughly pleasant route of travel to and from Boston is so obvious that it need only be mentioned. Roads built upon the boundaries of the proposed reservation would provide a continuous parkway from Waltham to the heart of Boston." In conclusion they say:
"Charles river, freed from sewage, from d-filing industries, from mud flats and from mud banks, and dedicated with its borders to the use and enjoyment of the public as a drainage channel, as an open space, a parkway, a chain of playgrounds and a boating course, will perform its highest possible service to the metropolitan community, and will return to the community profits both tangible and in-tangible, which will annually increase."

The House rejected by a vote of 128 to 52 the bill to demolish the front of the State House, and the scheme is dead for another year, when the fight will probably be removed. The history of the State House addition ought to serve as a warning, and the state certainly does not want the graceful and historic old building replaced by anything that resembles the new structure in the rear, on which

so many millions have been expended.
The defeat of the bill is very creditable to the good sense of the majority of the house, who evidently could not be persuaded even by the eloquence of four ex-governors, to do a thing which they were confident would not be endorsed by the citizens. The old building means something, it has a history full of interesting associations, and it is a simple, harmonious and pleasing building. It can be easily repaired and made safe for another century, while a new building would merely represent the expenditure of so much money, and would probably be far inferior, architecturally considered, to the present building.

The aldermen have adopted the boulevard bill and have taken the preliminary steps towards passing the orders for the laying out of the Central boulevard, and they will be passed as soon as possible, when work will be begun. A force from the city engineer's office have been at work this week, surveying the first section, in order to make the changes required in the layout.

AN Auburndale correspondent has an interesting article on another page, on the route of the boulevard through that section, and presents some very forcible arguments in favor of a different route
than the one heretofore favored.

THIS has been a very dry week in Newton, as the licenses were not issued till late yesterday afternoon, and no sales could be legally made at any of the drug stores.

Lasell Notes.

evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bragdon have gone to New York to be present at the luncheon to

The last lecture on "Business Law for Women" will be given on Saturday, May 5, at 1.30 p. m. Subject, "Probate Law, Wills, Administration of Estates."
The play "Sappho," given by the senior class on Monday evening, was greatly enjoyed by those present. Miss Helen B.
Medsker, president of the class, impersonated Sappho, the Lesbian Poetess. Miss Elizabeth Warrick and Miss Jessie Harrison represented Damophila and Erinna, Sappho's pupils. Miss Julia Hogg appeared as Phaon, the Lesbian youth, for whom Sappho threw herself from the far-famed Lover's Leap. Miss Gertrude Sherman was Sappho's attendant. Misses Mary Tuileys and Mabel Case enacted the unusual role of Tibia players. While all acquitted themselves with credit, great praise was accorded David Harrison, who certainly displayed unusual histrionic ability.

Miss Bertha Cushing, contralto, Mr.
Chas. T. Grilley, humorist and Mr. Willis
E. Nowell, violinist, appeared at Lasell on Friday evening, April 27, and gave a charm-

Pennock Battery Electric Light and Improvement Company.

(THE PARENT COMPANY.)

Royalty Companies.
Pennock Company of Connecticut, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.
Pennock Electric Railway Co. of New York.
Pennock Electric Light and Railway Co. of Massachusetts.
Pennock Electric Co. of Alabama.
Pennock Electric Co. of California.
Pennock Electric Railway and Light Co. of Georgia.

Other Companies Forming.
Offices of the Company: Peoria, Ill., Atlanta, Ga., Riverton, N. J., Chicago, Boston, Bridgeport, Conn., New York, Rochester, N. Y.

What the Pennock System Can Do.
The Pennock Electric Light System can compete with gas at five cents a thousand feet. It can produce 100 incandescent electric lights cheaper than the dynamo can produce 100 lights. The Pennock System can put 20-horse power in a boat and deliver 100-horse power—yes, 200-horse power—at the propeller shaft. THINK OF IT! The Pennock Electric System can furnish the power for $1 an hour to run 1000 electric fans, furnishing a cool breeze to every room in a hotel.

Something Greatly Needed, but Out of the Question with the Expensive Dynamo!

MIND YOU.

One Dollar an Hour, we may do it for 10 cents, for the Entire Lot of Fans.—The one thousand fans, if worked with a dynamo, would call for an output of 1500 horse power, but the Pennock system can do it with 10-horse power.

The 1400 Horse Power is furnished Free Over the Pennock Phantom circuit.
Without doubt, the most important of the age, and the Pennock Electric System are in their infancy. The Pennock Electric Light and Electric Railway Company is destined to become famous as a large dividend paying investment.

Just Want to Call Your Attention to One Fact.—Don't it strike you pretty forcibly that this stock may prove a second Bell Telephone? We are now selling our stock at $5 per share, it may jump to high figures at any time. Take the Bell Telephone for an example. Why, at first, that stock knocked about the "retail" at 21 cents per share. It finally sold up to $3.70 per share, and it is said that John Wamaker made several hundred thousand dollars out of his holdings.

Well, I Can Show Larger Profits than the Bell Telephone—Think It Over!
Electric Railway alone will surely advance this stock to extremely high figures. Subject to withdrawal without notice, a portion of this stock may be purchased at $5 per share, in lots to suit investors. The stock is full paid and unassessable. Address

They are Lazarus Guthrie, James Golden and Warren Hemenway. One of them also confessed to have set several incendiary fires in Waltham recently. The arrest of these lads breaks up one of the worst gangs of hoodlums that has ever operated in Waltham. Golden, who undoubtedly was the leader of the gang, is 18 years of age, and if all the cases against him are proven, it will be several years before he is again at liberty. The greater part of the stuff stolen by the gang at the various places has been recovered.

—Mr. W. H. French desires to express his appreciation of the thoughtfulness of those friends who so kindly remembered him upon the occasion of his recent birthday anniversary.

—J. Wiley Edmonds Camp 100, S. of V., has removed its quarters to Newtonville, and will meet hereafter in Tremont Hall on the first and third Fridays. The change was made to be located nearer the ladies who so graciously waited upon the guests after the reception of the guests. The tables were handsomely decorated in the suffrage color, yellow, and the young ladies who so graciously waited upon the guests were dressed in the same dainty color. Following the tea Mrs. E. N. L. Walton gave an account of the very early life and also the college life of Mrs. Stone. She told of the struggles and sacrifices made by her to obtain her education. She entered Oberlin College at the age of 25 years, having spent years in alternate work and study to prepare herself for that step. During her college life she taught and also did house work to pay her way. She was obliged to board herself as she could not afford the small sum of one dollar per week. Mrs. Walton was followed by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore who told of the legal condition of women when Lucy Stone began her public life. She said that had not the men been better than the laws she would have encountered many additional hardships. At that time only seven pursuits were open to women and to her perseverance, with that of others, is due the change wrought in some of the laws. She paid a glowing tribute to the womanliness and sweetness of this noble woman. Rev. H. J. Patrick spoke of his acquaintance with Lucy Stone in his academy days at Warren. The boys had been work companions with her and she was a studious girl. The nobleness and gentleness were strong characteristics in her school as in after years. A pleasing musical program was presented during the afternoon and the company dispersed with feelings of regret that the afternoon had so rapidly passed away.

—A reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Pruden was given in the parlors of the Congregational church Wednesday evening. It was a very interesting affair and the new pastor and his charming wife were given a royal welcome. The decorations were very tasteful and consisted of an elaborate display of exotics and beautiful cut flowers. The room was a beautiful parlor, where the receiving party stood, was banked with hydrangeas and tall palms. The floor of the room had a rich covering of Oriental rugs, brilliant lights shed a bright radiance over the room, the harmonious effects of the contrasting colors in decorations and furnishings. A floral screen extending across the main entrance hid the guests from the ladies. The guests were placed here and there, trailing vines were gracefully festooned and much thought and attention given, apparently, to the artistic phases of the work. Robert Bennett, E. W. Newton, Fred Bell, H. B. Day, Benjamin Palmer, George W. Eddy, Avalon Graves and J. Franklin Fuller, Jr.

—Mr. W. H. French entertained a few friends last Sunday in honor of his birthday, but the true celebration was left by his friends as a surprise for Monday evening. Mr. French was entertained at a friend's house in Newton for tea, to be followed by what as he supposed. Shortly after 7 o'clock he was summoned home by a fictitious telephone message. As he neared his home what was his astonishment to see the house brilliantly lighted. Upon entering he was met by one or two old friends who led him into the parlor which was full of overflowing guests. He was greeted by E. Burdon with a warm handshake and the following remarks: Brother French, many of your friends have presumed upon your courtesy and have invited themselves to your kind hospitality, feel that you are as a citizen and brother. The battle of life is stern and often cruel, and the strewing of friendship's flowers will often prove of more worth than jewel or wealth. Life is short at the longest. We would that every appearing cloud for you may have a silver lining. Brother French, when the labors of the day have closed and you retire to the restfulness of the easy chair, kindly bestow upon the donors of this appreciation, and let it appear in the usual increase of charges in the plumbing bill. During life you have held many posts of duty and chairs of honor. This chair must needs be of greater honor, as it shall contain that which is above price, the true friendship of this people. When this becomes the silent chair, may the posts of duty and the chair of honor be extended to you there. The sudden tears which filled the eyes and almost choked the utterance of Mr. French as he feelingly responded to this tribute showed how fully he appreciated the kind regard of his friends, and how deeply they touched a tender chord. But tender feelings soon gave way to joyful ones as the many friends pressed around to congratulate him and take him by the hand. During the short absence of Mr. French this hand one easy chair had been placed in state for his reception, while the house was handsomely decorated with flowers and plants, the gift of Mr. Mansfield. At the close of an evening of great enjoyment they adjourned to the dining room, where a bountiful collation was served by Caterer Barlow. Wishes for many happy returns of the day were showered upon Mr. French as the merry company of friends dispersed.

—The "Churchman" of last week contains the following: Geo. Thos. Dowling, D. D., who has recently been elected "Churchman," has never been a member (as has been stated) of the Congregational body. For more than twenty years he was a pastor in the Baptist denomination, and for three years in the Dutch Reformed, which, in the character of its worship, is liturgical. Thus, by steps representing a natural sequence, he has been led from the church in which he was born, the church of his father, who was a Baptist clergyman, back into the church of his fathers, who for many generations were Episcopalians.

—At noon Monday, Miss Alice N. Gardner of this city was quietly married to Mr. William H. Gardner of Japan, at the Church of the Advent, Boston. Gardner, and the best man was the brother of the groom, Mr. Edward Q. Payne. Both of the customary wedding marches were played, the Mendelssohn at the entrance of the bride, and the Lohengrin at the departure of the newly wedded couple. The bride wore a travelling dress of gray, tastefully trimmed. The ushers wore Messrs. Sabin, Mr. James Fenney and Hunter. Mr. Payne, who is the son of Augustus W. The bride was attired in a gown of white duchess satin, handsomely trimmed with pink, and wore a veil prettily caught up with lilies of the valley. She carried to the altar a white prayer book. Misses Lillian M. Furber and Mamie Kistler attended the bride as maids, and they were dressed in white muslin and point de bayance lace, over pink silk. Mr. H. Fred Lesh was best man. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party drove to the Woodland Park Hotel. There a supper was served and a reception held between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock. Deceased was employed for the remarkable period of 31 years by Mr. John Paleifer, who conducted a successful wheelwright and blacksmith business until recently, here, and the highest tribute in words from the heart an employer can say to an honest, industrious, faithful and reliable workman, and a most successful business man, was paid to him at the time of his death. After Mr. Paleifer retired from business deceased opened a wheelwright shop in Wellesley until symptoms of failing health caused him to sell out and seek rest and quietness. The interment was at Sherborn, where a wife and two daughters are buried. Two sons and a married daughter survive.

A NEW SCHOOLHOUSE.

THE SCHOOL BOARD RECOMMEND A SUBSTITUTE FOR THE ADAMS BUILDING.

The school committee held a special meeting last evening to consider what provision should be made for the children of the Adams school.

The mayor presided and all except Messrs. Knapp and Brackett were present.

Mr. Smith said that it had seemed wise to the members of the schoolhouse committee to investigate the matter without previous instruction from the Board and the result of that consideration he submitted in the form of a report.

They reported that the Adams building was a cheap, worthless affair, and it would take from $6,000 to $10,000 to repair it, and then the building will not be satisfactory. They recommend a new location west of the present structure, where more land can be secured, and the immediate erection of an 8 room building, with hall, and heating capacity sufficient to heat another four room building for primary and kindergarten scholars. They claim that Newton is behind other cities in its school buildings.

The report was signed by C. S. Ober, J. Edward Hollis, J. R. Smith of the school house committee, and also Messrs. W. C. Boyden and C. A. Drew of the Ward committees.

The superintendent upon request expressed himself as favorable to the report as submitted.

The discussion which followed was general.

The school buildings were not insured so no revenue could be derived from that source. The cost of the building would probably be about the same as the eight room house at Newton Highlands, $50,000.

The estimates for repairs were very carefully made by the inspector and a conservative builder whose figures came out within $25 on separate estimates.

The effect of the proposed new 12 room building at West Newton on the Adams district was shown to be slight, but Mr. Ward's argument that an eight room school house would soon be outgrown and it would be advisable to look far into the future seemed well taken. If West Newton needed a 12 room house he thought Newtonville, situated in two school districts instead of one would soon need better provision than an 8 room building could give. It was demonstrated that 6 rooms of the proposed building and 8 rooms of the West Newton building could be at once occupied. The four room building wanted a-jacent, would be used for kindergarten and primary grades only.

An order was finally passed requesting the city council to erect a school building of at least 8 rooms and hall according to the recommendations contained in the report.

After passing an order complimenting Master Gilbert and teachers of the Adams school upon their vigilance and care on the afternoon of the fire, the board adjourned.

A peddler of paper parasols had a hard time at the Centre street crossing, in the high wind of Monday. He had them in a crate and every time he started to cross
the wind caught up a number and carried
them off, when he would put his box in a corner and hunt up the missing. He finally compromised by putting them all
under his arm and carrying the crate
empty. The high wind did some damage
to trees, whipping up the tender shoots,
and breaking off branches.

There was a very pleasant wedding at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rees, Pearl street, Wednesday evening, when
the latter's sister, Miss Christina McLaughlin,
was married to Mr. F. L. Chamberlain,
the local expressionman. Rev. Mr. Calkins officiated, and Miss Mary Godfrey of Newton Centre was bridesmaid and Mr. Peter McLaughlin, the bride's brother, was best man. A large number of friends were present at the reception which followed,
and the happy couple received many congratulations, besides a large number of handsome presents from their many friends. The bride wore a handsome white gown and carried a bouquet of bride roses.
After a brief wedding trip they will reside
in Newton.

The Channing Religious Society celebrated
Rev. Mr. Hornbrook's birthday on Monday last. The prettiest feature of the day was arranged by Mrs. Charles A.
Drew, the teacher of the infant class in the Sunday school. The members of this class met at the vestry at eight o'clock in
the morning and marched thence in procession to Mr. Hornbrook's house, each bearing one or more roses, which were presented to him by the little hands till he had received forty-five, the number of his
years. The group, with Mr. Hornbrook
among them, was then photographed by
Mr. Charles E. Lord, a most successful
picture being the result. Mr. Lord also gave to the society a large Crayon portrait
by Mr. Weston of the Notman Co. from a photograph of Mr. Hornbrook taken in February last by Mr. Lord. From five

time at the Centre street crossing, in the high wind of Monday. He had them in a
crate and every time he started to cross
the wind caught up a number and carried
them off, when he would put his box in a corner and hunt up the missing. He
finally compromised by putting them all
under his arm and carrying the crate
empty. The high wind did some damage
to trees, whipping up the tender shoots,
and breaking off branches.

There was a very pleasant wedding at
the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rees, Pearl street, Wednesday evening, when
the latter's sister, Miss Christina McLaughlin,
was married to Mr. F. L. Chamberlain,
the local expressionman. Rev. Mr. Calkins
officiated, and Miss Mary Godfrey of Newton Centre was bridesmaid and Mr. Peter McLaughlin, the bride's brother, was best
man. A large number of friends were present at the reception which followed,
and the happy couple received many con-
handsome presents from their many friends. The bride wore a handsome white
gown and carried a bouquet of bride roses.
After a brief wedding trip they will reside
in Newton.

The Channing Religious Society celebrated
Rev. Mr. Hornbrook's birthday on Monday last. The prettiest feature of the day was arranged by Mrs. Charles A.
Drew, the teacher of the infant class in
the Sunday school. The members of this class met at the vestry at eight o'clock in
the morning and marched thence in procession to Mr. Hornbrook's house, each
bearing one or more roses, which were
presented to him by the little hands till he
had received forty-five, the number of his
years. The group, with Mr. Hornbrook
among them, was then photographed by
Mr. Charles E. Lord, a most successful
picture being the result. Mr. Lord also
gave to the society a large Crayon portrait
by Mr. Weston of the Notman Co. from a photograph of Mr. Hornbrook taken in February last by Mr. Lord. From five to eight o'clock in the evening

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE ALDERMEN GIVE MANY HEARINGS—A STRANGE APPOINTMENT FOR POLICE SERGEANT ON THE SOUTH SIDE.

The aldermen held a meeting Monday evening at which every member was present and the mayor presided.

A communication was received from the board of health representing that in the opinion of the city solicitor the office of inspector of plumbing could properly be performed by the inspector of buildings and recommending that $600 be transferred from the appropriation for removal of ashes to the salary of the inspector of buildings for inspection of plumbing.

A communication from the school board was received requesting that the city council erect an eight room school building with hall to replace the burned Adams schoolhouse.

The recommendation of the school-house committee of the board, which accompanied it was read by the mayor.

It was referred to the public property committee.

HEARINGS GALORE.

At 7.30 o'clock a long list of hearings were opened and closed as follows:

For sewer in Suffolk road and Kingsbury street; sewer in private land near the B. & A. railroad, West Newton; sewer in private land between Elm street and B. & A. railroad; sewer in Essex road; sewer in Glen avenue, southeast; sewer in Suffolk road from Hammond to Woodward street; rounding southeast corner of Central street and Woodland avenue; sewer in Gasometer court; sewer in private land from Hunnewell terrace to Barnes street; rounding northwest corner of Elmwood and Park streets; for electric light poles in Waverley avenue, Bridge street and Highland avenue.

The hearing on petition of the N. & W. Gas Light Co. for poles on Mt. Ida street and Newtonville avenue called out some remonstrants.

Mr. O. B. Truesdell of Mt. Ida street objected to having the poles placed on his side of the street. He had no objection to having them placed on the opposite side, which he believed would be objectionable to no one as no house fronted the street on that side.

Mr. J. F. Gallagher said he had wired his house for electric lighting and the company were endeavoring to run wires to furnish the light. He could see no reason for Mr. Truesdell's objection to poles on the other corner of the street, when one corner was already thus occupied.

It was explained that there were three poles to be placed on Mt. Ida street and two on Newtonville avenue.

Supt. W. E. Holmes stated that this was the third location that had been submitted in an endeavor to reach Mr. Gallagher's house.

The hearing was then closed.

The quarterly report of the overseers of the poor was received.

APPOINTMENTS.

The mayor made the following appointments:

To be sergeant of police, Frederick M. Mitchell.

The confirmation by the board did not follow, as is customary, instead Alderman Hunt made a motion that the appointment be tabled. The motion prevailed and it was tabled.

This is the first instance but one in nearly 20 years that a police appointment made by the mayor has not received immediate confirmation by the aldermen.

Special policemen at the Pettee Machine Works were appointed in the persons of Timothy Connelly, Daniel Ford and J. V. Sullivan.

A bill of $14,000 for the use of hydrants and $635.35 for watering troughs, were approved.

The inspector of buildings referred to the contemplation of the board a petition from Louis Jones for the erection of a stable 20x44 feet on Waban Hill, 1000 feet from any other building.

Alderman Bothfield wanted to hear from Inspector Elder about the petition. He thought it was about time the board got rid of these matters.

Alderman Hunt wanted to know what was the trouble that the inspector could not grant a stable without bringing it before the board?

Inspector Elder was called and the mayor asked if he knew of any objections to granting the petition.

Inspector Elder—I do not know of any objection.

Alderman Hunt—The stable is to be constructed of brick is it not?

Inspector Elder—I do not know.

Alderman Hunt—That is what I have understood. I see no reason for not granting the petition, for the stable is to be located 1000 feet from any other building. I move it be granted.

It was granted by vote of the board.

The petition of B. S. Hatch for a coal shed 60x96 feet in size and for stable 30x30 feet, distant 100 feet from any but his office building, came before the board in the same manner and was granted on motion of Alderman Hunt.

A third was that of E. W. Foster for a stable 12x20 feet in size for one horse. Alderman Rumery emphatically moved to grant, and this ended the building permits.

The sewer committee through Alderman Hunt reported, recommending a new main drain and sewer in Mt. Vernon and Morton streets.

Alderman Bothfield introduced an amendment to Ordinance 4, Sect. 16 of the ordinances, governing the finance committee. This was hereafter passed to be enrolled.

The highway committee reported, giving W. E. Hickox et al., leave to withdraw, recommending that the northwest corner of Prospect and Pearl street be rounded, and that petitions by the following be granted: N. J. Holmes, T. G. Estes, M. J. Kimball, G. E. Guilbert, J. K. Taylor, O. F. Clark, Bourne et al., Mellen Bray. Orders in reference to the above, appointing hearings, were later passed.

The widening of Waban street from Pearl street to Waban park was recommended, and an order passed that it be widened to 40 feet, and appointing a hearing.

An order was passed changing the name of Woodland avenue to Woodland road.

An order was passed for the construction of cross walk at Centre and Rice streets and sidewalks on Lowell and Edinboro streets.

An order was passed to round the corners of Elmwood and Park streets.

An order granting Gelia Butwell a hearing on the rounding of Prospect and Curve streets was passed.

An order giving notice to those interested and appointing a hearing on the widening of Waban street was passed.

estimated and appointing a hearing on the widening of Waban street was passed. Alderman Bothfield stated that the land, about 9000 feet, was given by the abuttor.

An order was passed for the rounding of Central street and Woodland avenue.

Alderman Hamilton presented an order transferring $600 from the board of health appropriation for removal of ashes to the salary of the inspector of buildings for the inspection of plumbing.

Geo. F. Hall petitioned for sewer in private land from Chapel to Dalby street, referred; Carl Emmett and Chas. Miller petitioned for street musicians license, John J. Conney for one wagon.

The latter were granted.

Thos. Clark and John Brown's petition to parade a life and drum corps in Newton Centre was granted subject to police regulations.

An order was passed releasing that part of the land in Needham used by the city water works, which was unnecessary.

An order for sewer in Morton street was passed.

Alderman Hunt said there were gentlemen present who would like to be heard in reference to the sewer to be built from Elm street.

The hearing was re-opened at his request.

Mr. Asahel Wheeler and Mr. Nathaniel T. Allen spoke, but neither object to the sewer passing through their land, so the hearing was closed again.

An order was passed granting the N. & W. Gas Light Co. a location on the west side of Mt. Ida street for three poles on the south side of Newtonville avenue for two poles also for eight poles on west side of Waverley avenue, one 40 ft. pole on Bridge street and three poles on the north side of Highland avenue.

The aldermen adjourned at 8.24.

The Wheel Races at Waltham.

Great preparations are now being made to give the members of the Massachusetts division of the League of American Wheelmen a spring meet, May 30, in Boston, which will eclipse all preceding cycling events in the state. Nearly $2,000 will be spent in the entertainment of the visiting wheelmen. The program embraces the giving of souvenir badges to all L. A. W. members, an opportunity to purchase tickets to the races at the famous Waltham track at half price and the free distribution of refreshments.

The parade will start at ten o'clock and at one a run will start for the track at Waltham to see the race which will be the feature of the day. Manager Bradstreet is putting a new surface of granolithic brick on it and already more than half of it is completed. It will be done in time to allow the fastest men in the country, who are to square off in the races, May 30, an opportunity to practice on it. Michael Dirnberger, who rode a mile in 1.51 at Birmingham, says it will give opportunity for faster time than any other track in the world. This with the new surface and the prizes, most of which are diamonds, gold and silver, exciting racing and fast time is inevitable. Among the famous riders who will be there are Walter Sanger, winner of the one mile English championship, Harry Tyler, who last season beat both Sanger and Zimmerman, Dirnberger, Johnson, the western cyclone, Jimmie Clark, Eddie McDuffee and a host of others. A grand ball will wind up the meet.

Base Ball League Disbands.

The Lynn and East Boston clubs have withdrawn from the Suburban Base Ball League. As this leaves but three clubs, Newton, Winchester and Rindge A. A. of Cambridge, it has been thought best to disband the league.

The Newton A. A. managers are arranging games with some of the strongest clubs in the state, and a schedule will be published in a few days.

The Newton Athletic Association was represented in the Harvard Invitation handicap meeting last Saturday by a team of their best men. F. C. Hersey, Jr. won second prize in the 100 yards dash and in the 220 yards dash took second place in the trial heat but was beaten later. L. W. Redpath also ran well in these events and captured second place in his trial heat of the 100 yards. In the shot put, F. W. Eddy received second prize with an actual put of 36 feet 6 inches, coming within one inch of the first man. Other N. A. A. men, although not prize winners did good work in the events for which they had entered.

Donations received at Pomroy Home during April.

Ladies' Home Missionary Society of West Newton Congregational church, fifteen pieces underclothing, one dozen aprons; Mr. C. H. Eddy, three dozen bananas; Miss Alice F. Clarke, Boston, hats, shoes, clothing; friend, two jars maple syrup; Mr. F. H. Insomnia is fearfully on the increase. The rush and excitement of modern life so tax the nervous system that multitudes of people are deprived of good and sufficient sleep, with ruinous consequences to the nerves. Remember, Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes the weak strong.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.

The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials to Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

CHAPTER III.

It is a solemn fact, they say, That every dog will have his day, But when the event shall be revealed, That horse takes up the night's tale, And thumping on the weary air, Gives token that he still is there.

What though, serenely silent, all Are wrapt in sleep, and all are still, What though from other stables round, There comes no diabolic sound! He keeps his vigil, and he waits, Ricking and thumping through the night.

NEWTON CENTRE.

The class reception and ball held Tuesday evening in Bray's new hall was one of the most brilliant social events which has occurred in this city during the season just past.

The evening could hardly have been more perfect for a large attendance and occurrence as it did in the handsome new hall could not fail to inspire more than ordinary interest. The hall is unquestionably the most perfect in design and equipment in the vicinity of Boston.

The high ceiling and windows afforded ample ventilation without causing an uncomfortable draft and the hall was brilliantly illuminated by four arc electric lights and three chandeliers, the former receiving power from the local plant. Across the hall at one end extends a fine gallery opening upon the hall through three gracefully curved arches, which will comfortably seat several hundred people. The hall itself is 102x62 feet in size. The decorations were very handsome consisting of palms and potted plants in profusion grouped both at the head of the hall and about the balcony and orchestra. Waiting matrons received at the side of the hall where their duties were made more pleasant by the presence of oriental rugs and luxurious sofas, flanked on either side with flowered cushions and with cut flower pendants, nasturtiums and heliotropes in rich profusion, which filled the hall with their fragrance. The matrons were charmingly attired for the occasion. Mrs. Joseph W. Parker wore a rich, black lace gown with diamonds; Mrs. Edward A. Ellis, a handsome lavender silk, with trimming of black lace, with pearl ornaments and carried white carnations. Mrs. H. W. Mason was gowned in an elegant black and white brocade, with diamond ornaments and she carried Passion flowers. Mrs. David B. Harding wore a lovely gown of yellow and black silk. The first of the evening from 6.30 to 8.30 was reserved especially for the children comprising Prof. Monroe's dancing class. Promptly at 6.30 o'clock, the class numbering fifty marched into the hall in beautiful order. They saluted their teacher, Prof. Monroe, at the entrance and marching around the hall formed in front of the matrons, whom they saluted.

The march then continued, and the intricate and pretty transformations, which were very interesting to observe, so nicely were they executed. Dancing then occupied the time until 8.30 when the floor was cleared for the evening's entertainment. It was a very select assemblage, prominent society people from Boston, Brookline, Newton, West Newton and Newton Centre being the country, who are to square off in the races, May 30, an opportunity to practice on it. Michael Dirnberger, who rode a mile in 1.51 at Birmingham, says it will give opportunity for faster time than any other track in the world. This with the new surface and the prizes, most of which are diamonds, gold and silver, exciting racing and fast time is inevitable. Among the famous riders who will be there are Walter Sanger, winner of the one mile English championship, Harry Tyler, who last season beat both Sanger and Zimmerman, Dirnberger, Johnson, the western cyclone, Jimmie Clark, Eddie McDuffee and a host of others. A grand ball will wind up the meet.

The parade will start at ten o'clock and at one a run will start for the track at Waltham to see the race which will be the feature of the day. Manager Bradstreet is putting a new surface of granolithic brick on it and already more than half of it is completed. It will be done in time to allow the fastest men in the country, who are to square off in the races, May 30, an opportunity to practice on it. ## THE CHARLES RIVER VALLEY.

HOW NEWTON'S PART OF IT WILL BE BEAUTIFIED.

Messrs. Olmsted, Olmsted & Elliot, the landscape architects, in their report outlining a scheme of improvement for the Charles river such as will develop in the highest degree, the natural usefulness of the stream as an open space and a drain, describe the plan in detail. For this purpose they divide the river into three sections, as follows: First, the fresh water section; second, the marsh section; third, the basin section. The following gives the chief points of the plan as affecting this city:

THE FRESH WATER SECTION.

The only fresh water section of Charles river with which the present inquiry is concerned extends from the Watertown line to Watertown bridge. The stream here meanders tranquilly through a chain of open meadows generally bordered by low bluffs. Dams at Benis and Watertown detain the natural current and spread the water surface in an agreeable manner. Neither the meadows nor the bluffs are as yet much occupied by buildings except in the near neighborhood of the two dams.

The public reservation begins arbitrarily at the Waltham line, in accordance with the terms of the act of the Legislature creating the commission, and extends eastward between boundaries which it is proposed shall be formed by existing or prospective public roads, affording frontage for the adjacent private building land.

River street, Watertown, follows the brink of the north side bluff, and therefore would form the most desirable north boundary. It is only for the sake of economy in land that the plan shows the reservation bounded by a new road proposed to be built parallel with River street upon the level of the meadow. This road would necessarily ascend to River street to avoid the Benis mills.

On the north side the road boundary of the reservation would first lie upon a little bluff occupied at the present time by two or three buildings; then it would cross the unoccupied level of Cheesecake brook valley, and would reach California street by following the brink of a second and higher bluff, from which is obtained a view up stream, including Prospect hill in Waltham.

It should be noted in passing that Cheesecake brook has already been included in a public reservation, bounded by a road upon each bank, and that both the adjacent land owners and the public of Newton are well pleased therewith.

The mills at Benis cannot be included in the reservation, for obvious reasons; but they are easily passed by River street and California street, and the existing buildings are not a serious blot upon the landscape of the river valley.

Eastward from Benis the north side boundary had best be the existing Pleasant street; but, as before, for reasons of economy, the plan proposes a new road approximately parallel with Pleasant street as far as Howard street, from which point Pleasant street itself should form the boundary down to Watertown dam, where the reservation is necessarily again interrupted by mill buildings.

On the South side California street is proposed as the boundary as far as Chapel street, and again from the Newton-Watertown line to Watertown bridge. Between these points the boundary may be fixed upon a new road, which should curve up to the brink of the bluff at the end of Los Angeles street, and then curve back again. A breast of Watertown dam connects London can easily be made with the public reservation which the city of Newton proposes to create along the course of Laundry brook.

THE MARSH SECTION.

The middle section of the river, from Watertown bridge to Cottage Farm, is characterized by extensive acres of salt marsh which border the wandering channel. Here and there the marsh has been filled and a bit of sea wall built, but more than nine-tenths of the total length of the river bank is still in its natural state. The marshes are generally unoccupied.

The plan suggests that a bridge should eventually be built in continuation of California street, and that the public reservation include the narrow strip of land which lies between Wheeler street and the river, so that the continuity of the river drive may be unbroken.

East of the end of Wheeler street the boundary should be a new road, which may pass the end of Irving street, follow the top of the bluff across the Stickey estate, cross the end of Beechwood street, and reach North Beacon street bridge by filling a large part of the shallow expansion of the river which lies opposite the end of Prospect street.

On the south side of this section of the river the Boston & Albany railroad is built on an embankment not far from the river's edge, while several commercial establishments occupy the river bank in the neighborhood of the village of Watertown. It is desirable that the land which lies between the Boston & Albany railroad and the stream should be made part of the public reservation, but more than this seems impracticable.

OPINION OF NEWTON MEN.

Hon. Joseph S. Leason, who has been closely identified with improvement projects and who was a member of the Newton boulevard commission, said:

"I am decidedly in favor of improvements along the river front, and in the carrying out of a plan to purify the stream and secure thereby an improved sanitary condition. At some time in the near future I had supposed that it might be decided to continue the line of the river parkway from Boston to and around Newton on the banks of the Charles river. Any development of that character would be in accordance with wise sanitary laws, and also in accordance with the general principle that by beautifying and improving undesirable spaces not only would the health of residents be subserved, but the value of contiguous property increased.

"The proposition to build a line of houses between the residents on Beacon street and the water front seems to me so manifestly unfair to the owners of Beacon street property I think that careful thought should be given before deciding to carry out that project. Common sense must regard existing conditions and take them into account, making proper allowance for equitable existing rights."

ALDERMAN BOTHFIELD

said: "There can be no doubt of the great benefit that would result from the proposed Charles river improvement, both from a sanitary and artistic point of view. The Hunnewell Hill Improvement Association of Newton has been developing a plan for improving the river banks and surrounding property from the Boston line to Watertown line. It was suggested that parks and recreation spots be laid out with drives, much after the plan recommended in the joint recommendation of the state board of health and the metropolitan park commission.

"Of course, the plan proposed meets with the approbation of the members of our local improvement organization. Newton would be greatly benefited if the project is carried out. The most congested portion of the city is in wards 1 and 7, where there is no available land for park sites. The Charles river improvement plan, if carried out, give us beautiful park and recreation grounds in the section where they are most needed.

"Ex-Mayor Hibbard, who was a member of the Charles river improvement commission, strongly advocated a similar plan, that of damming the river and laying out walks, drives and recreation grounds. He proposed locating the dam near Cottage Farm, but I believe the location recommended in the joint report is better, because it would give a beautiful basin of water, extending into the suburbs. The facilities for pleasure boating would be admirable, and the whole section above the dam could be made very attractive. I cannot conceive of any obstacle to carrying out the project, if the state lends its aid.

"The new buildings proposed along the Beacon street water front would, in my judgment, be an added feature, from an artistic standpoint. In fact, if the details of the improvement proposed are carried out the Charles river and its surroundings would constitute one of the most beautiful spots in the world.

"It is possible that the national government may interpose an objection to damming the river, on account of the effect on the tides in the harbor. The mill owners and manufacturers are quite likely to object.

"I anticipate, however, that the first objection can be easily met, and the second is wholly a selfish one, it should not be allowed to stand in the way."

MR. WALTER U. LAWSON

said: "As a citizen of Newton, interested in the improvement of the Charles river, both from the sanitary and artistic standpoints, I attended the hearings of the Charles river improvement commission, held in the old court house in Boston, and recommended the construction of a dam at the arsenal bridge. At subsequent meetings of citizens of Newton and Watertown, held in the latter place, I suggested the erection of a temporary dam, with the idea of determining if its construction would bring about the advantages, sanitary and otherwise, that it was expected it would accomplish.

"My proposition," he continued, "was to build the dam 1.2 to 2 feet below high water. The joint recommendation of the Metropolitan park commission and state board of health to build it at high water involves some serious questions. The point to be considered is whether it will cause trouble to secure an accumulation of fresh water with no salt water to speak of coursing through it. It would seem to me feasible to dredge the upper section of the river, making the stream navigable as far as the Waltham dam.

"I am strongly in favor of the improvement of the Charles river, but I think there are many important questions to be taken into consideration in connection with the formulation of a plan that will accomplish the most desirable results.

"The welfare of the community as a whole should, of course, give way to any questions of sentiment. I believe that the place to put the dam would be at Cottage Farm bridge, where the river commences to narrow. Below that point the basin is already walled up."

EX-MAYOR HIBBARD,

who was a member of the Charles river improvement commission, said: "I am decidedly in favor of the plan recommended in the joint report. The river all the way from Milford, in my judgment, should be improved from a sanitary and artistic standpoint by some disinterested set of men. If the investigators of the river, interested in its improvement, will go to Milford they will find there at its source more pollution than at almost any other point.

"If it is intended to build a dam, the river should be thoroughly cleaned out from its source all the way down. The scheme for improvement proposed is, however, a most enterprising one. I cannot see any objection to building new houses between Beacon street and the water front. It seems feasible to me and would greatly reduce the cost of the improvement.

"The dam, I think, should be located above the wharves. We ought to be able to get our coal up to Newton, Watertown and Waltham at water rates about equal to what the plan proposed goes through.

"Newton would do the liberal thing, I think, in aiding the carrying out of the improvement. Cambridge would be greatly benefited, as it would redeem the entire section of its lands bordering on the river. You cannot keep on dumping sewage into it. The state ought to feel favorably toward the proposed improvement, as it has land interests along the line of the stream where the section of the Metropolitan sewer is laid from Brighton to Waltham."

HON. J. F. C. HYDE

of Newton said: "The proposed Charles river improvement is a grand, good project, and would be a great benefit to Boston and the outlying suburbs."

MR. STERLING ELLIOTT

of Newton, editor of the L. A. W. magazine, Good Roads, was one of the originators of the project of damming the Charles. He said:

"My proposition was to locate the dam at either Cottage Farm or Faneuil. The site recommended by the commission is infinitely better, however. No matter how much dredging you do, you cannot get the beauty that would obtain by keeping the water in the big basin proposed up to a certain height. The plan is entirely practical. The entire body of the river runs through it and gives a beautiful water park, a place that would offer great attractions for pleasure craft, including steam launches. It is quite likely, too, that transportation facilities between the various cities and towns would be afforded."

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—The Finley Paper Co. are having a storehouse added to their plant.

—James Humphrey is doing some need repairs in carpenter work at the Crebore Mills.

—J. H. Donlon is night watchman at the Dudley Mills during the absence of the regular hand there.

—The Choir Guild of St. Mary's church has produced a good base ball nine among its members. The nine will practice or play match games every Saturday afternoon.

—John Cain of West Newton, while standing near the railroad crossing last Friday morning, fell and cut a bad wound on his forehead by conviction to which he has been subject of late. He was removed to D. Warren's coal office after Dr. Gould was summoned, and after a half hour of unconsciousness was taken to his father's home.

—Rev. William Lawrence, D. D., Bishop of Massachusetts, will visit St. Mary's church next Sunday morning, May 13th at 10.45 to preach and to administer confirmation. It being also Whit Sunday, there will be the celebration of the Holy Communion. The public is cordially invited to be present. The Sunday school hour has been changed recently to 9.30 a. m. The school is in a flourishing condition.

—The death of Mrs. Ball early Sunday morning though expected by none the less sad to a bereaved family and sympathizing community. Death resulted from cancer of the liver for which trouble she has been under Dr. Utley's care for a long period. Her long term of suffering she bore with true Christian spirit, never complaining and truly reconciled as death approached. She was an estimable and industrious widow and held in the highest esteem. The funeral services were held at her late home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Rev. H. U. Monro of St. Mary's and interment at the church cemetery. A married and two single daughters survive.

The boy was all right (says the Detroit Free Press) notwithstanding his girly curls and a fond mother who was deathly afraid he was going to become coarse and vulgar and in other respects masculine. One day a gentleman calling at the house engaged him in conversation.

"Well, my boy," he said, after some time, "what are you going to do when you grow up?"

The boy studied the question a moment.

"Really," he replied at last, "I don't know. I suppose I ought to be a man, but from the way mamma is handling me, I'm almost afraid I'm going to be a lady."

Mrs. Kelly, the actress, says Tit Bits, is fond of telling a good story, and for her latest she claims absolute originality. One of her trapezes, it appears, has just received an addition to his offspring. His son, a small boy, was taken to see the new arrival, whom he eyed very critically.

"Why, he's got no hair, father," was his first remark.

The fact was admitted.

"And he's got no teeth, father," was the next comment.

The circumstance could not be denied. "I tell you what, father," was the final observation, "you've been 'had'—he's an old 'un!"

THE ADAMS SCHOOL.

There is reported to be some dissatisfaction with the arrangements made for disposing of the children of the Adams school, since the burning of the building, which is not at all surprising, as the arrangements are temporary ones, and it was not an easy matter to make provision for the children.

Many of the parents understand that it is only a temporary arrangement, and that the inconveniences are unavoidable,
and therefore they are willing to put up with it, and not make the difficult task of the school authorities any more difficult.

The Jackson and Elliot schools, where the pupils have been placed, are a little farther away than the Adams building,
but not so much so as to make the walk
to and from very burdensome to a healthy child, and besides there are the electric cars which can be used in extreme cases.

As to the way in which the scholars were accommodated in the two buildings, that is of course a matter for the teachers and superintendent to decide,
and parents cannot help seeing that they would naturally make the best arrangements possible. Their course may seem arbitrary, and possibly if they could have had more time to consider the matter
they might have made wiser arrangements, but as the inconveniences are only temporary, it is hardly worth while to make much of a protest. It will not continue more than the present school year, and it is easy to put up with an inconvenience if it is not to last more than a few weeks.

A good deal of the trouble arises because of over-sensitiveness on both sides.
Parents of the Adams school pupils object to their children going to the Nonantum schools, and the parents of the children attending the latter are sensitive about such a feeling, and possibly are too jealous and watchful of their rights, but such feelings are out of place in our public schools. All who attend these are on a perfect equality, as far as their rights are concerned, and scholarship and behavior are the only things to be regarded. We do not think the school authorities have had anything else in mind, and they have in one case at least given convincing proof of their intention to treat all the pupils alike. Rich and poor meet in the public schools on an equal footing, and any effort to make distinctions on this account should be put down at once. The city pays for all, and just as much for the poor child as for the rich one, and the one should have just as good advantages, and not better, than the other.

But this affair has one important feature, which is worthy of comment,
in the loud call the school board are making for new and expensive school houses.

Here is a school building made unfit for use by fire, and yet the scholars find accommodation in two neighboring school buildings, without difficulty and without a serious overcrowding of either.
There has been some talk of a new and expensive structure being needed to replace the Adams building, and a good deal has been said about the overcrowding condition of the school buildings generally, yet here are the Jackson and Elliot schools which seem to have been very far from full.

The starting of the parochial school on Adams street has drawn off a large number of pupils from each, and people have been asking why it is not feasible,
now that the Adams building is a ruin,
to consolidate the Adams and Jackson schools, by a rearrangement of the districts, and thereby save expense to the city? If the scholars in that section are not likely to increase in any great degree, what is the need of two buildings and two corps of teachers, when one would suffice.

If this is not considered feasible for any reason, and the Adams building can be repaired at small expense, it would hardly seem wise to put up a new and costly building there, when there are other sections of the city where new and larger buildings are more urgently needed, and where the school population is certain to increase. Superintendent Aldrich says the Adams building could be made ready in a few weeks and it would seem to be the wisest plan to push on the repairs as rapidly as possible, if the number of children in that section is sufficient to make the building a necessity.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

The City Council at its special meeting, last evening, adopted the boulevard

orders, awarded damages to abutters, passed orders for the issuing of bonds to pay for construction and gave the mayor power to make contracts for the building of the roadway. This ends a long and tedious struggle and gives Newton a grand public improvement, which can not fail to have the most beneficial effect upon its future growth and prosperity. It is the greatest public enterprise ever undertaken in Newton and the City Council is entitled to great credit for carrying it through, in the face of so many obstacles.

Another important matter that has long been hanging in the air was taken up and put forward one important step,
that of the widening of Washington street to 75 feet, an order being passed giving a hearing on a petition to have a building line established along the Caroline Barker estate in West Newton, so that a brick block can be built, without interfering with the widening. This action shows that the city government intend some day to widen the whole street.

Other important matters were attended to, as will be seen by the statement that expenses aggregating over $400,000 were provided for, a great part of which
of course was for the new boulevard.
There is no reason now why contracts should not be made at once, all along the route, and the work begun so that before winter sets in the boulevard may be an established fact.

The annual report of the chief of the fire department for 1893, which has just been issued, gives some interesting figures of fire losses and insurance in Newton. During the year there was sixty-eight bell alarms, forty telephone and verbal calls, and two alarms for fires out of the city. The value of buildings and contents where fires have occurred was $220,000, and owing to our excellent fire department the loss on same was only $53,342, of which $34,918
were on buildings and $18,424 on contents. On the total property at risk there was an insurance of $158,050, and the amount of insurance paid was $47,933. The only great fire of the year was in the Stevens block, Newton Highlands, when the loss was about $30,000.
The report shows that Newton is a very profitable field for the insurance companies, the loss being a very small percent of the total property insured in the city. The cost of the fire department for the year was $39,794.90, which did not include an expenditure of $2,651.39
for the new station at Nonantum.

The Boston & Albany road does not make a very good showing in its report for the quarter ending March 31. Gross earnings fell off, $285,037 to $2,026,570.
Net earnings show a decrease of only $42,273, due to a tremendous cut in operating expenses. The three months reported on made up a worse time for the road than the preceding quarter, when gross earnings fell off $209,000 from the figures for the same period in 1892. For the preceding three months covering the time of the panic the Albany lost only about $26,000 in gross earnings. The course of the road's gross earnings for the first three months of several years has been:

1894	$2,026,570
1893	2,311,007
1892	2,321,454
1891	2,121,928
1890	2,087,542
1889	1,998,996

Thus the gain of over four years was wiped out in the past quarter, reflecting a heavy falling off in the volume and activity of business along the line of road.

It is curious to note how carefully the interests of electric light and gas corporations are guarded in the House, and no legislation that could be construed as unfriendly to them is allowed to pass without strong opposition. But the House is not so watchful over corporate interests as the Senate, which seems to regard it as its duty to look after the corporations first, and the people second.

A GREAT effort has been made in Newton to get rid of the caterpillar pest, and yet the nests are still seen about the city, on the apple and other fruit trees. A simple method of extermination is said to be, to tie a mop or bunch of rags to a pole, saturate it with kerosene and swab
the nest well. The oil is said to kill the caterpillars, and it is so simple a method that it is worth trying.

UNDER the auspices of the North Side Improvement Society, the Metropolitan Park Commissioners are to give to the citizens of Newton an illustrated talk on the proposed Charles River Improvement. The date will probably be arranged today at the meeting of the commissioners, of which due notice will be given with place of holding the meeting.

THE Boston Journal feels very proud of its work in printing half tone cuts in its Sunday issue, and promises that next week they will look better, which is encouraging for its readers. Half tone cuts in a daily paper have never yet been a brilliant success, but those in the Journal look as well as the average.

construction of sewers. Also $15,000 similarly received was applied to the sinking fund.

Orders authorizing the issue and sale of $1000 bonds not to exceed the sum of $200,000 to bear interest at 4 per cent, payable in 20 years to be denominated Newton boulevard Loan; $50,000 in bonds
denominated Highlands School Loan; $29,000 in bonds denominated Newton
Drain Loan, were passed.

The latter is for the construction of a drain in Worcester and Austin streets.
All but the last sum have been passed before, but the old orders were rescinded
in order that the city might take advantage of the new law allowing 20 years instead of 10 for the redemption of municipal bonds.

An order was passed giving notice of the widening of Washington street to 75 feet near the Caroline J. Barker estate and appointing a hearing on the same.
Concurrent business from the council was passed as follows: Mellen Bray, et al., for laying out a new street between Cypress and Station streets; I. R. Stevens for concrete sidewalk on Crystal street and Lake avenue; Chas. S. Pulsifer, et al., for concrete sidewalk on Highland avenue.

Alderman Roffe for the street light committee reported, recommending that various petitions be granted and giving
C. T. Pulsifer, et al., leave to withdraw in reference to Kirkstall road.
Orders were then passed to locate various street lights and rescinding the old Newton Highlands school loan appropriation.

Numerous floral tributes were sent, including a wreath from Newtonville friends and other designs from Boston friends and organizations with which he had been identified.

—A GRAPHIC reporter heard two residents talking quite earnestly a day or so ago about the recent appointment of a sergeant of police, referring to Mayor Fenn's nomination of Patrolman Mitchell for that office and the action of the board in laying it on the table. One thought that it was an exceedingly wise selection. The other expressed a contrary opinion, claiming that a more experienced man should be chosen. He suggested either Frank O. Fletcher or Robert Harrison, both of whom, he thought, were eligible in every way. Experience in police business was, he said, a very important consideration in filling the new sergeant's position. He said the man promoted would be called upon to advise men, the greater number of whom were without much experience, ten of the night force being practically new men. He argued that civil service methods would be properly observed if the selection was made from among the older men provided there were among them those, apparently, well qualified for the position. Officers Fletcher and Harrison he spoke in the highest terms. Both, he

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball will reside on Henshaw street.

—The New England Associate Branch Alliance held its May meeting on Friday, May 4th, with the West Newton Branch at the Unitarian church. The morning session was opened by singing, followed by prayer and then Mrs. Kate Gannett Wells, who presided, introduced the lecturer, Rev. S. J. Barrows, who spoke most interestingly on "Prison Reform." It has been his interest for some time and he told of what he knew. He began by contrasting the prisons of 120 years ago in England before John Howard introduced his reform, with the prisons of today, and then gave an account of the system at Elmira, N. Y. Although much improved, prisons are not yet perfect and the laws are still to be bettered. Mr. Barrows had many cases to cite to illustrate his talk, which made it more vivid than mere statistics could have done. At the close of the lecture questions were asked. At 12 the roll of delegates was called with 126 responses. After the business meeting lunch was served and at two the afternoon meeting was called when Rev. Geo. W. Cooke spoke on Unity Clubs. Miss Lillian Clark, of the Church of the Exchange and Mrs. Emily Field brought the afternoon to a close with a brief paper on Alliance Work.

—John Elliot Lodge 149, A. O. U. W., gave a supper, followed by an entertainment and dance in Knights of Honor hall, Wednesday evening. The collation was prepared and served by the ladies and was especially successful. A very pleasing musical and literary program was presented during the evening, including renditions by Mr. John Elliot, of the Tenor Club, Boston, on the banjo and harmonica; a piano solo with violin obligato by Misses Pluta and Denni; readings by Miss Minnie Dean of the Emerson College of Oratory; solo on alto harp by Miss Brown and vocal renditions by Mr. Beardsley. Remarks were made by D. D. G. M. W. Everett Clark of Waltham, after which dancing was enjoyed for about two hours.

—The Newton Ladies' Home Circle held a reception in the Unitarian church, Tuesday evening, to which their husbands and friends were invited. The officers, Mrs. Fiske, Kimball, Wilson and Hadlock, received the guests, after which all adjourned to the banquet hall, and did justice to a bountiful supper prepared by Caterer Dill. Interesting remarks were made by the president, Mrs. Fiske, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Langley, Mrs. Lodge, Mrs. Marier, Mrs. Alderman, Mrs. Plummer, Alderman Hunt, Messrs. Sylvester, Sweetland, Palmer, Dr. Frisbie, Mr. Henry Hawkes, Bryant and others. The replies to some of the toasts created a great deal of merriment, especially the relating to women, and Jeremiah Higgin Dolton's plea, for he is still on the waiting list. At the conclusion of the supper a pleasant time was enjoyed in the social and instrumental music.

—The gravel courts of the Neighborhood Club, than which there are none finer in the country, will be alive with tennis players on June 25, when the annual invitation tournament of the club will begin. Any player has a right to visit the Neighborhood. Not a suggestion of professionalism, nor a tinge of rivalry among the managers, mars the pleasure of the tourney. With two years' experience in large tournaments, the Neighborhood has jumped into favor among players and lovers of the sport the country over, as an example of a successful club and a promoter par excellence of good tennis. Of the active committee, interested in tennis are Harry L. Ayer, C. T. Travell, Henry B. Day and E. F. Woods. The players who have been invited to appear there are Hobart, Wrenn, Hovey and Malcolm Chubb. Wrenn's intention to play only on grass courts may preclude his appearing. The club will issue between 3000 and 4000 tickets to be distributed gratis among people of this vicinity who enjoy the game. This year a grand stand, with a seating capacity of 1200 people, will be put up for the use of club members, their families and immediate friends.

—The Newton Ladies' Home Circle held a reception in the Unitarian church, Tuesday evening, to which their husbands and friends were invited. The officers, Mrs. Fiske, Kimball, Wilson and Hadlock, received the guests, after which all adjourned to the banquet hall, and did justice to a bountiful supper prepared by Caterer Dill. Interesting remarks were made by the president, Mrs. Fiske, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Langley, Mrs. Lodge, Mrs. Marier, Mrs. Alderman, Mrs. Plummer, Alderman Hunt, Messrs. Sylvester, Sweetland, Palmer, Dr. Frisbie, Mr. Henry Hawkes, Bryant and others. The replies to some of the toasts created a great deal of merriment, especially the relating to women, and Jeremiah Higgin Dolton's plea, for he is still on the waiting list. At the conclusion of the supper a pleasant time was enjoyed in the social and instrumental music.

THUS OUR SOULS GROW AND OUR MISSIONS ARE FULFILLED.

Reflections on the Uselessness of Shallow Water Explorers—Where Should the Blame Rest For Many Failures?—The Responsibility of Paternity.

What would be thought of a ship that was launched from its docks with flourish of music and flowing wine, built to sail the roughest and deepest sea, yet manned for an unending cruise along shore? Never leaving harbor for dread of storm. Never swinging out of the land girt bay because, over the bar, the waters were deep and rough. You would say of such a ship that its captain was a coward and the company that built it were fools.

And yet these souls of ours were fashioned for bottomless soundings. There is no created thing that draws as deep as the soul of man: our life lies straight across the ocean and not along shore, but we are afraid to venture; we hang upon the coast and explore shallow lagoons or swing at anchor in idle bays. Some of us strike the keel into riches and cruise about therein, like men-of-war in a narrow river. Some of us are contented all our days to ride at anchor in the becalmed waters of selfish ease. There are guns at every port-hole of the ship we sail, but we use them for pegs to hang clothes upon or pigeonholes to stack full of idle hours. We shall never smell powder, although the magazine is stocked with holy wrath wherewith to fight the devil and his deeds. When I see a man strolling along at his ease, while under his very nose some brute is maltreating a horse, or some coward venting his ignoble wrath upon a creature more helpless than he, whether it be a child or a dog, I involuntarily think of a double-decked whaler content to fish for minnows. Their uselessness in the world is more apparent than the uselessness of a Canardier in a park pond.

What did God give you muscle and girth and brain for if not to launch you on the high seas? Up and away with you then into the deep soundings where you belong, O belittled soul! Find the work to do for which you were fitted and do it, or else run yourself on the first convenient snag and foundler. Some great writer has said that we ought to begin life as at the source of a river, growing deeper every league to the sea, whereas, in fact, thousands enter the river at its mouth and sail inland, finding less and less water every day, until in old age they lie shrunk and gasping upon dry ground.

But there are more who do not sail at all than there are of those who make the mistake of sailing upstream. There are the women who devote their lives to the petty business of pleasing worthless men. What progress do they make even inland? With sails set and brass stanchions polished to the similitude of gold, they hover a lifetime chained to a dock and decay of their own uselessness at last, like keels that are mud-slogged. It is not the most profitable thing in the world to please. Suppose it shall please the inmates of a bedlam house to see you set fire to your clothing and burn to death, or break your bones one by one upon a rack, or otherwise destroy your bodily parts that the poor lunatics might be entertained. Would it pay to be pleasing to such an audience at such a sacrifice? We were put into this world with a clean way bill for another port than this. Across the ocean of life our way lies, straight to the harbor of the city of gold. We are freighted with a consignment from roomage hold to keep which is bound to be delivered sooner or later at the great Master's wharf. Let us be alert, then, to recognize the seriousness of our own destinies and content ourselves no longer with shallow soundings. Spread the sails, weigh the anchor and point the prow for the country that lies the other side of a deep and restless sea. Sooner or later the voyage must be made; let us make it, then, while the timber is stanch and the rudder true.

When you look at a picture and find it good or bad, as the case may be, whom do you praise or blame, the owner of the picture or the artist who painted it? When you hear a strain of music and are either lifted to heaven or cast into the other place by its harmonies or its discord, whom do you thank or curse for the beneficence or the infliction, whichever it may have proved to be, the man who wrote the score or the music dealer who sold it? You go to a restaurant and order spring chicken which turns out to be the primeval fowl. Who is to blame, the waiter who serves it or the business man of the concern who does the marketing? And so when you encounter the bad boy, whom do you hold responsible for his badness, the boy himself or the mother who trained him? I declare, as I look about me from day to day and see the men and women who play so poor a part in life, it is not the poverty of their performance that astonishes me so much as the fact that it is as good as it is.

With the parents that many boys and girls have and the training they receive I am perfectly amazed that they ever attain to even half way respectability. Did you ever stop to think, I wonder, what an awful responsibility is laid upon you with every child given to your home? If you appreciate the risk and take the responsibility I shouldn't think you would find much time for other callings. A man who is drawing up the plans for a new house attends to his business closely and doesn't go off on many picnics or sail over seas in pursuit of pleasure while his plans are pending. A man who has entered a young horse for the Derby spends most of his time training the colt. He doesn't loaf about town or read novels or lie abed late; he is alert and on hand if he expects to win the race. Carelessness and indifference never brought a winning horse under the wire yet.—Amber in Chicago Herald.

SECT. 7, CHAP. 551, ACTS OF 1892.

The Assessors, by one or more of their number, or by one or more Assistant Assessors, shall in the months of May and June in each year visit every building in their respective cities and towns and make true lists containing, as near as they can ascertain from any owner or occupant of a building, the name, age, occupation, and residence on the first day of May in the current year and preceding years, of every male person twenty years of age, and upward residing therein and liable to be assessed for a poll tax; and shall inquire at the residences of the women voters whose names are contained in the list transmitted to said Assessors by the Registrars according to the provisions of Sect. 45, Chapter 268 Acts of 1884, whether such women voters are residents thereof, and shall thereupon make a list of the women voters so found by them.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the Executors, Administrators, Trustees, or other persons interested, are required and warned to give notice of such change, and in default of such notice will be held to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

Whenever, in any case of mortgaged Real Estate, a statement is not brought in as herein provided, no tax for the then current year on such Real Estate shall be invalidated for the reason that a mortgagee's interest therein has not been assessed to him.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

PARK THEATRE—The latest achievement of that remarkable manager and producer of gorgeous and pleasing stage presentations, Mrs. Jennie Kimball, is "Hendrick Hudson," now at the Park Theatre. All through the fine representation of New York in 1609, showing Bowling Green full of happy Dutch maidens on the qui vive over the arrival of the dashing and irresistible Hendrick, who sets about making love to them all, to the final scenes representing the glories of the White City, every stitch of scenery, every thread of costume is new, absolutely spick and span new, made expressly for this production, and for this season. In transporting "Hendrick Hudson" carloads of scenery and costumes, carloads of pretty girls, and if they could be measured that way, carloads of talent and music and brightness and fun. Corinne is the chief figure, but by no means the whole show. There are sixty other people with her, and some of them famous in the profession. Throughout the performance the action of the plot is interrupted, or accelerated, by new and entertaining specialties—in fact the most entertaining features of modern vaudeville and farce-comedy are blended with the fetching music of comic opera and the manifold beauties of spectacular burlesque in "Hendrick Hudson."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—Manager A. H. Dexter of the Boston Grand Opera House "is in the hands of his friends" and they propose giving him a rousing testimonial two performance benefit. The day has been fixed for Memorial Day, Wednesday, May 30, and seats have this early been placed on sale. The entertainment to be furnished will be made up of acts from popular plays, recitations, readings and specialty acts. The stock company at the Opera House will be seen on this occasion for the last time. Manager Dexter has received almost innumerable requests for tickets and every mail brings him letters from people who desire to contribute to the success of the testimonial.

TREMONT THEATRE—The playgoer who is familiar with Francis Wilson has become accustomed to hearing of and expecting much of that comedian's productions, and the announcement that he has added another to the list of his great successes will be placed on sale. The entertainment to be furnished will be made up of acts from popular plays, recitations, readings and specialty acts. The stock company at the Opera House will be seen on this occasion for the last time. Manager Dexter has received almost innumerable requests for tickets and every mail brings him letters from people who desire to contribute to the success of the testimonial.

fluent than any he has ever before offered to the public. It is one which may fairly be said to have effaced all recollection of productions of the opera that have gone before. Mr. Edward Jakobowski, the composer of the work, has written new music to replace numbers in the original American production which were not his, well and with a view to the general improvement of the music of the opera. As to the scenery, perhaps the most noteworthy innovation is in the ball-room scene, an exceptionally rich bit, the decorations being in ouyx and gold. A view of a terrace lawn, is given, while the room proper is enriched with life-sized statues, and lighted by over a hundred electric candles. The costumes, particularly in this scene, are exceptionally rich, the designer having made some very daring combinations of color with the happiest possible results. It should be said of the costumes that they are uniformly of the style of the Directoire period, which has not been the case heretofore. Mr. Wilson has devoted as much care to the casting of the opera as to the other departments of the production.

BOSTON THEATRE—The engagement of Mr. Wilson Barrett which begins at the Boston Theatre next Monday evening is for two weeks only, and will be his last in this country, as immediately upon the close of the Boston Theatre season he will sail for Europe. His repertoire for the first week is as follows: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings, "Ben-My-Chree;" Wednesday afternoon, "The Strangers;" Thursday evening and Saturday matinee, "Claudian;" Friday evening, "The Letter." Mr. Barrett is in the best of health and spirits, and he is looking forward to his Boston engagement with many pleasant anticipations. He will not doubt be greeted by large and enthusiastic audiences, for he is a great favorite with the people of Boston and its suburbs and his clean work has won him a high place in the estimation of the amusement public of America. His productions are splendidly mounted and he is supported by an admirable company.

Bessie H. Bedloe, Burlington, Vt., had a disease of the scalp, causing her hair to become very harsh and dry, and to fall so freely that she scarcely dared to comb it. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave her a healthy scalp, rendered the hair lustrous, and made the hair thick and glossy.

Baldness is either hereditary or caused by weakness, mental exhaustion, wearing tight fitting hats, and over work and trouble. Hall's Renewer will prevent it.

The Puzzle Solved.
Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While no immediately fatal ill is among the most noxious and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the many modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising. No druggist is without it.

Your Best Young Man.
"You can't always just tell what your best young man is going to develop into," said the girl in the blue jacket. "Now, I know a young man, and when I first met him I said to myself: 'At last! Here he is! A real live man without a fad.' And I was happy in the thought that he wouldn't talk football or theosophy to me. But it didn't take me long to find out my mistake. Of all the fads I ever heard of that man's fad is the very worst. 'He does tricks with cards and can juggle things,' continued the girl in the blue jacket, as her eyes grew bright and her cheeks pinkish. 'At luncheons he fishes his handkerchief out of my muff and finds his gloves in my jacket pocket. If you hand him a glass of water, he'll turn it upside down and ask you blandly why the water doesn't run out. At home he makes life miserable for me, and when he goes away I call in the girl and have her sweep up the remnants of the tapestries that he breaks. He balances parlors, guitars, vases—in fact, everything that he can find—on the end of his nose. I can't do any thing with him. I am trying very hard to make him angry so he'll quit calling, but he is so absurdly good natured that I fear I shall never succeed.'—St. Louis Republic.

Butler and Father Ryan.
When General Butler was in command at New Orleans during the rebellion, he was informed that Father Ryan, priest and poet, had been expressing rebellious sentiments and had said he would even refuse to hold funeral services for a dead Yankee. General Butler sent for him in haste and began roundly scolding him for expressing such un-Christian and rebellious sentiments. "General," the wily priest answered, "you have been misinformed. I would be pleased to conduct funeral services for all the Yankee officers and men in New Orleans."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Wherein They Were Alike.
"My money bought those horses," said the millionaire wife to her impetuous husband as the family turnout drove up to the steps.
"Yes; it bought me too."—Newport News.

Cold Bridle Bits.
During the bitter cold weather in winter much suffering is thoughtlessly inflicted on horses by putting cold bridle bits into their mouths. If the person who does this will apply his tongue to a piece of iron on a frosty morning, he will understand at once what the suffering to the poor brutes is. To slightly warm the bits before putting them into the horse's mouth would require only a small expenditure of labor. This can be done by rubbing them with a blanket or other cloth a moment or two if other means of warming is not at hand. The beneficial results in the gentleness of the animal will amply compensate it.—Detroit Free Press.

Some women are awfully touchy. A widow has brought an action against a paper which said that her husband had gone to a happier home.

Hair cut from the heads of dead women never proves satisfactory, an experienced hairdresser having no difficulty in detecting it.

—A still alarm called the hose wagon to a brush fire on Beacon street Tuesday evening.

—Mrs. Mary F. Lewis of Baltimore, Md., is occupying one of Mrs. Trumbull's houses on Summer street.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Wheelock of Pleasant street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

—Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Crowell of Irving street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

—The L. L. P. C. give their first annual ball in Bray's hall on the evening of Wednesday, May 23.

—There are letters at the post office for Stephen G. Brown, Joseph Henry, William Moulton, G. A. Burke.

—Mr. Geo. C. Frost, who is west on a business trip, was in Minneapolis this week.

—Mr. John H. Sanborn of Institution avenue has recovered from his illness and is able to be about again.

—Martin Weiss, in White's block, under Gardner's drug store, repairs all kinds of boots, shoes and rubbers.

—Rev. Henry Kingman, who has been stopping with Mrs. Rowe on Institution avenue, has left town for the foreign mission field.

—Mrs. C. W. Pierce and Miss Elizabeth F. Pierce, who have been the guests of Mrs. Geo. A. Pierce, Centre street, have gone to Derbyline, Vt.

—The dancing class of Prof. Monroe this season was the largest he has yet had in this ward. The class is to re-open next fall in the small hall in Bray's new block on Oct. 9.

—The real estate office of S. P. Clark has been moved back this week and the city can now continue the widening of Union street as speedily as they desire.

—Mr. William A. Appleton and family of Boston have opened and are occupying for the summer season, Holbrook hill, their beautiful rural retreat at Oak Hill.

—Mrs. S. A. Shannon of Lake avenue, who has been so long ill, has recovered sufficiently to ride out. She was at the reception Tuesday evening and was warmly welcomed by her many friends.

—Miss Hortense Carver of New Orleans, and now a prominent contralto soloist in Boston, is visiting friends in Newton Centre, and it is expected will sing at the Baptist church for the two Sunday evenings following.

—The fire at the unoccupied house of the A. G. Gunderson estate, Saturday noon, was undoubtedly of incendiary origin. The fire started in the attic and burned out through the roof. Most of the damage was from water. The loss was about $300.

—If the watering cart would water Homer street from Ashton park to Walnut street it would save the public who drive and ride over that portion of the street, great annoyance from the clouds of dust which these May breezes disturb.

—The new power engine at Bray's new block was started up for the first time Tuesday and furnished power for the electric lights necessary for illuminating the hall. One short shut down, only, was necessary to cool the dynamo which became overheated.

—Mr. Richardson expects to occupy his new store in Bray's block about June first. The finish work is being rapidly pushed forward on all the stores and the above date will undoubtedly see Caterer Paxton and C. O. Tucker & Co. in their new quarters as well.

—The children of the Baptist society held a May festival Wednesday afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock in the chapel. Entertainment was furnished them by games and otherwise and they thoroughly enjoyed themselves. In the evening the older members of the society held a social which was largely attended and at which the usual social features obtained.

—Mr. James W. Martin, the well known agent of the Adams Express Co. here, was married on Wednesday evening to Miss Frances J. Carter of Boston Highlands, formerly of Newton. The ceremony was performed in the Baptist church, 127 State street, Boston Highlands, at 7 o'clock, Rev. Father Gallagher officiating. A reception was given to immediate friends and relatives at their home on Ward street, this city, where they will reside.

—The ladies of the Unitarian Society held their usual festival on Friday and Saturday, May 4 and 5. The program this year was unusually attractive, and among the many interesting features may be noted the various booths for the sale of useful and fancy articles, flowers, refreshments, etc. On Friday evening Grace Smith's operetta, "Cups and Saucers," was very creditably performed, and the acting and singing of Mr. A. C. Ferry and Miss Alice Clement were of the highest approval of the audience. An orchestra composed entirely of home talent furnished delightful music throughout the evening. The little folks of the society had their special program on Saturday, consisting of a doll drill, may pole dance and the pantomime of "Cinderella," all of which were very well given. The attendance throughout the festival was excellent, and a handsome sum was realized as the result.

—The action of the city council the first of the year in deciding to place a sergeant of police on this side of the city, was in response to an urgent desire on the part of our citizens to have a ranking officer on the south side. Naturally much interest is felt in the man who is to occupy the position, and to our citizens more directly from the fact that Station 4 is located here where the sergeant may and should eventually be stationed. An appointment was made Monday evening, but did not receive the confirmation of the board. Such a position would seem to demand a man of experience in police and court matters whom the officers, under whose authority they would feel confidence. There are patrolmen on this side of the city who have the necessary experience and qualifications, and it is not for the best interests of the citizens of Newton Centre to have an officer who does not fill those requirements. Neither would any less a man add to the self-respect and discipline of the force. The man whose appointment awaits confirmation has been on the force only four years, all of which have been spent at Waban, which is about as quiet and orderly a village, for mere force of habit, as any in the city. He has had no superior court experience and his single handed arrests during the whole four years will not number much over a dozen. He was requested to present himself last Saturday and passed a non-competitive examination, but no other officer on the force was given the opportunity of qualifying for such a position. Leaving Officer Davis, the oldest man on the force out of the case, as he is virtually a sergeant at Nonantum, there is Officer Bosworth, No. 2 at Newtonville, Officer Harrison, No. 3 at Newton and Officer Fletcher of this ward is No. 4 in length of service and experience. Then come Officers Holmes, Purcell and Moulton. The qualifications of these men for the position would seem to demand some recognition and the very least would have been to give them an opportunity to qualify for the position.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Dunbar of West Newton street, Boston, who have recently sold their residence, will occupy a charming estate at Chestnut Hill for the summer months.

—See C. S. Davis for charming house to rent, next south Wm. Noble, Esq., Pleasant street, also extra (5 rooms) rear Pleasant street, $12 a month.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday the pastor will preach in the morning on "Philomel." In the evening Rev. Chas. E. Davis of Melrose, formerly of People's church, Boston, will preach. Solo by Miss Cousins.

—Services at the Unitarian church next Sunday, Rev. P. S. Thacher will preach in the morning; Sunday school at 12. Young People's Halls Union at 7.30, to which all young people are cordially invited. Emerson class, Tuesday, 7.45. Open to all.

—The 60th anniversary exercises of the Newton Baptist Theological Institution takes place next week. Rev. Dr. N. E. Wood of Brookline will preach the Baccalaureate sermon, Sunday morning.

—A full account of the class reception in Bray's new hall is given on page two. Others than those mentioned as present were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Payne, Miss Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Smith, Miss Hill, Miss Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Foster, Mrs. H. I. Ordway and Mrs. E. F. Melcher.

—Mr. Fred H. Hovey will appear at the Longwood Tennis tournament, and will help defend the championship in doubles at Newport, but it is not certain that he will take part in any other games as his law business is taking up most of his time now.

—A grand vocal and instrumental concert for the benefit of Mr. Harry E. Mozeal, will be given in Associate's Hall, Wednesday evening, May 16, at 8 o'clock, by pupils from the Perkins Institution for the blind, assisted by Mrs. F. A. Flinders, reader, Mr. C. Harrison Prescott, cornetist, Miss Louise Lawton, accompanist. Tickets at Noble's.

—Those who attend the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday evening will have the pleasure of listening to Mr. Leonora Consens, the contralto soloist, who has a very rich voice. The custom which has been in vogue of having a different soloist every Sunday evening has seemed to be very acceptable to the large congregations who have been present.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Mr. E. A. Devine has moved into his new house on Winchester street.

—The Chautauqua Circle will meet next Monday with Mrs. Chas. Peter Clark.

—A committee of arrangements has been chosen by the Boys' Club to make ready for a picnic on Saturday, May 26th.

—Mr. A. M. Crafts is having one of his houses painted, and Mr. J. F. Edmunds is doing likewise.

—Mr. J. F. Loring now occupies his house lately purchased of S. C. Hall, at corner of Bowdoin street and Erie avenue.

—Mr. H. P. Ayer has a cellar started for a house on his lot, purchased of Mr. Crane on Griffin avenue, adjoining the estate of Mr. F. Bellamy.

—Next Sunday will be Whitsunday and the services at St. Paul's church will be of an appropriate character. The rector will officiate. Services at 9.45, 10.45 and 7.

—Mr. H. N. Wayne, superintendent of the Newton Rubber Works, has leased a house of Mr. G. F. Higgins on Circuit avenue and now occupies it.

—Mr. C. H. Newhall is having a portion of the old block recently occupied as a barby shop and a sheet iron works taken down, and will erect a two-story building in its place, for stores and tenements.

—Mr. O. J. Kimball has sold his estate and will this week, we hear, remove to Newwood. The removal of the Kimball family will be regretted by a host of friends, which they have made during their long residence here.

—Mrs. Nelson and daughter, who have spent the winter in the West, have made a short stay at the Highlands, this week, calling on friends, Mr. and Mrs. Newhall and daughter are residing on Dartmouth street, Boston.

—Mr. S. D. Whittemore and family left the Highlands on Wednesday for New York and will this week take a steamer for Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Hayward and Mrs. Gilbert accompanied them to New York, and Mrs. Hayward will make a stay with her sister, Mrs. Foye, at Brooklyn.

—Mr. L. A. Ross has sold his estate at the corner of Walnut and Hyde streets to Mr. M. G. Crane, and has purchased of Mr. Crane two lots of land on a new street, running from Griffin avenue. Mr. Ross will occupy his new house just completed on Hyde street.

—In spite of the stormy weather Newton Highlands was largely represented at the graduating exercises of the Boston school of Oratory, which took place in Boston last Friday evening. There were twenty young lady graduates, among whom were Miss Grace Vaughn Ball, whose reading was greatly enjoyed by her many friends present.

—A large number of our residents were present at the hearing at City Hall on Monday evening, on the petition of J. W. Foster and others for a fire alarm bell to be located at the corner of Forest and Chester streets. Mr. C. H. Newhall appeared as the principal remonstrant, and made vigorous opposition to the erection of poles on Forest street.

—M. E. services in Stevens hall next Sunday at 10.45; Sunday school at 12. In the evening at 7 o'clock the Epworth League will hold a special service in honor of the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Epworth League, which event is to be celebrated by all leagues generally throughout the country. The society here will follow the regular anniversary program arranged for this occasion. It includes special music, papers prepared and read by the four vice-presidents, and an address by the pastor on the origin, growth and work of the Epworth League. Mr. Herbert Williams will lead the music with his cornet, and play as a solo "Ave Maria," by Carl Basini. The occasion promises to be of unusual interest, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Rye." This young artist possesses a rare voice, as well as grace and versatility. Her many friends hope there is a brilliant future ahead for Miss Stevens.

The Enterpe held its last meeting for the year at the residence of Miss Carrie E. Crane, Wednesday evening. The arrangements for the next season were first completed, the election of officers resulting as follows: President, Miss Florence Wood; secretary, Miss Carrie Crane; treasurer, Mr. Gardner Bassett; voice committee, Mr. F. H. Wood, Miss Lillian White, Miss Page, Mr. Geo. A. Holmes and Mr. Wm. L. Peck. After partaking of the dainty refreshments provided by the hostess, dancing was next in order, and the members of the club and their invited guests enjoyed waltz and two step until a late hour. With many regrets for the long separation and many best wishes for the future, the Enterpe closed its last meeting, extending its heartiest thanks to the fair hostess for a most delightful ending to a successful season. The club will begin rehearsals again on the first Wednesday in October.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Ivers & Pond pianos, Farley, Newton

—Ernest Morrill has severed his connection with E. Coop r.

—Joseph Stead has moved into H. M. Beals' house on Procter avenue.

—John Singleton, who has been living in South Boston, has moved to this village again.

—The Newton Rubber Co. are putting up a two story addition to their mill 20x30 feet in size.

—Patrick Lilly has returned from Providence where he has been visiting relatives.

—Thomas Leach has got through at the Newton Rubber Co's Works and Geo. Hill has secured a position there.

—There are letters in the postoffice for Alvan Eastman, Wm. T. Tishler, Wm. Eastman, (Chandler place) Arthur S. Williams.

—Three big barge loads of people came out Sunday to inspect Echo Bridge Grove lots.

—Richard Procter has removed from Pennsylvania avenue to Wade's block on Chestnut street.

—The Ways and Means Society of the Baptist church met yesterday afternoon in the chapel and in the evening a social time, with a certain amount of supper, was enjoyed by the members and friends.

—Each room in the Pettee Machine Works has a ball nine and the foremen of the various departments act as captains. There is naturally a good deal of professional rivalry in the association thus formed.

—The bowling at the alley grows more interesting. June 1, the limit for the high string prize contest, approaches. Aleck Decker has a record of 616 for three strings with regulation pins. Anderson has 398 on candlepins.

—The second base ball game of Pettee Machine Shop Athletic Association, played last Saturday between Fisher's nine and McNeely's nine in Dudley's field, and the former won by the following score:

Timings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 Total
Fisher's nine 4 2 3 0 1 4 4 9 1 —33
McNeely's nine 3 1 5 0 1 3 3 5 1 —22

—The mark down sale at John Thomason's proved a great attraction Saturday afternoon and evening, and the store was filled with people to complete the sale. It was seen in a store in this great village. He was compelled to have an extra clerk and part of the time two, in the evening.

—The proprietors of the Newton mills are going to do a big job of repairing this spring which will cost a large sum and take a good while to complete. They have commenced on the mills which are being shingled. Thorough repairs all through the mill will be made and work will then be commenced on the corporation houses, fifteen or twenty in number, which will be thoroughly overhauled and repaired inside and out.

—The real representative sentiment of this place has become very thoroughly aroused during the week past, over the slams which they believe have been cast upon the people of this community by the remarks made by some of the aldermen, and their action in discriminating against this place in the matter of the 6th class liquor license. One well known Boston man whose name is on no petition, either for or against druggists license, said "The discrimination against Upper Falls druggists alone reflects upon every good citizen of this place." People here have taken this view of the case very much to heart and a petition is being circulated by some of the citizens which is being signed by all of the representative citizens of this place, and already within a few days nearly 100 have affixed their signatures. And these do not include in any instance the so-called "sentiment of the place" which some of the aldermen were led to think signed the petitions which came before them. As the GRAPHIC stated several weeks ago the best public sentiment of the place is opposed to legislation which singles out their village alone for censure.

—The action of the city council the first of the year in deciding to place a sergeant of police on this side of the city, was in response to an urgent desire on the part of our citizens to have a ranking officer on the south side. AN ANIMATED NEWSPAPER.

An Old Man Reads the News and Tells It to His Customers.

"Speaking of queer occupations," said a Fourth street merchant, "there is an old fellow down town who makes a good living reading the newspapers. Of course everybody reads the evening paper, but in the rush of business the morning papers may get lost in the shuffle. The old man gets out of bed at an early hour and gets a copy of each of the morning papers as early as they can be bought. He then reads them exhaustively, and by the time business men get down town he has thoroughly mastered all branches of the news of the day. He is well educated and bright and has a keen perception. He then starts out, dropping in on first one and then another of his subscribers, for he lets his services by the week, just as a newspaper.

"He enters a bank where everybody is busy. He knows the likes and dislikes of every one of his customers, and he entertains each for a few moments with the news of his choice, and then with a few passing remarks about the general news of the day passes on to the next. You will find him discussing the silver question one moment and race horses the next. He can tell the tips for the day and the prices of silver. He knows the latest in art and literature and is thoroughly posted in politics. He is a walking cyclopedia. He is not only a daily newspaper, but a whole file of newspapers, with a lightning reference index. He tells you the news of the day, and if asked will refresh your memory on past events. He is strictly business, and while he answers every question asked by a subscriber freely he absolutely will not talk to the nonsubscriber. If you want to talk to him about the happenings of the day, you must pay a week's fee in advance. Then he will see you every day for a week. If you are at your office regularly, he will come to you daily, but if you fail to be on hand there that is your loss. One beauty of his system is that he has no bad debts. He has a preferred list of 10, whom he charges $1 a month, and upon whom he waits at any hour they name. Then his common customers pay 10 cents a week, and he agrees to see them all before noon. When a subscriber's time is up, the fact is mentioned, and unless payment is made at once you can't get the old fellow to open his mouth. Pay him, and he is at your service.

"He is strictly business and does not regard himself as an excrescence on the face of business, nor is he so regarded by his customers. He is a kindly old fellow who has a smile for everybody, and for whom everybody has a pleasant word. He does not bear tales, but confines himself strictly to what is in the papers, and thus avoids the responsibility for tales he might otherwise be able to tell."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

The Law of the Jungle.

The law of the jungle, which never orders anything without a reason, forbids every beast to eat man except when he is killing to show his children how to kill, and then he must hunt outside the hunting grounds of his pack or tribe. The real reason for this is that man killing means, sooner or later, the arrival of white men on elephants, with guns, and hundreds of brown men with gongs and rockets and torches. Then everybody in the jungle suffers. The reason the beasts give among themselves is that man is the weakest and most defenseless of all living things, and it is unsportsmanlike to touch him. They say, too—and it is true—that man eaters become mangy and lose their teeth.—Rudyard Kipling in St. Nicholas.

A Race of Giant Cannibals.

Unlikely as it may seem to some who read these lines, it is a fact nevertheless that there is an island in the gulf of California, not more than 60 miles from the Mexican mainland, which is inhabited by the remnants of a race of giant cannibals. This startling discovery was made by a west coast naturalist early in 1891 and has since been confirmed by both United States and Mexican explorers. Mr. McNamara, the scientist referred to, has a photograph of one of the men found by him on the island, that individual, although not one of the largest, being over 7 feet in height. The island upon which they were found is known as the island of Ite de Leri, and the original discoverer says that there is every evidence of cannibalism among them.—St. Louis Republic.

The car was stopped and the woman was found to be injured but slightly but was considerably scared. No fault could be found with either conductor or motorman on the car.

—The jewelry, which was reported as stolen from Mr. Luther Adams' residence, has all been recovered. No other jewelry was found in her possession, and further search showed that the watch was the only article missing. The woman was released on bonds, as the court officials thought her story was true.

—An alarm from box 24 shortly after 9 o'clock, Monday evening, summoned the fire department to a fire in the dry goods store of M. Mahoney & Co., conducted by the Misses Mahoney, on Watertown street. Hose 8, only a few rods distant, soon had water and extinguished the blaze. The plate glass show window valued at about $50, was smashed and a good deal of damage was done by water. The damage was about $200 partly covered by insurance.

—The Newton Flower and Fruit Mission will begin its work for the season, Tuesday, May 22. All contributions of flowers, fruit, eggs and vegetables may be left in the ladies' room of the Newton station, between 8 and 9 on Tuesday and Friday mornings. It is hoped that the mission will be well remembered, for the gifts are distributed among the sick in the hospitals and the poor in their tenement houses, and it is hard for one who enjoys all the beauties of summer in a city like Newton to see that the poor have no flowers and so on. It would take a column to describe them all, and then the list of adjectives would fail. Those who wish to know the latest possibilities in plant culture should see the flowers before more orders are filled, as every one who visits it orders a dozen or more plants. The ordinary pansies peddled from wagons bear but little resemblance to these choicest specimens of the pansy family.

—The Nonantum gymnasium brought to work of a successful season, to close with an "Extra Visitors Day" on Tuesday of last week. Every available space was occupied, but as much floor space was of necessity reserved for those who were to participate in the exercises, very many who had expressed a desire to be present were unable to procure admission. The exercises were varied in character and extremely interesting. The program included March, free developing exercises, scarf drill, chest weights, rings, fencing, parts of the special work illustrated on the developing appliances, rowing machine, travelling parallel, chest expansion, upright parallel, bridge, chair leg machine, dumb bell, Indian clubs, running vault, etc. Little Stella Field easily carried off the honors, being cheered all by the marvelous strength combined with charming grace, she displayed. Miss Rose Loring won well merited admiration and applause by her general excellence in every event and especially in the running vault in which we venture to say, but few athletes could have excelled her. We understand that a greatly increased membership is already assured for next season.

—The annual piano recital of the pupils of Miss Alice F. Peirce took place in her music room, Eliot street, last Saturday afternoon, and afforded great pleasure to a large gathering of friends from Boston, Jamaica Plain, Dorchester and the Newtons, where Miss Peirce has become widely known, and is highly appreciated. Saturday's performance reflected the greatest credit upon her method. It is rarely young performers produce such clear finished tones, and such accurate time and phrasing. The program was made interesting and varied, by two piano works, for both four and eight hands, besides the usual duets and solo numbers, and further by two selections on the violin, rendered by Mr. Arthur Farwell, a rising young musician of Boston, who, in response to an encore played the very attractive "Polish Dance" by Wieniawski. The audience were particularly pleased by the fact that Miss Peirce played the accompaniments for the violin, and needless to say, most acceptably. Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Chopin, Liszt, Rubinstein, Hofmann, Moszkowski and Chaminade were among the composers presented, and several of the young ladies played long and most difficult pieces finely, without notes. Special mention should be made of the quartet of young ladies who played the "Serenade" and "Rakoczy March," the Misses Elms, Davis, Richardson and Inslee. Let us hope Miss Peirce will continue to give us this treat at least once a year, and we would like to suggest semi-annually also.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE COMMON COUNCIL TRANSACTIONS CONCERNING BUSINESS AND ADJOURN.

The common council held a meeting Monday evening at City Hall for the purpose of finishing in concurrence the business transacted last week by the aldermen.

President Knapp and Councilman Briston were absent, and Councilman Weed called the meeting to order and on a motion from the floor of the chamber appointed Councilmen Dagen and Bullard a committee to collect ballots for a temporary chairman. The ballot resulted in nine votes for Councilman Weed, one for Dagen and one for Tolman, the former being accepted.

After the records had been read and approved hearings ordered for 7:45 o'clock were opened for the laying of sewers in Suffolk road, Gasometer court, from the B. & A. railroad to Crescent street, from Elms street to the B. & A. railroad, in Glen avenue and Beacon street, Essex road, Woodman street, from Hunnewell terrace to Barnes street and for rounding the corner of Central street and Woodland road.

A communication was received from Sarah E. Barnes remonstrating against taking her land for the use of which she claimed damages at 25 cents per foot as it damaged the best part of her property without any corresponding increase in value. This was received and filed and the hearings were closed.

Orders were passed in concurrence for the construction of sewers, etc. on which hearings had just been granted.

Councilman Parker presented a petition from William Byers, et al., for concrete sidewalks adjoining their estates on Lake avenue and Lake terrace. Referred.

Councilman Green presented a petition from 125 residents of Newtonville, which read as follows:

"The undersigned taxpayers, and parents of the children in the Adams school district respectfully petition your honorable body to take steps at once for the erection of a ten room school building to be constructed of brick and stone, which shall take the place of the old school building recently visited by fire."

The list was headed by Charles F. Avery. It was referred to the public property committee after an explanation to the effect that it had been held since April 27, its date, by request of the superintendent of schools, who desired that the report of the school committee in reference to the matter might precede it.

Under the head of unfinished business laid over under the rules, orders were passed in concurrence approving $78,800 for June expenses of the city, $300 for office expenses of the city solicitor and authorizing the construction of various sidewalks.

The council then adjourned.

THE CITY'S WATER SUPPLY.

HEARING TO RESTRAIN NEEDHAM CITIZENS FROM POLLUTING CHARLES RIVER.

The suit of the city of Newton for an injunction against Oliver H. Perry and another of Needham to restrain them from polluting the Charles river at that point, which stream forms the city's water supply, was Friday begun in the supreme court before Judge Allen.

The city, under special laws from the Legislature, has the right to take 5,000,000 gallons a day from the Charles river and also the right to take lands in Needham bordering on the stream as a protection to the purity of its supply. It has a pumping station, a filtering basin and other works in that town, and near to these is the land of Perry, which comprises 120 acres.

Perry kept a piggery upon his place, being a building 250 feet long, and also has another building 110 feet long, which is used to keep cattle. It is claimed that the refuse matter from the piggery and barn have formed a nuisance about the land, and endangers the purity of the city's water supply.

In 1880, the city, by virtue of a statute theretofore passed, took Perry's land, for the purpose of extending its water system by way of a protection to the supply, and in 1892, upon Perry's suit in the superior court, a jury awarded him $16,000 damages, which were paid him in November of that year by the city.

The city claims that by the taking and awarding of the damages it became the owner of the property, while Perry now contends that he owns the fee in the land, and that the city obtained but an easement in it to use it for the necessary incidents of its water system.

Some time ago Perry was notified by the city to vacate his piggery and barn, but this he has refused to do, as he claims that they are situated nearly 1000 feet from the river and in no way contaminate the water thereof. The city has asked for damages against the defendants.

Plumbing Inspector.

The master plumbers of this city have been in a ferment for some months over the failure of the City Council to appoint a permanent inspector of plumbing. The feeling that injustice is being done by the manner in which the city is now having the inspecting done temporarily has led to the circulation of a petition asking for a hearing before the City Council. When the new law, requiring cities to provide a "practical" plumber as inspector of plumbing, went into effect, a temporary inspector was appointed in the person of Fred T. Burgess of West Newton. Soon after this appointment the Board of Health gave notice of an examination of applicants for the office of inspector, which resulted in five plumbers taking the examination and passing with good percentages. This was two or three months ago. No appointment has yet been made for permanent inspector, and some of the plumbers are getting very anxious to know what occasions the delay.

If ever a man feels like "a poor worm of the dust," it is when he suffers from that tired feeling. Ayer's Sarsaparilla removes this discouraging physical condition and imparts the thrill of new life and energy to every nerve, tissue, muscle, and fibre of the whole body.

"The flowers that bloom in the Spring" are not more vigorous than those persons who purify their blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The faded, listless, and careworn countenance takes on a new and more cheerful expression, and the system is invigorated.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

MISS BLOOD OF AUBURNDALE INSTANTLY KILLED.

The details of a terrible accident by which Miss Marianna W. Blood of Auburndale was instantly killed, were given in the daily papers of Tuesday. A party of teachers from Mr. Moody's school at Northfield, were taking a holiday drive, Monday afternoon, and had driven to Brattleboro, Vt. The party consisted of the Misses Blood, Miss Burt, Miss Wardwell, the matron of the school, and Miss McDuffy, a nurse, and they were driving down one of the steepest streets in that town, when the neck yoke broke, and the horses ran away all being thrown out. The youngest Miss Blood struck an iron grating, killing her instantly, while the others were taken up mangled and bleeding. They were conveyed to the nearest house, where they are being cared for by local physicians. Two of the injured are found to be fatally hurt.

HOW IT OCCURRED.

The accident caused great excitement in Northfield, where all were favorites. The young women left Northfield Monday morning about 10 o'clock with two horses from Caldwell's livery stable there, for a pleasure drive to Brattleboro, stopping about a mile below the village to eat their lunch, and where they must have broken the horses' neck yoke. A farmer fixed the break with a rope and they drove on.

The accident happened on one of the steepest hills leading into the village, on South Main street. Miss Marianna W. Blood, aged 28, from Auburndale, a teacher in the school, was driving. The horses came down the hill at a frightful pace and at an angle in the roadway the carriage slewed into the gutter, when Miss Blood was thrown with terrific force headlong upon an iron grating, mangle her face beyond recognition. When picked up she was dead, her body being conveyed to Hackley & Moran's undertaking rooms.

THE INJURED.

The other occupants of the carriage were thrown violently at the same time. Miss Blood went out, all striking on their heads. The injured were immediately taken to Mr. Akley's house, near the scene of the accident, and late in the afternoon three, Miss Wardwell, 24 years old, of Berlin, N. H., a teacher; Miss McNeilly, 28, of Northfield, a nurse, and Miss Mary Blood, 45, matron and aunt of Miss Marianna, also of Auburndale, were taken to the handsome home of George E. Crowell, where everything possible was done for their comfort.

General Estey, treasurer of the school, has done much for their comfort. Miss Clara M. Burt of Plainfield, N. J., was seriously injured about the head, one ear being nearly severed. She was unable to be moved.

Mr. Moody came up from Northfield on the train and, after doing all in his power for the comfort of the injured, returned home, as he said, for the purpose of allaying the great excitement at the schools, where all were beloved.

NO PUBLIC WEDDING.

Mr. Moody was visibly affected and said Miss Blood was one of his very best teachers. He was accompanied by Miss Hill, another teacher, who, with two others, are caring for the injured. Mr. Moody wrote the following for the press: "On account of the fatal accident which happened today at Brattleboro, Vt., in which one teacher in the Northfield Seminary was instantaneously killed and others seriously injured, the marriage of Miss Emma Moody to Mr. A. P. Pitt, which was announced for Wednesday, May 10, will not be a public one."

FUNERAL SERVICES.

Memorial services were held Tuesday afternoon at Stone Hall, Northfield, out of respect to Miss Marianna W. Blood who was accidentally killed Monday.

Mr. Moody spoke pathetically of the loss of a beloved teacher. Other speakers were Rev. Messrs. Torrey of Chicago, Cook of Northfield, George C. Needham, the evangelist, and Miss Silverthorne, one of the teachers. The service was attended by 500 students of the Northfield Seminary and Mt. Hermon school.

The body of Miss Blood was taken to Auburndale Tuesday by her father. The others of the injured are expected to recover.

Our Fine Roads!

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:—

So much has been said about the necessity for good roads, and the way to make them, from the standpoint of the bicycle manufacturer and the cyclist, that the makers of our streets could hardly be blamed if they forget that the roads are primarily for the use of teams, and that they leave horses out of consideration when making their roads.

Here in Newton we pride ourselves on our fine roads, "sand papered" roads they are called, and while they may be perfect for the rubber tires of the wheelmen, they are very destructive to horses' feet.

The roads are made of crushed stone, rolled and pressed until the roadbed is as hard and unyielding as granite, and after a year or two of driving over them, horses are apt to become "tender forward" and their usefulness is gone.

The most important part of a horse, in these days, is his feet, but his feet were not made for fast driving over a granite road bed. The evil can be mitigated somewhat by the use of leather plates under these shoes, but these only postpone the evils that are sure to come.

But it is to the question whether there is not some means of building a satisfactory road, which will not be quite as destructive. Lay down a part of it in granite, if need be, for the wheelman, but why give them the whole street?

Just at present, while street repairing is going on in every street, the greatest trouble comes from the small stones that are left loose in the road, and which are apt to get wedged into the horses' hoofs, in some cases causing serious injuries. These loose stones are very numerous at present, and are causing many complaints. Many people are asking where the section men are, of whom so much was said a year or two ago, and whose duty it was supposed to be to look after such things. Are there no unemployed men in Newton who could be set to work picking up such stones?

THEOLOGICAL INSTITUTION.

THE GRADUATION EXERCISES—BACCALAUREATE SERMON—ALUMNI MEETING—ADDRESS BEFORE KNOWLES RHETORICAL SOCIETY—TRUSTEES' DINNER—STUDENTS' RECEPTION.

The sixty-ninth anniversary week of the Newton Baptist Theological Institution was inaugurated on Sunday morning by Rev. N. E. Wood, D.D., of Brookline, who preached the baccalaureate sermon in the First Baptist church.

The service was very well attended, every seat being occupied and the subject of the discourse and its treatment proved of more than the usual interest and worthy of mature consideration and thought.

In the opening service Rev. Richard Montague, D.D., the pastor, was assisted by Rev. Alvah Hovey, D.D., the president of the Institution.

Rev. Dr. Wood took as the theme of his address, "The Pre-Eminence of Jesus Christ," from the last clause of Colossians 1, 18, "That in all things He might have the pre-eminence."

Taking the rose as an illustration, he said there was not a great diversity of opinion as to its class, structure and habits of life. These various conditions were by actual knowledge, and the capacity of man's intellect wholly compassed and understood. But there is a marked diversity of knowledge and opinion among men in the study of God. The human intellect is too small in compass to exercise that power of knowledge and derive conclusive and uniform opinions relative to the word of God.

Paul has given but a very brief description in his Revelations of what he saw, leaving us to apprehend only a small portion of a very wide area.

There is always an inevitable diversity of opinion in man's thought of God occasioned by the various atmospheres through which man sees Him, and the personal relations between God and man would be very difficult to ascertain. Certain truths get obscured in the study of theology, and man is apt to magnify those truths which appeal more directly to his nature. The student and preacher should be careful to map out the highways and persistently follow them in their teachings, being careful not to turn aside from the central truths. The "pre-eminence of Jesus Christ" must be borne in mind; he is the head of the church and this is a motto which no church should lose sight of. He is the beginning and the goal not alone, but in Him all things converge and all things radiate from Him. In Him all things consist. His mighty sovereignty was shown in the beginning and his divine sovereignty has stood out in many minds to dominate all religion. Some have set this as the corner stone of their faith. They put upon one hand, God, the Almighty ruler and upon the other, man, His slave. We of today cannot but agree that the scriptures exhibit Christ in any such arbitrary way. But it is nevertheless true that men of history have been influenced by this "majestic sovereignty." This undue appreciation of His "sovereignty" has left a craving in the heart and led to unwarranted conception of God.

It is not His sovereignty, but Himself which is to have the pre-eminence in all things. Jesus Christ has become pre-eminent as the revelation of God to man. Whether in the Old or New Testament as well as in the Trinity, Christ stood out most prominent. He reveals God's qualities of grace in the fatherhood and sonship. He offers the memorable prayer that "they may be one even as the Father and I are one." The human and divine nature are not so unlike that they cannot coalesce. Christ's coming from God to man was to him humiliation, while to us it means exaltation. The possibility of union between God and man has become realism in Jesus Christ. We with Christ may become the sons of God. The full meaning of holiness, love and mercy, continued the preacher, is demonstrated in the coming, the life and death of Christ. There was previously only an ethical knowledge of the holiness of God. Jesus Christ is the first revelation in which the clearer view of holiness is shown. His coming showed conclusively what God's holiness is and what it requires; not by His preaching, but by His life was this proved.

The truest conception and exactions of the moral law can be obtained by studying the life of Jesus Christ. The high standard of His life here below demonstrated the ethical nature of God and it is only when one endeavors to imitate it, that they know how high it is. The attitude of the Son, and that life followed by death was imperatively necessary to reveal to us the requirements of the Father. The moral law which Christ embodied demonstrates His pre-eminence and since He has become incarnate the world has come to appreciate the full compass of love, although understanding the meaning in the abstract. The law of love toward one another, which we call brotherhood, had been clearly stated in the ancient time, but men did not understand its breadth nor live in its spirit. Harsh, persecuting, deadly deeds have been done under the name of brotherhood.

"The hard selfishness of human life has taken on a thin veneer of so-called brotherliness and sharp antagonism, under the name of trade, of ambition, of greed, of pride, and have so interpreted it that every fibre quivers with hate and bitterness. The long and crowded records of lusts, robberies, brutalities and wars show how little the law of love toward one another has been understood.

What thoughtful man is there who is not perplexed and anxious over the seething eruption of social and industrial discontent in this most civilized country of the globe? What is the significance of all this movement and revolution? Men answer back, ignorance of political economy, failure to study the laws of trade, ignorance of the deepest principles of commerce in its relations to the social organism, neglect of study of sociology.

"To some men it seems as if labor had gone mad and, like blind old Samson, was bending itself to pull down the pillars of society that all might perish in a common ruin." The life of Christ was the true illustration of brotherhood.

His incarnation showed His lordship

in the realm of love, but took on the form of mercy at His death. Mercy had no power in the presence of duty, but the cross was needed to complete the objects for which He came. We are reminded of His blood and it was through this redeeming power that God has restored to man, his sonship. We could become so only through Him.

Jesus Christ has been the only exact revelation of the interior life of God and He should be looked to as the way. Do not mistake in your ministry, he continued, or let any unbalance the pre-eminence of Jesus Christ. Many preachers in New England today have fallen into error in leaving out of their teachings the pre-eminence of Jesus Christ. He is the centre of the Christian hope. As you go forth, do not preach a partial or an unbalanced gospel. It is not enough to preach the incarnation alone; it is not enough to preach the duty of Jesus alone. Do not let that misty modern and Bostonian god, the "Zeit Geist," make you idolatrous and de-throne our Lord Jesus Christ. He will be your Judge, but he is also our Redeemer, brother, friend and Lord. His spirit should animate all; be ever looking at his face and portraying this face to others that they may know and be transformed into the likeness of Christ.

Extending his blessing to the class, the address closed, and the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Hovey.

THE EXAMINATIONS.

On Monday, commenced the usual examinations attended upon anniversary week. At 2 p. m. the advanced section of the junior class was examined in rapid reading of Hebrew by Prof. C. R. Brown. This was followed at 3 o'clock by examination in Old Testament interpretation by Mr. Hatch. In the evening at 7 p. m. Prof. George Bullen examined the classes of the English department in theology.

On Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock Prof. Hovey examined the senior class in theology and in the afternoon at 3 the middle class was examined in homiletics by Prof. J. M. English. The junior class submitted to examination in New Testament interpretation at 7 o'clock conducted by Prof. Rush Rhees.

Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock Prof. J. B. Thomas examined the middle class in church history and at 10 o'clock the French students were examined by Mr. Williams in polemic.

A NEW BUILDING.

The trustees held a meeting at which considerable business of an important nature resulted after a long session. President E. C. Fitz was absent and Mr. William A. Monroe of Cambridgeport was chosen chairman, and the board took note under advertisement the question of a new library building which has for several years been demanded as the present buildings have become too limited for the increasing needs of the institution. The discussion resulted in the appointment of a committee to procure plans and specifications for a new building on the hill, which will be used for the library and will also contain a chapel and class rooms. The building will cost $65,000 and the necessary funds are now in the hands of the board.

Prof. Rush Rhees, who has been associated professor of Biblical interpretation, New Testament, was promoted by vote of the board to full professorship. The class meeting held at 1:30 o'clock was an occasion of sociability for the students of the institution, in which reminiscences of the year past were revived and the members of the graduating class received the God speed of their fellow associates.

THE ALUMNI.

The annual alumni meeting took place in the Baptist meeting house at 3:15 o'clock. The afternoon trains brought many members of the alumni, the attendance being fully as large as usual.

Prof. Brown called the meeting to order and in the temporary absence of Dr. Gordon, who was delayed at the trustees meeting, Rev. Dr. W. Faunce of Pawtucket, R. I., was chosen president. After congregational singing the scriptures were read by Rev. N. M. Williams of Newton and prayer offered by Rev. D. B. Ford of Haverhill. Dr. Faunce then introduced Rev. F. W. Ryder of Lawrence who addressed the alumni on "The Study of Humanity;" text, "Let the man of God be furnished unto every good work." Nothing in God's handwork can equal in interest the study of the human being, and no history is so diversified or engaging as the career of man. No spectacle is more amazing than the versatility of humanity. The Christian ministry is often weakened by too little importance being given the study of the individual man, and it is a phase that calls for great attention from the preacher. This latter in his work must, in order to achieve the best results, become acquainted with those whom he would lead to Christ. There is more than simple study of the Bible that the preacher should look to in his work, not that the word should be belittled in any sense, for it stands pre-eminent, but it should be supplemented by a study of nature, the handwork of God, and the study of humanity. The preacher is the agent of God, a redeemer in a secondary sense to bring souls into the kingdom, but human nature is such that each individual demands study from the Christian. To enable the latter to successfully go to work to win his soul to Christ. It is in this way only that the minister is able to rightly and effectively preach the gospel to his people. Christ in this work displayed rare tact in dealing with men because He knew the typography of every soul, and was thus able to adapt Himself to every condition. The church of today is at a critical point. It is an age in which new societies and organizations are springing up on every hand to do the work which the church should rightfully perform. The preacher of today must adapt himself to the changing conditions and keep pace with the live questions of the day which come as a challenge on every hand. There is a vast determined movement to uncover the world's wickedness and find a remedy, and unless the church is alive to the requirements of the hour some other may supplant it. Not that Christianity will decline. The church has passed through critical stages before and it can now, but it must make room in its attitude and teachings for all that concerns mankind, and it is through the preacher that the church must be led to a realization of its position and to greater influence and power.

At the conclusion of the address Dr. Faunce called Rev. A. J. Gordon, D. D., the president, to the chair and the report of the secretary was then read by Prof. Brown. He presented the following list of deaths during the year just passed: David Foster Lunan, class of '81, died in Detroit, aged 73 years. Clarence Gardiner, class of '88, died in New London, N. H., aged 35 years. Asa Perkins, class of '61, died in Limerick, Me., aged 80 years. Andrew Jackson Colney, class of '73, died in Danbury, Ct., aged 90 years. Henry Martin Tucker, class of '62, died in Raleigh, N. C., was founder and president of Smith University, aged 63 years.

John Fletcher Ashley, class of '59, died in Cambridge, aged 62 years.

Franklin Merrill, class of '40, died in Sharon, aged 84 years.

John Alden, class of '84, died in Providence, R. I., aged 88 years.

The report of the entertainment committee was followed by dismissal. The alumni luncheon was served in Sturtevant Hall at 5:30. A number of students and friends availed themselves of the invitation extended by the entertainment committee to join the alumni, and the gathering was one of great pleasure. At its conclusion Rev. Dr. Montague acted as toast master and after short talk introduced Rev. Dr. Griggs of Colorado Springs who was followed by Rev. C. A. Eaton of Natick, Rev. A. J. Gordon, D. D., of Boston, and Rev. Robert Cameron of Chelsea.

ADDRESS BY REV. A. C. DIXON.

The church was filled at the evening service to hear Rev. A. C. Dixon of Brooklyn, N. Y. speak. The same tasteful decorations of white bell like, dogwood flowers from the tree on the hill and of purple and white lilacs, obtained as in the afternoon.

The double quartet furnished music at this service. W. B. Shumway presided and opening prayer was by Dr. Hovey.

Rev. A. C. Dixon divided the world into two great classes "Yourself and Other People." The latter is the greater, but the former are more important, and nothing claims the attention of the preacher more than the relation of the individual to the church, community, state and world. It is the primary essence of righteousness is right doing. Some take the ground that if you regenerate society you can save the individual, others think the opposite. What a man thinks of other people is the index of his own character. If a man says all men are thieves, put him down as a robber. The good opinion of a man will increase in comparison as we think ill. It is a healthy thing sometimes for a preacher to discover what his enemy thinks of him.

We owe it to ourselves and others to be ourselves, to work out our own salvation. There are some who are willing to work out the salvation of Spurgeon, Talmage or some other great man, but they fail to get to work on their own.

The tendency of pupils to imitate the characteristics of great men who have been their teachers was illustrated. The tendency of the age, he continued, is toward good imitation. He was a firm believer in evolution backward. There was more tendency in men to become monkeys than for monkeys to become men. Man evolves the wrong way.

Be yourself; live in a glass house and let God look through the window.

Because you are self-centred, other men will be self-centred in the same way. A great deal is heard about American liberty and we are continually emphasizing liberty, liberty, but we may emphasize it too much until it flattens out into mere anarchy and the flaunted liberty of the church may become ecclesiastical anarchy.

Each has a right to fight for his rights, and to surrender those rights for the uplifting of others is noble. Your life ends right where the other man's begins and it is when man oversteps that limit that he gets hurt. There is no comparison between sin and good, light and darkness, God or Mammon, but a tendency of the time is to syndicate everything. They form trusts of every conceivable kind and the next thing will be church trusts. An old deacon of his, said the Lord was "binding them in bundles to burn them." The mission of the pulpit seems to be not to fight evil, but to make great syndicates; to fraternize. They look upon the gospel of God as the sunlight from heaven, the gently falling dew, but the Christian must remember that he is also a God of lightning and that there is in addition to the lamblike side of his nature a lionlike side for those who do not obey him. There is a great need of the old Puritan steadfastness in these times.

Another trouble with the churches today is there are so many dead preachers. Vacant churches are caused by vacant preachers who are not alive to the times and the needs of the day. The successful preacher must learn to laugh and be cheerful over these little errors and faults which worry men.

"I had rather fight Goliath than a New Jersey mosquito," he continued; "it is the mosquitoes of the life vexations, the friction of life that kills more men than Goliath's which they encounter. Even Napoleon Bonaparte, who could march upon Moscow and fight on the field of Waterloo, would turn faint and pale at the sight of a cat."

The preacher should be just as fully convinced of a life as a Heaven. That retribution is just as sure as his reward.

Man is all the time striving to get, and giving nothing. Many Christians are constantly asking for more favors from God and never giving anything. The contraction of some men's lives is very much greater than their extension, and some men become so mean and small and contemptible that it would take a very powerful microscope to see 50,000,000 of them on the point of a needle.

The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Hovey.

THE GRADUATION.

The day of days in this anniversary week was on Thursday, when the concluding exercises in graduation took place.

The Annual Historical Society held its annual business meeting the morning in Colby hall and at 10 o'clock the Baptist meeting house was thrown open for the final exercises. The opening of the service was delayed only a few moments by the procession of divines from the Hill, who marched down in double file making a very imposing array of divinity in the more than 100 gentlemen composing the procession. The church was completely filled with people and upon the platform sat the professors of the Institution and their proteges, the members of the graduating class.

The opening anthem by the double quartet preceded the prayer, which was offered by President Alvah Hovey, and a selection by the choir introduced the addresses by the divinity students under the direction of President Hovey.

Walter Reynolds Bartlett spoke upon "Christian Hope a Factor in the Social Problem."

Christian hope is an important factor in the social problem asserting itself through the individual. Writers upon society will not admit that Christianity has a place in society, and ridicule its being brought into the social world. Individual revolution will revolutionize the world and through individuality can Christianity become a ruling factor in society.

Speaks through the Boothbay (Me.) Register of the beneficial results he has received from a regular use of Ayer's Pills. He says: "I was feeling sick and tired and my stomach seemed all out of order. I tried a number of remedies, but none seemed to give me relief until I was induced to try the old reliable Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but I feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so finely sugar-coated that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are in need of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills. They will do good."

The House has passed the Norwegian bill for the regulation of the liquor traffic by the decisive vote of 132 to 39. There was a very warm discussion over the bill, and it was hotly opposed, but evidently the majority was in favor of listening to the great majority of people who wish that the bill should be given a trial. Among the most interesting speeches in favor of the bill were those made by Mr. Abbott of Watertown and Mr. Roe of Worcester.

Mr. Abbott said he had felt the sting of the liquor evil, but it was beyond the power of man to completely crush out the traffic. Stamp it out where you may, extirpate it where you will, said he, you cannot totally eliminate the evil, and the question involves itself into the proposition of whether or not we shall place the business in the hands of men whose sole desire is to profit by the traffic, or in the hands of men who have a desire to regulate the evil.

Mr. Roe said, to use a paraphrase, he loved the Norwegian system for the enemies it has made. When he saw the head and front of the men who opposed it he concluded that there must be something in the system to injuriously affect the interests of the liquor trade. The campaign, he said, was managed by the agents of the liquor interests. From this fact he thought that these must be able to find something in the system which he could approve. He thought that the liquor traffic should be chained, even if it could not be conquered. The speaker never voted anything but "no" on the liquor question, but he endorsed the system because he believed that it would eliminate from the nefarious business many of its hideous features. Liquor selling is not a legitimate business, but a traffic that is only tolerated by communities, and the system proposes something which may cure the evil.

The committee on Cities gave a hearing on Tuesday, on the report of the joint board of Park Commissioners and State Board of Health, for the improvement of Charles River. There was a large attendance present, including members from the North Side Improvement Society, the Hunsell Hill Improvement Society, and many citizens, all of whom favored the report. While the committee has not yet reported, it is understood that they have decided favorably, and will present a bill for the appropriation of $300,000, for buying the land, up to the Waltham line, under the Park act, by which 50 per cent is contributed by Boston, and the rest by the cities and towns interested, which are in this case, Cambridge, Brookline, Newton and Watertown. That the district this side of the river belongs to Watertown and not to Newton, will be greatly in our favor when the cost is assessed, as Newton has but a small amount of territory bordering on the river, up to the Waltham line, and its part of the assessment will be comparatively small.

The Boston fire of Tuesday showed the importance of watchfulness and care at the first starting of a fire. The crowd on the ball grounds had no idea of anything serious when they first saw the flames, and no effective means were taken to extinguish them, although there was an engine company across the street, which could have been summoned in a moment. Had anyone had the presence of mind to do this, the disastrous conflagration would have been averted and 400 families would not have been rendered homeless. After the fire department was finally called out, the fire had gained such headway under the high wind that prevailed, that nothing could stop it, and it was only by the best of management that it was kept from spreading further. The loss is the more serious as it falls mainly on poor families, who lost all their furniture and clothing, on which they had no insurance.

The State Senate evidently is not entirely owned by corporations, judging by its vote against stock watering. Now if it will only keep up to this pitch of virtue all through the session, people will begin to have more confidence in the State Senate, though it appears to be too late to bring about that state of feeling for the National Senate. When the framers of the constitution wrote that the Senate would be filled with men conspicuous for their ability and statesmanship they were evidently indulging in an iridescent dream. They knew little in those days of "practical politics."

A CORRESPONDENT objects to the granite-like condition of Newton roads and thinks such roads were built more for wheelmen than for horses. The former's ideal of a good road differs a good deal from that of the horseman, but judging from the talk of the bicycle manufacturers, they are the only ones to be considered.

THE Watertown Board of Trade and Young Men's Assembly gave a "Newspaper Night," Wednesday evening, with a dinner and other attractions. The newspaper men from neighboring cities were the guests of Mr. Fred G. Barker of the Enterprise, and the affair was a great event for Watertown.

The Executive Council is a very useful appendage for Governor Greenhalgh to have, and illustrates the old proverb that second thoughts are best. But the Governor will probably not be so hasty hereafter in making appointments.

THE Boston Globe thinks no man ought to be allowed to cut his lawn earlier than 7 a. m. in the morning. The Globe man evidently lives in the suburbs and has to be out late at night.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF WEST NEWTON WOMEN'S EDUCATIONAL CLUB. 1893-1894.

Another year has added its record to our club history and our personal biography. We gladly ring the memory bell, on this, our fourteenth anniversary, with its happy mingling of thoughtful retrospection, delightful participation, and hopeful forecasts. There is so much that is bright and hopeful and cheering, in all our endeavors, to congratulate ourselves upon—so much that is broadening and progressive, as a women's club, opening before us.

We have listened with great satisfaction to some delightful papers on the World's Fair by different members of our club; have visited Stanford University with another member, and have been instructed and entertained by sketches of summer travels by others. Two of our number charmed us with their critical analysis and fine rendering of the poems of Lowell and Tennyson, giving us new insight into their character, and the meaning of some of their poems. "Miller and the French Painters of his Time," was the subject of an admirable paper by still another member.

Mrs. Thorpe of Newton Centre spoke to us about "Defects of Speech, their Cause and Cure." Mr. Bartlett of Concord gave us an amusing account of "Thorau," not found in books; Mr. Bannan, educated Parisian, talked to us of the "Women of India," who were finely entertained by Prof. Davidson and his Scotch Ballads, and charmed by the delightful essay on Emerson by Mrs. Wyman of Valley Falls, R. I.

We have had four social gatherings, besides two club teas. Blest afternoon teas, presided over by our club hostesses, who poured the gracious cup; where all gained some good word or feeling from the pleasant interchange with each other. The hospitable home of our president was thrown open for our first reception, and the radiant smile and cordial handshake showed the frank appreciation with which friends greeted friend, and we were all the stronger with in the gates.

Our gentlemen's night is always a gala time in the club, the only time when our gentlemen friends are invited to partake of our hospitality. The pleasure was ours of entertaining a large number of officers and delegates of many federated clubs. Flowers bloomed and friendship warmed all hearts, while we were all reminded how sweet and pleasant it is for sisters to dwell together in unity.

If the impressions carried away by our guests were half as delightful as those we ourselves have had, we shall certainly have the privilege of welcoming them again, than which nothing could give us more pleasure.

Our annual meeting and social is perhaps the pleasantest time of all the year, an anniversary every way delightful and memorable, when smiling faces and sparkling eyes tell of the happiness found in the club life.

Perhaps it is well to linger for a moment, and think of those who could not be with us today, who have been removed from our midst by that great Mysterious Power which overrules all things.

Our club year of 1893 has been a very successful and enjoyable one, and I know you will agree with me that the prosperity and continued success of our club is due to the energy and untiring efforts of our beloved president, whose guiding hand directs, and whose intelligent eyes and ears are ever open to all good influences, and of whom we can all say "Age cannot wither nor custom stale her infinite variety."

Mrs. ANNA L. BAILEY, Rec. Sec.

UNATTAINED.

When Pan's Symples changed her form
To a reed by river's bank,
Straight he cut that reed and blew
Sounds divinely sweet to him,
For he knew the music fine
Was the soul of her dear shade,
Hour by hour he wooed her well,
That she might not wholly fade,
Kept the reed against his lips,
And so held her spirit near,
If perchance by some strange spell,
She repentant reappear,
Still he calls upon her name,
Counting not his vision gone,
But he may not bring to life
And her, living, look upon.
Yet he hopes to find so sings,
Here and there by tempest tossed,
What the heart with love pursues
Never can be wholly lost.
Die it cannot while we hope,
Through a shy, elusive gleam,
It must haunt the sunny heights
Near the valleys where we dream.

A BIT OF NEWS.

"Write for The Times! Do you imagine you went to college for that? You can't write."

"Have you ever given me the chance?"

"No. But I know you couldn't. I dare say you've been counting on doing this, eh?" The younger man bowed.

"And have been laying in a stock of flowing rhetoric and fine spun theories," the elder continued. "Humph! The Times wouldn't pay in a month's time if we fed the public on stuff of that sort. What it wants is food of another kind."

"What's to prevent my providing it as well as the other writers on the staff? Is my college education to be a drawback to me? If it is!"

The sentence was left unfinished, and the elder man silently returned to his work of glancing over some copy spread on the desk before him. When he had finished the last page, he turned to the first and wrote "m. g." across the top. "What does that mean?" George Stanton inquired.

"Those letters stand for 'must go,'" "Then whatever bears them goes?" His uncle surveyed him with a grim smile lighting his face.

"It's apt to," he said dryly. "Then anything I might write would be printed, regardless of its merit, if you so marked it?"

"Certainly. But you must remember that an uncle indulgent to faults and the proprietor of this paper—a successful business enterprise—are two distinct personalities!"

"Which you bear, I understand. But surely literary merit cuts some figure?" "Um—if the name of the writer who possesses it is well known, it does."

"Not otherwise?"

The elder man shook his head emphatically. "I've no use for 'em." "Why, that makes out the newspaper of today a money making machine of the lowest order," George Stanton exclaimed indignantly. "The brains of the concern are subservient to the business office."

"Exactly." There was a pause, during which the younger man tipped back his chair against the wall and gazed abstractedly at the ceiling. At length he brought the legs of the chair to the floor with emphasis.

"I still maintain that it isn't fair that I shouldn't be given a trial," he remarked.

"I suppose you've got a batch of manuscripts all ready to fire at me." The nephew's face flushed. "I thought so. Well, I don't want 'em. Now, see here. What this paper wants isn't rhetoric, it isn't eloquence, it isn't philosophy, it isn't literary merit, as you call it. It's just life—plain, everyday life. I wouldn't publish the most beautiful flight of fancy that was ever written. I've no use for that sort. But life—things near, local, personal—give me those. If you keep your eyes and ears open, you'll find more tragedy in one block of San Francisco than in the whole of Shakespeare."

"Then you give me the chance?" Frederick Stanton hesitated. "It's open to you the same as it is to all," he replied indifferently. "You would be paid for space work at our regular rates, providing we accepted it. Mind you, I don't say I'll take what you write."

"But if it suits you'll 'm. g.' it?" "If it suits," the other repeated a little sarcastically, with a movement which closed the interview.

A week later the young man again presented himself in his uncle's private office. "I've followed your advice, Uncle Fred, and taken life for my subject." He threw himself into a chair and gave a twist to his head in the direction of the inner door. It was slightly ajar, and he rose and shut it before he resumed. "You see, what you said about the tragedies of 'life, and of course I inferred that you meant the comedies as well, being right under our noses, as it were, set me to thinking. Meantime I have found out the true meaning of your mystic letters. Whatever bears them must go in the columns of the next issue, regardless of time, space or other consideration. They are so potent as to require no explanation, no suggestion from the molders of public opinion who preside in the editorial den. Whatever an editor may receive from a proprietor initiated 'm. g.' will be printed, even if it be the death warrant of the entire staff."

"Neither. It is to let you know that I have been further enlightened since we last discussed this subject. I now understand what exists as a mighty factor in the management of a newspaper, and I want you to put it on the top of that."

He tossed some sheets of closely written paper on the desk in front of the other. "Humph!"

"If I listen I may gather the very material he wants," I said. I listened. Eureka! I flatter myself that I've got something spicy and realistic enough to suit even you!"

"I told you that if you wrote anything fit to set up type for it would be judged impartially and paid for at the regular rates."

"It isn't the pay so much," George Stanton replied contemptuously.

"Want to see yourself in print, I suppose. Well, let's see what you've produced." He took up the sheets before him and began to read them. When he had finished, he turned to his nephew in surprise. His eye beamed with the delight begotten of "scoops."

"Well, my boy, that's a corker!" he said heartily. "Where did you get it?" "Listened and heard some old gossip tell it, as you told me to do. All I know is that it's the escapade of a woman high in 'local social circles,' just as I've said."

"Escapade?" his uncle repeated. "I should call it pretty near being a crime. She goes to a midnight supper during her husband's absence from town, and after conducting herself in a scandalous manner there she escapes when threatened with discovery by personating Mrs. H—, a prominent woman of well known rapid proclivities, has the supper charged to her account, and—um!—she goes a little too far for safety in that escapade."

"Of course I had to exaggerate it a trifle—touch up the high lights, you know."

"And darken the shadows. Well, that's what we want, and you've hit it the first time. Only, if we could give the name of the woman who did it or those of her relatives, it would be stronger. Don't know it, eh?"

"No."

"Well, the name of the woman she personated is enough for one scoop, and we've got that. Perhaps others may know it, and it'll set 'em to talking." He took up his blue pencil and wrote "m. g." at the top of the page. "Perhaps you'll make a newspaper man, after all, in spite of your college education. Who knows?"

George Stanton seized the manuscript and hurried on with it to the editorial den, where he deposited it gleefully upon the top of a pile of papers on the editor's desk. After that, dinner, the theater, supper, followed in succession, and at midnight he tried to possess himself with patience to await the arrival of the paper which would contain his maiden effort in journalism.

An overwhelming disappointment awaited him, for when he unfolded the sheet not a line of his production could he find. After searching several times through the 16 pages of the paper the conviction was forced upon him it had been omitted.

He hastened to his uncle's office, for, although it was Sunday morning, he knew he should find him there.

"My article has been omitted," he announced.

His uncle surveyed the crestfallen countenance before him.

"Omitted? I haven't had time to glance at the paper yet—there's so much of it, but it can't be possible."

"It is though. Here's the paper. Look for yourself."

The proprietor glanced hastily over the sheet.

"I never knew Bacon to do such a thing before in all the 17 years he's been on the paper."

"Where is he?"

"Home, I suppose. I haven't seen him. Ring up the porter and find out." The man reported that Mr. Bacon had been in his office all night, "walking up and down, sor, strangelike. I axed him wot any one after him, but he said 'No,' kinder absentmindedlike, and wint on walkin' up and down."

Frederick Stanton dismissed the man. His words had deepened the mystery. "I can't understand this at all. Come, George; we will find out what it means."

At the door of the editorial office a haggard face confronted them. Mr. Bacon silently ushered in his visitors and closed the door.

"I sent you some stuff last night, Bacon," said Frederick Stanton, "and I've come to hear your explanation—if you can give one—as to why you kept it back."

The man addressed began to pace the room nervously.

"It was about—a woman," he said finally.

"Well, what of it?" demanded his superior. "Her name wasn't mentioned, though it ought to have been, and if it had been is that any reason why you should scruple to publish what I send in? You've never hesitated before over such a trifle as a woman's reputation."

There was an ominous pause.

"We may as well understand one another first as last," the speaker continued. "It will never do for an editor to doubt the policy of an owner. You would be asking my reasons next. If you are to presume to dictate to me, we may as well sever our connection at once."

The man addressed staggered slightly. His face paled, and a hunted look came into his eyes.

"It was only a woman's reputation that was at stake," he said quietly, "but the woman was—my wife!"

May First, to the Fifteenth Day of June, Next.

true lists of all their Polls (MALES 20 YEARS OLD AND UPWARD), and schedules and estimates of their personal estates, not exempted from taxation.

ASSESSMENT OF POLLS AND REGISTRATION OF WOMEN.

SECT. 7, CHAP. 251, ACTS OF 1882.

The Assessors, by one or more of their number, or by one or more Assistant Assessors, shall in the months of May and June in each year visit every building in their respective cities and towns and make true lists containing, as near as they can ascertain from any owner or occupant of a building, the name, age, occupation, and residence on the first day of May in each current year, and preceding years, of every male person twenty years of age, and upward residing therein and liable to be assessed for a poll tax; and shall inquire at the residences of the women voters whose names are contained in the list transmitted to said Assessors by the Registrars according to the provisions of Sect. 45, Chapter 208 Acts of 1894, which such women voters are residents thereof, and shall thereupon make a list of the women voters so found by them.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the Executors, Administrators, Trustees, or other persons interested are required and warned to give notice of such change; and in default of such notice will be held to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

Return of Property Held for Literary, Benevolent, Charitable, or Scientific Purposes.

In accordance with the requirements of Chapter 217, Acts of 1882, all persons and corporations are hereby required to bring in to the assessors of Newton on any day from May first to the first day of July next, true lists of all real and personal estates held by such persons and corporations respectively for literary, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes, on the first day of May, 1894, together with statements of the amount of all receipts and expenditures by such persons or corporations for said purposes during the year next preceding said first day of May; such lists and statements to be in such detail as may be required by the tax commissioner.

Any mortgagee or mortgagee of Real Estate may bring in to the Assessors of the town or city where such Real Estate lies, at the time specified for bringing in the list as provided in section thirty-eight of Chapter eleven of the Public Statutes, a statement under oath, of the amount due on each separate lot or parcel of such Real Estate, and the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as a mortgagee or mortgagor.

When such statement is filed with the assessors, in any case of mortgaged Real Estate, a statement is not brought in as herein provided, no tax for the then current year on such Real Estate shall be invalidated for the reason that a mortgagee's interest therein has not been assessed to him.

SHIPPING. Shipping and business income are not taxable to a firm, but each resident partner must include these items in his individual return. Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9 of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of return required to obtain exemption from taxation upon the valuation of such property. Said returns to be made to the Assessors on or before June first.

Any person bringing in a list of all his taxable personal property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list within the time above specified, will be deemed at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors agreeably to the laws of this Commonwealth.

All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors, on or before the fifteenth day of June, and that the Personal Property of all taxable persons must be estimated by the Board notwithstanding any verbal statement or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.—Pub. Stat. Chap. 11, Sec. 39 and 41. When a person has failed to bring in a list or schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed on Personal Estate to such person can be granted, "unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the amount which would have been assessed to that person on Personal Estate if he had seasonably brought in said list; and if said tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent. the said amount, the abatement shall be only of the excess above the said fifty per cent."—Public Statutes, Chapter 11, Section 73.

The Assessors will be in session at their office, in the City Hall, in the City of Newton, on the 10th, 17th, 24th, and 31st days of May, and the 7th, 14th, and 15th days of June next, from 3 to 5 o'clock P. M.

Blank schedules will be furnished on application at the office, or to either of the assessors.

LITERARY NOTES.
 Mary Fenwick's Daughter is the title of a new novel by the popular author Beatrice Whitby, which is to appear immediately in Appleton's successful Town and Country Library. As the name indicates, some of the characters described in Miss Whitby's first novel will reappear in this.

For the convenience of students and readers pursuing special lines of investigation, Messrs. D. Appleton & Co. have prepared and printed topical lists of their publications, grouping under one head all works relating to any given subject. They publish also in separate form a catalogue of the large selection of their books made for the World's Fair Model Library, now on permanent exhibition in the United States Bureau of Education, Washington.

A second edition of Mr. John Jacob Astor's romance, A Journey in Other Worlds, was called for within a week after publication.

has been prominent, but the brotherhood of man is a sentiment of the present era. It is not strange that the ideal for society should be in Christ as He is the exemplar and the main stay of all hope. None other than Christian hope is so potent a factor along this line.

Hebron Young Corey spoke upon "Progress in Revelation." The revelation of Christ is adapted to the understanding of the people. He is first defined in nature, but apart from visible creation He reveals Himself more decidedly through Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

The progress in religion since that era has been strongly marked. The apostles spoke from enlightened consciences introducing something more than the form and ritual which had before been a part of the worship of God, until today a preacher in accordance with the principle of religion underlying the revelation. The people of today are advanced in spiritual and moral intellect, and religion is a higher class of that civilization.

Robert Ward Fisher spoke upon "The Creed and the Man." Man's creed is the expression of his principles. All the great reforms have been brought about by men with a creed, with a well defined purpose in life. The man of fixed purpose or creed is in sympathy with men of equal principle, even when they differ from him in belief, or in other words a good Baptist believes a good Methodist is better than a poor Baptist.

The coming man is he who comes with a creed. Valentine Hites spoke upon "The Mission of the Christian Patriot."

Charles Stanley Pease on "The Supreme Business of the Christian Minister."

Israel Walker Porter, "The Hebrew Religion and National Life."

Walter Bradley Shumway, "Tauler, The Mystic."

Walter Lincoln Stone, "The Danger from Jesuitism in America."

Leo Boone Thomas spoke upon "Fearlessness in the Preacher." He referred to the unhesitating courage and steadfast faith of John the Baptist and Peter. Paul was bold and fearless in preaching the Gospel. Fearlessness is needed in the pulpit of today when called upon in the dissection of the truth, when the novelty of theory hovers about and when theologians are splitting hairs upon unimportant questions.

The presentation of diplomas was by President Hovey, and his was followed by Prof. Geo. Bullen in an address to the class.

The benediction was then pronounced by President Hovey.

N. A. A.
 Just as the officers of the Suburban Base Ball League had given up all hopes of forming a four club league, word was received from Natick that the Y. M. C. A. nine of that place would enter a strong team.

The Natick club will play the games previously scheduled for East Boston, and will open the season at Newton Centre, Saturday. The Newton A. A. nine will be made up as follows: Nichols, catcher; Lyon, pitcher; Benedict, 1st base; Hovey, 2d; Soule, s. s.; Bewick, 3d; Bowen, l. f.; Warren, c. f., and Hooper, r. f.

The league games for May 19th are Natick vs Newton A. A. at Newton Centre and Rindge A. A. of Cambridge vs Winchester at Winchester.

The clubs are very evenly matched and the fight for the first and second prizes offered by the league will be watched with great interest in the different suburbs.

The young lady at the piano was playing a difficult selection from Wagner. In the midst of it she suddenly stopped in confusion. "What's the matter?" inquired one of the company. "I struck a false note," she replied. "Well, what of it?" said another. "Nobody but Wagner would ever know it, and he's dead. Go ahead with the music." And she went ahead. —Chicago Tribune.

"What is senatorial courtesy?" asked the young man who is not ashamed of his ignorance. "Senatorial courtesy," replied the citizen who always believes the worst, "is what prevents a statesman from closing a deal before he has let his colleagues in on the ground floor." —Washington Star.

Customer—"Is the proprietor in?" Waiter—"Yes, sir." Customer—"Take this steak back and ask him to jump on it." Waiter—"You'll have to wait a little while, sir. There are two other orders ahead of you." —Life.

"Mister," said the small boy to the grocer, "mother told me to ask you if they's any such thing as a sugar trust." "Why, of course there is." "Well, mother wants to get trusted for two pounds." —Washington Star.

"Is the mistress of the house in?" inquired the pedler. "No," replied the tired looking timid woman who had gone to the kitchen door to answer the knock. "It's her afternoon out." —Chicago Tribune.

The Young Doctor—"Just think! six of my patients recovered this week." The Old Doctor—"It's your own fault, my boy. You spend too much time at the club." —Life.

Man's indignation against the contemptible sneak who passed a plugged dollar on him never cools until he has passed it on some one else. —Atchison Globe.

sive alterations and improvements on his residence on Hyde street.

—Mr. A. F. Hayward returned from New York on Saturday, and has this week gone to Washington, D. C.

—M. E. services in Stevens hall next Sunday, at 10:45 and 7 o'clock. Sunday school at 12. Epworth League at 6. Subject for the evening "Unset Gens."

accident that happened to him while crossing the railroad at the Walnut street crossing, is now about again by the use of crutches.

—Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Stronach were agreedly surprised on Tuesday evening by a visit from the Daughters of Rebekah,
who presented the new married couple with an elegant lamp.

—If we can judge by what we hear said,
the electric car have not been patronized
so fully as they would have been the past cold days if closed instead of open cars
had been in use.

—Twenty-six members and associates of St. Paul's Branch attended the Annual Tea and Service of the Massachusetts Girls' Friendly Society held in Trinity church, Boston, on Wednesday.

—The Ladies of the Congregational church have planned their annual spring festival for Wednesday, May 23rd. They propose besides an elaborate supper served on the European plan, to entertain the company with dialect readings by Mrs.
Gregory of Winchester, Mass. Everybody will be welcome.

—A building on Beethoven street, which had been used for Italians to sleep in, was burned about 12:30 Monday night. It was unoccupied and the fire was set by an incendiary. The building was owned by an Italian, and was on land owned by Thomas Riley. Loss on building $300, no insurance.

—The house being built for Mr. Thomas White on Centre street is now nearly completed, and will be ready for his own occupancy in a few days. This house is furnished with all the modern appliances, and is one of the best and most conveniently arranged of the houses erected of late years at the Highlands.

—The meeting of the Monday club at the delightful home of Mrs. G. M. Stone on Sunday last, was of more than usual interest, as besides the readings on the topic announced, a surprise was given by the hostess by the reading of "Dante's Vision"
by Mrs. George, and musical selections finely rendered by Miss Wood of the Highlands, making the occasion one of the most entertaining sessions of the club.

—The Epworth League Anniversary exercises as conducted by the society of the M. E. church of this place last Sunday evening, proved very interesting. The program included a vesper service, singing
by the league, a cornet solo "Ave Maria" by Mr. Williams, reports of papers by the four vice-presidents of the league, and an address by the pastor. This service is furthered by the origin, growth and work of the Epworth League Movement. He said it was a mistake to regard the League as a secession from any other society, or as founded to compete with or to imitate any other society. And he explained that it was the result of the union of five local young people's societies, one in Chicago,
one in Boston, one in Ohio, one in Detroit and the Oxford League. The first organization of a young people's society by the general conference was in 1876, five years before the organization of the Christian Endeavor Societies. But local societies have been carried on in the M. E. church for half a century.

Hurd's house on Rockland place.

Sunday for a large number of tourists.
Teams in great number and bicycles by the hundreds visited this trying place,

listening to the echo under the arch, or lying upon the grass in the open. The old bridge loses none of its charm to the occasional visitor.

under the charge of Fathers Danahy and Society in St. Paul's church will be entertained by Mrs. Davis at her home on —The Christian Endeavor Society met by invitation with the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Methodist church, Wednesday evening, May 9, and enjoyed an evening with "Clara Reed," the well known mission worker. Papers on her life and work were read by different members of the society and a delightful musical program was rendered by four young ladies.

—The morning papers contained glowing accounts of the excitement attending a strike by the girl employees of the Newton mills, but it is not borne out by the facts of the case, which in a nutshell are these:
The firm have all winter been running on short time, under a ten per cent. reduction. The girls asked two days ago if full time would be resumed soon, and Mr. Kyle was communicated with and said the mills might be run on full time commencing next week. The girls then demanded a return to the old wages. Fully 90 per cent. of the 130 girls interested were glad at the prospect of working full time, but were persuaded to leave. Their demand seems unreasonable when it is known that the mills are simply stocking and have been kept going solely to give the help employment, that they fail to receive the sympathy of the fellow workmen, who are thrown out of work by their action, the mills of course closing. Supt. Davis says there are not enough orders coming in to warrant running the mill, as the goods are simply being stored in the New York stock rooms.

Dimond's residence is almost ready for

—Michael Kirk has removed with his family to Bangor, Me., where he holds a position as foreman in the pulp room of a large paper mill.

—Many alarms have been rung in in Wellesley the past week for brush fires. In some instances the losses have been quite heavy to the owners.

—Mr. C. H. Spring is having large

Your Best Young Man.

"You can't always just tell what your best young man is going to develop into," said the girl in the blue jacket.
"Now, I know a young man, and when I first met him I said to myself: 'At last! Here he is! A real live man without a fad.' And I was happy in the thought that he wouldn't talk football or theosophy to me. But it didn't take me long to find out my mistake.
Of all the fads I ever heard of that man's fad is the very worst."

"He does tricks with cards and can juggle things," continued the girl in the blue jacket, as her eyes grew bright and her cheeks pinkish. "At luncheons
he fishes his handkerchief out of my muff and finds his gloves in my jacket pocket. If you hand him a glass of water, he'll turn it upside down and ask you
blantly why the water doesn't run out.
At home he makes life miserable for me,
and when he goes away I call in the girl and have her sweep up the remnants of the tea-cups that he breaks."

He balances parasols, guitars, vases—
in fact, everything that he can find—on the end of his nose. I can't do anything with him. I am trying very hard to make him angry so he'll quit calling, but he is so absurdly good natured
that I fear I shall never succeed."—St.
Louis Republic.

Wherein They Were Alike.

"My money bought those horses,"
said the millionaire wife to her impecunious husband as the family turnout drove up to the steps.

"Yes; it bought me too."—Newport News.

—Canker worms have appeared in unusual numbers, the year, and the caterpillars are fewer than usual, some say because of the efforts of the Newton Horticultural society, and others because they were hatched out by the warm spell in the early spring, and afterwards killed by the cold. But neglected apple trees in some sections are beginning to look as if a fire had passed over them, which is an argument against the cold weather theory.

—The fatal accident at the Washington street crossing, six years ago last Thanksgiving, by which three men were killed, is recalled by the trial which is now being held in court, the Boston & Albany being the defendant. —The thunder storm last Friday night did very well for the opening of the season. About midnight, sleepers all over the city were aroused by the terrific reverberations, and the flashes of lightning were dazzling. It was the severest thunder storm in several years, and lightning struck in four places in this section of the city. On Franklin street, in front of E. H. Cutler's residence, a chestnut tree was struck, a limb torn off, and many feet of bark peeled off. On Nonantum street the houses of Messrs. Brown and Wetherbee were struck and the electric fluid played queer pranks about the picture moldings, but fortunately little damage was done. Another bolt struck on the shore of Boyd's pond. The rain fell in torrents, the streets in some sections were flooded, and some washouts were reported.

—Miss Blanche Stanley of Franklin street returned Tuesday from Chicago, where she has been the past eight months studying vocal music under the instruction of the noted Gaston Gottschack.

—Mrs. Gertrude E. Parker, "Life of W. Eugene Parker, and a daughter of Mrs. A. L. Benyon of this city, died quite suddenly Monday, at her home in Kansas City, Mo.

—The deceased has a large circle of friends who will sincerely mourn her death. The remains will be brought on here for interment at Mt. Auburn cemetery. Notice of funeral will be given later.

—The Channing Sewing Circle held a social meeting in the church piers on Thursday night of the sufferer from the late fire in Roxbury. It was an all day meeting, the ladies bringing lunch, and chocolate being served at noon. A large amount of clothing was sent in, and several new garments were made, all of which were packed in barrels ready to be sent. Contributions will still be received at the church.

—The last social of the season of those given by the ladies of the Methodist church, was held with Mrs. Hiram Leonard, Newtonville avenue, Wednesday evening, and the attendance was unusually large.

—The Little Gretchen pantomime by the Misses Blackwell was cleverly managed and very amusing. George Gay, a solo on the autoharp, and much fun was furnished by a hat trimming contest for men only, with prizes. Mr. H. S. Leonard took the prize for the best, and the prize for the worst was awarded to W. A. Parks.

—The funeral services of Mr. Geo. S. Harwood, a former pastor of the church and a warm friend of the deceased, and Rev. George E. Merrill will officiate. The services will be very simple, and a memorial service will probably be held at the church on some Sunday in the near future.

—Mrs. Harwood and party arrived in New York, Wednesday, and were met by Mr. Stanley Harwood and Mr. S. A. D. Sheppard.

—Mr. G. P. Atkins' new store will be opened tomorrow, and the public will be served with coffee. The store in its new oak fittings is very clean, light and spacious and is a credit to the city. It has all the modern improvements, including a cash register and railway, new carload gas burners and fixtures, furnished by the Newton Gas Company, new curtains, furnished by E. A. Smallwood, and the grocery fittings by Isaac McLean. Mr. Stephen Holmes put in the new floor, new plate glass door, and did the other carpenter work, and the roof over the store has been re-laid by John Farquhar's Sons.

—The organ recital by Mr. J. Wallace Goodrich at Eliot church, Wednesday afternoon, called out a large attendance in spite of the rain, many coming on the trains from out of town. Mr. Goodrich's recital was listened to with unqualified pleasure, and he gave a brilliant illustration of what organ music is when rendered by a skillful musician. The following selections were given: Marche Solennelle, Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy.

—Con moto maestoso—Andante tranquillo, Th. Salome.

—Josef Rheinberger, "Vision," Richard Wagner, "Elsa's Braut zum Mause." Johann Sebastian Bach, "Lohengrin."

—Johann Sebastian Bach, "Freude und Fugue in A Minor." Alexander Gullman, "Marche Nuptiale." R. Leoncavallo, "Intermezzo: 'I Pagliacci'." Charles Marie Widor, "Toccata."

—Mr. Goodrich went to Concord N. H., yesterday and gave a recital at the organ of the new Baker Memorial church there.

—The Newton artist, Emory Leverett Williams, will leave Newton with his sketching class, June 25th, for Banner Beach, situated near the old town of Wells, Me., where the utmost variety of things picturesque will be afforded to the class, and those interested in joining the class.

—Canker worms have appeared in unusual numbers, the year, and the caterpillars are fewer than usual, some say because of the efforts of the Newton Horticultural society, and others because they were hatched out by the warm spell in the early spring, and afterwards killed by the cold. But neglected apple trees in some sections are beginning to look as if a fire had passed over them, which is an argument against the cold weather theory.

—The fatal accident at the Washington street crossing, six years ago last Thanksgiving, by which three men were killed, is recalled by the trial which is now being held in court, the Boston & Albany being the defendant. The jury were out and looked at the crossing on Tuesday, but were unable to give a verdict, as they kept strangers from talking to them. Among the witnesses called this week were Mr. F. E. Judkins and Mr. W. B. Whittier of Newton.

—Music in Grace church Sunday night. Processional, "For thee, O dear land country." Sir A. Sullivan.

—Magnificat, H. B. Day, No. 2.

—Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R., will attend a memorial service in Channing church next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Hornbroke will officiate and the following patriotic music will be sung by the church choir, assisted by Miss Batchelder, Miss Emerson, Mr. Wedderburn and Mr. Ashenden. "The Vacant Chair," Male Quartet.

"America," Male Quartet.

All are cordially invited.

—The thunder storm last Friday night did very well for the opening of the season. About midnight, sleepers all over the city were aroused by the terrific reverberations, and the flashes of lightning were dazzling. It was the severest thunder storm in several years, and lightning struck in four places in this section of the city. On Franklin street, in front of E. H. Cutler's residence, a chestnut tree was struck, a limb torn off, and many feet of bark peeled off. On Nonantum street the houses of Messrs. Brown and Wetherbee were struck and the electric fluid played queer pranks about the picture moldings, but fortunately little damage was done. Another bolt struck on the shore of Boyd's pond. The rain fell in torrents, the streets in some sections were flooded, and some washouts were reported.

TO BEAUTIFY THE CHARLES.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING IN ELIOT HALL LAST NIGHT.

In spite of the rain Eliot Hall was two-thirds filled, last night, many ladies being present. Members of the Newton and Waltham city governments, the Water-town selectmen, and the city improvement societies were present, and the audience were very enthusiastic over the proposed improvements along the Charles River.

Mr. Francis A. Dawson of the Garden City Improvement Association presided, and made a brief address, in which he alluded to the change of name in the society, which is interested in the north side of the city and not the north side of the railroad track alone, and which hopes to become a central association for all the other societies. In introducing the first speaker of the evening, Mr. William De la Casca, who is at present acting as temporary chairman of the metropolitan park commission, he spoke of the interest taken by the city as an entirety in the improvement of the Charles. The improvements associations of the city, he stated, had for their main object the question of beautifying the river as much as possible.

Mr. De la Casca opened his remarks by stating that the members of the metropolitan park commission and state board of health who were present were not in the city as agitators, but because they wished to present to the meeting plans which they had suggested in their report to the Legislature for beautifying the Charles.

He reviewed the history of the metropolitan park commission since the date of its inception two years ago, and stated that the act of the General Court in electing that the commission, in conjunction with the state board of health, should study the problem of the improvement of the Charles, came as a great surprise to the body.

Continuing, the speaker said in part: "In the work of the commission we found that Boston, instead of being a provincial town, was rapidly developing into a great city, taking in, as it does, a great element of foreign population year by year. In keeping with its growth nothing was more proper than that the city should be properly surrounded with beautiful approaches by land and by water."

"The commission found that the advantages about Boston which offered great opportunity for public usage were the most beautiful of any city in the world. We found that wild lands and seacoasts, with rivers, offered the best of facilities for public improvement."

"The wild lands were in the beautiful Blue hills and the Middlesex Fells, which are now yours; the seacoast was in the beaches of Revere and Nantasket, and we had the Mystic river on the north, the Neponset on the south, and the Charles midway. Then, as it was, the harbor, with its islands."

"Several efforts have been made to preserve the banks of the Charles. Boston has taken a step by placing a playground upon a section of its banks."

"To prevent the rise and fall of the tide was the first essential feature considered by the commission and board of health, and we considered that it was feasible to construct a basin below Cottage Farm by means of a dam. The building of this basin would save Boston a large amount of money in the expenses of its sewerage system, and in the case of a flood would offer sufficient space for all excess of water."

"An outlying feature of the basin would be the taking of land along its banks, and this suggestion appears to have raised a strong protest from property owners along Beacon street, who claim that they have a moral and legal right to a view across the river."

"But the question of treating the Charles as a basin of Cottage Farm might well be independent in itself, and more directly concerns you."

Charles Elliot, landscape gardener, was the next speaker. He said:

"The lower basin, as the previous speaker has referred to, might well be considered separately. It is to be the centre of Boston within a short time, and it is the opportunity of that city for making a dignified place, around which the theatres and hotels in the future will be ranged."

"Our plan shows a line of houses, with frontage to the river. That is the only way to decently frame the basin. Just as the basin, near Cottage Farm, will show a bridge which illustrates the new mouth of the Charles, and which is a natural route for a drive up the parkway of Boston, through Jamaica Plain and to the Blue hills. From the bridge would be commanded a much better view toward Boston and the State House than at present exists."

"As for carrying out the scheme of the basin, the treatment of this feature might be delayed, as the open space of water at this point will always be open and easy to obtain possession of."

"Passing up the river above Cottage Farm the scene changes and the river narrows and the banks grow more rocky. If a dam was constructed for the purpose of forming a basin, the banks of the river might be treated more economically and made more beautiful. Our plans show a reservation of land along the shores of the river to Watertown, where we reach the head of the tide water, and where the question of a dam is of importance."

"Along the fresh water section of the river to Watertown and Cottage Farm we suggest that the public should possess the banks, a few open spaces and a strip for the building of a roadway and a sidewalk, thus affording a frontage for adjacent private lands. In this part of the scheme we are suggesting nothing but a repetition of what has been done in other countries."

"Our scheme of the Charles river improvement is but an enlarged copy of the Back Bay Fens. How the river shall be treated above the Watertown dam is a matter which as yet is untouched. It will be a uniform treatment above the dam, I have no doubt."

"Mr. F. E. Stearns, chief engineer of the state board of health, said:

"In referring to the sanitary conditions of the proposed project no difficult problem arises in the upper portion of the river. Farther below it was found more difficult to consider the sanitary value of the improvements. It was discovered that in a line drawn from Faneuil to the arsenal, where the river widens, the rapid tides made deposits of sewage. Farther down the pollution grew greater, but below Cottage Farm the salt water annihilated to an extent the sewage of the basin."

"The problem of constructing a dam is difficult, because it affects many interests, the greatest of which is navigation. This is, however, to be remedied by locks. Another question to be considered was the diminution of water in the harbor."

"It was a question whether a permanent level of the water could be maintained. The greatest reduction, caused by the rise and fall of the tide, would not be greater than two feet at the most, and would not possibly affect the quantity of water in the harbor.

"The relation of the sewerage system of Boston was studied, and it was found that many dollars could be saved by the fact that the permanent level made by the creation of a basin would lower the water in times of flood and would not cause frequently block up the pipes of the sewers."

"The cost of constructing a dam would be in the vicinity of $600,000."

At the conclusion of Mr. Stearns' remarks, numerous stenographic views were thrown upon the canvas which illustrated the condition of the river should a dam be constructed and a basin created.

He brought out in the views with special emphasis the condition of the banks of the Charles as they are at the end of tide in the rear of Beacon street residences. The slime and filth were plainly discernible.

Another of the views showed the solution of the problem of navigation of small craft as it depicted a small railway at the dam.

In sharp contrast with the present state of affairs, Mr. Stearns threw upon the canvas numerous views representing the improved state of rivers in other countries whose banks had been preserved for the public.

Mr. Quincy Ford of Andoverdale threw upon the canvas numerous views of the Charles north of Waltham. The pictures included many famous picturesque scenes and invoked applause.

Rev. Dr. Shinn, pastor of Newton Grace Church, read resolutions, which were adopted, thanking the speakers for their efforts and the state of the meeting should the proposed plans be carried into effect.

A resolve, presented by Mr. E. B. Haskell, was also adopted, as follows:

Resolved, that the metropolitan park commission and state board of health should be empowered by the Legislature to study the state of river valley from Waltham to Mother Brook with a view to its sanitary and esthetic improvements in harmony with plans already reported for the lower part of the river.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

F. M. CREHORE OF THE WATER BOARD RESIGNS—A NEW BILL RELATIVE TO GRADE SEPARATION—PETITIONS FOR DRUGGISTS' LICENSES.

The mayor and aldermen met in regular session Monday evening.

The first paper was submitted by the mayor and proved to be from Frederic M. Crehore, resigning his position as a member of the Newton water board, as outside duties claimed his undivided attention.

The mayor said he regretted this action very much. Mr. Crehore had been appointed by him last year, had given valuable assistance and advice, and was a worthy successor to his father.

The resignation was then accepted.

A hearing was granted on the N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. petition to locate poles on Washington street and Highland avenue, and remove poles on the latter street.

Communications requesting information were presented, from E. A. L. Atkinson and Frederick Curtis.

Supt. Albery in stating the wishes of the company said the poles which were to be removed had served their usefulness in the present shape and the company in extending a cable from Washington street wish to set the poles nearer together. The same general line will be taken. They would be willing to do the work under the supervision and to the satisfaction of any city official that the city may wish to appoint.

Mr. Leland asked why the poles opposite his house had been changed to his side of the street?

Supt. Albery was not familiar with that one case. The poles were being located with an idea of safety and efficiency.

Mr. Curtis said he understood there was no change in location between the Wales place and the bridge.

Chief Bixby answered by request that there would be no change in front of his (Mr. Curtis') house.

Hearings were then opened and closed, on placing sewer in Prince and Mt. Vernon streets, widening Walnut street to 40 feet, and Washington street near the Barker estate to 75 feet, and rounding corner of Prospect and Curve streets.

A communication from the N. & W. Gas Light Co. was received, asking in accordance with the ordinance what color the electric light poles should be painted.

On motion of Alderman Bothfield it was voted to continue the present color, dark olive green.

The N. & W. Gas Light Co. gave notice of their acceptance of locations for electric light poles.

The petition of Henry Lee et al., was referred, also of E. L. Estabrook et al., for sewers in Sewall and Sterling streets.

Caroline J. Barker petitioned for the use of 10 feet of Washington street abutting, during the construction of a new block. Referred to the highway committee under the direction of the superintendent of streets.

John H. Randolph was granted license for intelligence office on Trinitarian street.

Dr. W. H. McOwen et al., petitioned for a fire alarm station on Chestnut street, near the Catholic church at Newton Upper Falls. Referred to the fire committee.

J. R. Crandall petitioned for three incandescent street light on Trinitarian road and Pettes street. Referred.

James G. Minna petitioned for extension of sewer through Sewall street. Referred.

A petition for three street lights in Kenton street was referred.

George H. Loomis of Newtonville was appointed and confirmed as an auctioneer.

A hearing was ordered on the petition of the N. & W. Gas Light Co. for poles, corner of Berkeley and Chestnut streets.

An order was adopted authorizing the committee on fuel and street lights to advertise and contract for 2000 tons of coal for the city.

C. T. Driscoll was granted license for one wagon, Johnson & Keyes for five wagons, Geo. Walker, one wagon, and several junk licenses were granted.

Alderman Roffe presented a petition from citizens of Newton Upper Falls the following petition:

Gentlemen: We the undersigned citizens and real estate owners of Newton Upper Falls, respectfully represent that a great inconvenience now exists to many residents in this village from the fact that no sixth class license has been granted in this precinct for the ensuing year. We pray and ask that you extend unto us the same privilege that other sections of the city have received, and pray that a sixth class license be granted the druggists of Newton Upper Falls.

This was signed by such men as Amos L. Hale, ex-Alderman George Pettes, J. E. Trowbridge, H. G. Park, Eugene and Frank Fanning, Geo. F. Gould, H. W. Fanning, Wm. Lowe, H. A. Smith, O. G. Billings, F. M. Train, W. Dresser, F. N. Woodward, E. R. Rand, Geo. W. Trowbridge, J. R. Crandall, Newell Fagg, C. W. Johnson, G. M. Thompson, in all 67 names.

M. L. Hammett petitioned for sewer in Water street. Referred.

Joseph Hues et al., petitioned for concrete crosswalk on Woodland avenue. Referred.

The N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. petitioned for right to construct and maintain underground conduits for their wires in the following named streets:

Washington, Franklin, Sargent, Peabody, Jefferson, Hall, Park, Vernon, Pearl, Chestnut, Watertown and Cherry streets, Greenough and Hillside avenues.

Alderman Bothfield reported, recommending the granting of various petitions previously referred to the highway committee. The reports were accepted.

Alderman Hunt for the sewer committee made numerous favorable reports which were received.

An order was passed laying out Waban street to a width of 40 feet between Pearl street and Waban park.

An order passed giving notice of the intention of the city to lay out Dalby street and ordering a hearing on the same.

The sum of $750 was appropriated for the use of the inspector of wires in placing the city wires in the conduits of the N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. on Centre street.

Alderman Bothfield submitted the following resolution and accompanying bill, which was passed after a short discussion:

Resolved, That it is the judgment of this board that some amendment should be made in the law relating to the abolition of grade crossings with the view of securing the adoption of such plans as will best promote the interests of the public, and that we heartily commend the passage of a law substantially as set forth in the draft hereto annexed and marked "Ex A," and that we request the Senator representing the Middlesex 2nd District and our Representatives in the General Court to use their influence to secure the passage of said bill or some bill that will accomplish substantially the same purpose.

Sec. 1. Any city or town which under the provisions of Chap. 428 of 1890 is required to pay its proportion of the expense of the abolition of any grade crossing, may within 60 days after the commission has filed its report in court, as required by Sec. 4 of said Act, petition the said Superior Court or any Justice thereof sitting in equity, that said report be recommitted to and commission for further hearing thereon, and if said petition is duly filed within said 60 days the court shall thereupon order such report recommitted, and said commission shall within a reasonable time give a further hearing to said city or town which hearing said city or town may suggest to the commission alterations in the plan originally reported by said commission or another and a different plan from that reported by said commission for the purpose of securing a more advantageous method of construction, and one that will better promote the interest of the public, and after hearing thereon, the commission decide that the alterations in the original plan or a new method suggested by the city or town are better adapted to promote the convenience and welfare of the public than the plan originally reported by the commission, said commission shall proceed to determine the estimated expense of such alterations in the original plan, or the expense of the new plan suggested over that recommended by the commission, and it shall determine and prescribe the manner in which the alterations shall be made, and the work appertaining as provided in section 3 of said act, and shall make a new apportionment of the percentage that shall be paid by the Commonwealth, the railroad and the state, city or town, and in making said apportionment may so increase the percentage to be paid by the city or town, as will be the judgment of the commission over the estimated increase in expense of said alterations or plans, suggested by said city or town over the estimated expense determined by the commission in its original report. And said commission shall forthwith return its decision into the Superior Court, and said city or town may within 90 days after the filing of the final report of the commission vote to accept the said report of the commission, in which case said city or town shall be legally bound to pay the percentage so apportioned in the same manner as they are bound to pay the percentage prescribed in Chap. 428 of the Acts of 1890, or any amendatory thereof.

Should any city or town fail to accept the report of the commission within the 90 days as herein prescribed, then the court shall proceed to confirm the decision of the commission just reported to said court, and shall treat the second report of no effect, and said city or town shall be liable for the expense of the final hearing, but if the city or town accepts the final report of the commission to confirm the decision of the commission contained in said final report.

Sec. 2. The acceptance of the final report of the commission by a city shall be by a two-thirds vote of each branch composing the city council of said city, and in the case of a town by a two-thirds vote of those present, and voting thereon at a meeting called for the purpose.

Alderman Bothfield explained that the statutes at present provide no chance on the part of citizens to appeal from the decision of the city council of said city, and it was not in accordance with their wishes.

If the commission should decide that the tracks be elevated as the railroad company desires, there would be no method by which the citizens could secure their demand for depression.

Alderman Hamilton coincided with the alderman from Ward Seven and dwelt upon the importance of the question.

Alderman Plummer wanted to know what had become of this grade crossing matter, which for six months had lain dormant.

The mayor said that something would be done about the matter about June 1st. The resolve then passed unanimously.

An order was passed laying sewer in Mr. Vernon street.

Edward McCluskey was granted permission to move a building 30x28 feet in size, through Pearl street to Faxon street.

Daniel Stearns et al., petitioned to have Watertown street from Pearl street to the Watertown line, relaid out to 60 feet and accepted by the city. Referred.

A petition from residents of Nonantum set forth that J. G. Kilburn was a man of well known good standing and one that conducted a legitimate business without certain parties.

Alderman Ruffe presented an order taking park lands at Lower Falls, Auburndale and Cabot street under the provisions of the park act which was passed.

An order was passed widening Washington street near the estate of Caroline J. Barker to 75 feet.

Alderman Plummer at this time stated that he understood a petition was to be offered before the board that evening, requesting license to run electric launches between Waltham and Riverside. If for any reason that was not to come as he had been informed he nevertheless wished to present communications from certain parties, and papers from knowledge so dispensed people intending to invest in the proposed enterprise, might be deterred until the matter was finally decided by the board.

He submitted first a communication from Quincy Pond of the River committee of the Newton Boat Club. The latter stated that lives and property would be endangered by the running of launches. Nearly 300 canoes and boats are used and stored at Riverside. These weigh from 60 to 150 pounds and average 16 feet in length and the presence of launches weighing 4,500 pounds and 35 feet long propelled at a high rate of speed when the river is being used by pleasure craft is very dangerous. The waves are sufficient to swamp many of the crafts, and canoes and boats when tied up are seriously endangered and in time the floats along the river at the boat houses without safe from the wash. The river banks unprotected by walls will be worn away and deposited in the river, forming mud banks when the river is low. The launches will deter many from enjoying the quiet and seclusion of the river and a large amount of real estate may be affected. The lively business at Riverside will be seriously crippled by taking or driving customers away, and the owners of the launches are not Newton citizens nor are the launches a public necessity. They would bring in an undesirable class of people to the annoyance of present property owners and the boating public, and in case of accident the chances of legal redress are very remote.

A communication from Capt. H. L. Burrage of the club asked for a hearing before the board licensed any such craft.

The alderman asked if the alderman from Ward Seven had received any petition for the launches.

Alderman Bothfield said he had received no such petition. He learned the petition was to be, but had to discourage rather than favor any such action.

Alderman Rumery of the fire committee made a report recommending that the order to appropriate $10,000 to remodel Steamer Two house, so as to put that apparatus in commission and which was last year referred to the "next city government" be taken up and referred to the fire committee.

The report was accepted, the order taken up and referred over to the fire committee.

A recess was taken at this point in order that the board might adjourn to the mayor's office and discuss in solitude and without reportorial interruption the question of the fitness of the latest appointment to which he has arisen.

At 10.39 the board re-assembled.

Alderman Hunt moved that the appointment of Frederick M. Mitchell as sergeant of police be taken from the table.

This was voted.

The question then came on confirming the appointment.

Alderman Roffe wished to explain his position so as not to be misunderstood. He understood that in confirming an appointment by the mayor, the board had no right to consider any question, only the fitness of the man appointed for the position. It was the mayor's prerogative to make the selection, we are to pass on the man's ability.

Alderman Thompson—Do you think a man with the experience the appointee has had, is competent for sergeant?

Alderman Roffe—The question of his experience is not for us to decide as I understand it. It is the mayor's prerogative to make the selection, we are to pass on the man's ability.

A vote was then taken.

It was not very clear how it stood but the chair ruled that the appointment was confirmed.

Alderman Hunt doubted the vote. A show of hands resulted as follows:

To confirm F. M. Mitchell as sergeant of police, Aldermen Bothfield, Ruffe, Plummer and Hamilton.

Against confirming F. M. Mitchell as sergeant of police, Aldermen Hunt, Thompson and Rumery.

The former gentlemen in their vote take the position that Mitchell is perfectly competent to perform and execute all the duties devolving upon him as sergeant of police.

The latter take the position that he is not a competent man for the position.

Mrs. Gregg's application for an inholder's license was granted.

The N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. were granted a location corner of Chestnut and Prince streets.

COLLECTING BIRDS' EGGS.

Many have remarked on the growing scarcity of the common birds, and have wondered why it was. Perhaps the explanation may be in the fact that about every boy has the fad for collecting birds' eggs, and that the nests have been systematically robbed now for several years. As fast as one crop of boys gets too old for this amusement, another comes along, and each boy is inspired to get a collection for himself.

It is of course very pleasing to see boys take an interest in natural history,
and collecting eggs may be more harmless than prowling about with an air gun, shooting the feathered songsters, as some do, but it would seem possible to study natural history in some more innocent way. If there was only one boy, it might be all right to take one egg from a nest, which is given as an excuse by some parents when older people are shown the collection, but as there are about ten boys with the collecting mania to every bird in Newton, if we except the English Sparrows, it is evident that the prospects of any increase in the number of birds are very poor indeed.

This is a question which some of our village improvement societies might take hold of to advantage. Nothing adds more to the beauty of a neighborhood in summer than the presence of the birds, and in a city such as Newton, with its many trees and park like estates, birds ought to be taken care of and protected. One way to do it would be for parents to discourage this fad for robbing birds' nests, under the excuse of studying natural history. The true student does not take the eggs nor kill
the bird, but guards them both carefully, studies their habits and their songs,
and gets some useful information.

Our common birds have enemies enough in the way of cats, dogs, and boys with air guns and stones, without making their lives more miserable by having their nests robbed and broken up. If parents would only look at this matter in its proper light and talk the matter over with their children the evil
would be remedied.

When one hears of the many small boys engaged in collecting, one ceases to wonder that the native birds are disappearing from our lawns and gardens, and wishes that a law might be passed making it a penal offence to rob a bird's nest, even in the interest of so-called science.

AMENDING THE LAW.

The amendment to the grade crossing law presented at the board of aldermen, Monday evening, is one of great importance, and it has already been favorably reported in the legislature, but recommended, as the railroad men argued that there was no demand for the law, and that it was only asked for by a few men, who represented no city or town in particular.

The present law provides that the commission may decide upon some plan of abolishing grade crossings, which seems to them feasible and convenient, and naturally they would be disposed to select the cheaper of two plans, out of regard for the interests of the state, which pays such a large portion of the cost, to say nothing of the desires of the railroad. There is no appeal from their decision, and hence the law like so many of our laws, is regarded as having been passed with too much regard for the railroads, and too little for the cities and towns affected.

A more expensive plan might be so much better for the interests of a city or town, that they would willingly pay their proportion of the extra cost, but there is no legal way of securing this. The more expensive plan might be more picturesque, but as one of our aldermen said, the commission care nothing about pictures, as they are appointed to look after the state's interests.

Under the amended law, the city or town has a right of appeal, and can secure the more expensive plan, if they desire, and the provisions for this are so carefully guarded that no harm can come.

In the case of Newton, for instance, an elevation of the tracks would be much the cheaper, while a depression might be so much more to the benefit of the city that it would be glad to pay the extra cost, and this feeling had something to do with the resolutions passed by the City Council, calling upon the Senator from this district and the Newton representatives, to do what they can to secure the passage of the act. If other cities and towns take similar action, it is believed the bill can be passed, in spite of the opposition of the railroads.

THERE has been a good deal of discussion over Mayor Fennos' appointment of Frederick M. Mitchell as Sergeant of police, but the board of aldermen have voted to confirm it, because they take the ground that they have nothing to do in the case but to confirm appointments if they are satisfied as to their fitness. On this ground four of the aldermen voted to confirm
Mr. Mitchell, as they had learned that there was nothing to be said against his character, and his ability was vouched
for as a good deal above the average.
The appointment may have been out of the usual line, but Mayor Fennos may have thought that results would be better, if a new man was taken, not identified with any faction, and that the police force would be benefited by a new man, who had not got into any of the old police ruts. There have been a number of upheavals among the force,
the present year, which caused the discharge of several members, and this gave outsiders the opinion that the force was capable of being improved, and there was a pressure on this account for the Mayor to get outside of the usual track in making an appointment to such a responsible position. People said that if the force had been held strictly up to the mark in the past by those at the head, there would never have arisen any scandals calling for the retirement of any of the officials.

The debates in the U. S. Senate over the tariff bill are sometimes sharp and pointed, as on Tuesday when Senators Hoar and Berry of Arkansas had an altercation. The former called up the declaration in the Chicago platform that protection was robbery and plunder, and asked Mr. Berry how he could reconcile the pending bill with that declaration.
Mr. Hoar said that democratic senators confessed that they had surrendered their own judgment to two or three men, and he exclaimed passionately, "Stand up, democratic senators, if you will, and say that you are in favor, personally, of this bill—the whole of you—a majority of you—one-tenth part of you. You will not do it. You say and the people say, that it is wicked through and through.
But because two or three gentlemen have got together in a committee room, or in a corner somewhere, like the witches in Macbeth and concocted this hell-broth
you have promised them to swallow it!"
Mr. Berry replied that however objectionable the bill might be, it did not lie in the mouths of republican senators to denounce it for its protection features except on the theory that they preferred grand larceny to petty larceny, and that therefore they preferred the McKinley act with all its inequities to any kind of reduction of taxation.

The North Side Improvement Society
have changed their name and adopted
the more ambitious title of "Garden City Improvement Society," which may indicate that they will not restrict their efforts to improving the north side, but will look after the whole city. We hope, though, that they will still make the North Side the chief object of their efforts at improvement, as that is the section where such work is the most needed, and where the least has been done. The old name was a distinctive one, although it was not so ambitious as the new designation and it may have been thought that the new name would carry greater weight, when the society appeared in favor of any project.

FOLLOWING is the text of the act
founded on the report of the Park Commission and the State Board of Health,
for the improvement of Charles River, which has been reported favorably in the Senate.

The metropolitan park commission,
for the purpose of acquiring and making available under chapter four hundred and seven of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-three open spaces for exercise and recreation along or near the Charles river between the Essex street bridge, so called, at Cottage Farms and Waltham, may expend the sum of three hundred thousand dollars in addition to any and all sums authorized to be expended by them by said act and by all acts in addition to or amendment thereof.

THERE has been some alarm expressed at the total amount of the damages awarded for land taken for the new boulevard by those who do not understand the matter. The award is in most of the cases a purely formal affair, to comply with the law that orders damages to be awarded in all cases, and reach those who have not given land. The total cost to the city for land damages will not be over $15,000, as those who have agreed to give land have also agreed to waive all right to damages.
Thus what seemed to be a big sum on paper will turn out to be a mere trifle.

It is announced that something will be done about grade crossings June 1st.
This is encouraging, as most people had inferred that the whole matter had dropped out of sight, it is so long since any action has been taken. Our grade crossings will probably be like the poor, always with us, judging from the progress made the past dozen years.

THE Boston Globe has been publishing letters on "the solution of the liquor problem" and ex-Governor Claflin writes that "there is only one way left, and that is to establish entire prohibition."
Mr. Claflin, like the other believers in prohibition, evidently does not look with favor on the Norwegian system.

THE resignation of ex-Alderman F. M.
Crehore from the water board is to be regretted, as he made a valuable member,
but his other duties prevented his con-

REACHING OUT.

ANNUAL MEETING OF NORTH SIDE IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY. THEY ARE ENLARGING MEMBERSHIP AND INFLUENCE IN AN ENTERPRISING WAY.

The annual meeting of the North Side Improvement Society was held in Tremont hall, Saturday evening, President Charles D. Cabot presiding and the name was changed to "Garden City Improvement Society."

It was attended by about thirty well known gentlemen from the different wards on this side the city, and the society took important steps in the line of organized work all over the city for public improvement. Among those present were Representative E. J. H. Estabrooks, Alderman Hamilton, ex-Alderman N. H. Chadwick, Rev. Geo. W. Shinn, D. D., Francis A. Dewson, Walter U. Lawson, ex-City Engineer Albert F. Mr. Langford, for the committee appointed for that purpose, submitted a set of rules and by-laws which were adopted by the society. The committee also recommended and the meeting voted to make the following named gentlemen honorary members of the society: Mr. Avery L. Rand, president of the Newton Centre Improvement Association, Mr. Alexander Tyler, president of the Newton Highlands Improvement Association, Mr. Frederic Johnson, president of the Auburndale Improvement Association, Mr. Walter U. Lawson, president of the Hunnewell Hill Improvement Society, His Honor, Mayor John A. Fenn, and Hon. James F. C. Hyde, Hon. William B. Fowle, Hon. Alden Speare, Hon. William P. Ellison, Hon. J. Wesley Kimball, Hon. Herman M. Burr and Hon. Herman E. Hibbard the ex-mayors of the city of Newton.

Messrs. Henry M. Bates, Albert S. Glover and three others, were elected active members of the society.

The committee upon nomination of officers reported through Mr. Langford and upon his motion the officers were elected in accordance with the recommendation of the committee.

The new president-elect, Mr. Dewson, was escorted to the chair by Messrs J. T. Langford and N. H. Chadwick, where he was welcomed by President Cabot, who in a few appropriate words resigned the seat to his successor.

President Dewson spoke at some length. He dwelt upon the importance of citizens taking active interest in affairs pertaining to the city and the help which they could give the city council through these important associations. This constant effort of the city fathers to keep down the tax rate he believed to be wrong and advocated a liberal expenditure of the city's money in public improvements, which would result ultimately in a better class of residents in certain sections and a subsequent decrease in the tax levy.

Mr. James T. Allen had been identified with the old improvement society at West Newton which disbanded years ago, and was glad to ally himself with one of the enterprising nature which seemed to pervade all things which came from Newtonville. He believed it for the best interests of the city that its citizens should be interested in these societies, and expressed himself as heartily in favor of the proposed action on the part of the city council to have the city assume absolute control of the laying out of streets in the future.

A letter of regret at Mr. J. Edward Hollis' absence was read from Mr. J. Edward Hollis.

The secretary was instructed to notify all members, honorary and otherwise, elected by the meeting.

Rev. Dr. Shinn called special attention to the meeting arranged for Thursday at which the park commission would appear.

Mr. Langford seconded his plea in extended remarks, and each gentleman present was finally requested to extend an invitation to be present to as many people as possible.

Rev. Dr. Shinn spoke very earnestly of the nuisance and oftentimes serious results of the noise commonly allowed by the authorities the night before the Fourth of July. He told of experiences which were very trying and might lead to serious results, and at the close of his remarks Mr. J. T. Allen spoke in the same vein, detailing an experience wherein a gentleman was saved from a pre-arranged assault by the fortunate interposition of citizens.

Action was finally taken by the appointment of Messrs. Shinn, Allen and President Dewson as a committee to draft resolutions for presentation to the other societies for their endorsement and finally to the city council, requesting them to preserve peace during the night preceding the Fourth.

NEWTON SCHOOL BOARD.

THEY HELD THEIR REGULAR MEETING WEDNESDAY EVENING.

The meeting of the school board Wednesday evening was attended by all the members except Messrs. Ward, Hale and Knapp, and in the absence of the mayor, Chairman J. Edward Hollis presided.

All about the room were arranged for inspection of the board, examples of pictorial and constructive drawings executed by the pupils of the minor grades, and they claimed some attention, the fine work in many cases reflecting much credit on the pupils.

A communication was received from the city council endorsing a resolution adopted by them in reference to the praiseworthy conduct of the principal and teachers of the Adams school at the time of the recent fire.

At this time the board went into executive session to consider the appointment of teachers for the ensuing year, a privilege that the board annually exercise. After fifteen minutes open session was resumed, no change being made from the present list.

The superintendent in his report, said the drawing exhibition submitted for the inspection of the board, was all ordinary work of the pupils, no intimation being given them that it was to be exhibited. In addition to the two lines shown, pictorial and constructive, they were now working on the third, decorative drawing, of which examples may later be shown.

The report then dealt with the proportion of pupils assigned each teacher. The minimum number at present 25 and the maximum 48, exclusive of the High school and the kindergartens. Out of 87 teachers 36 have 45 or more pupils in their care at present, which condition might be somewhat modified. The city of Boston has 56 pupils as a limit. A teacher can officiate this number without difficulty, but when the classes become divided up by the introduction of additional studies such as Latin, algebra and elementary physics it is taxing the teacher too much, and one of the future considerations for the board will be an increase in the teaching force or a discontinuance of the studies mentioned in the grammar grade.

The report was accepted and placed on file on motion of Mr. Drew.

Mr. Boyden for the text book committee reported, recommending the adoption of "The World and Its People," "The Heart of Oak Readers," Hale's "Stories for Children," Basse's "Nature Stories for Young People," Southworth's "Essentials of Arithmetic," for use in the primary and grammar schools. This was adopted.

Mr. Bond's report from the finance committee was accepted.

Mr. Brackett reported recommending that Reg. 1 Chap. 1 be changed so the school year should commence the second Monday in September and continue four weeks, exclusive of Christmas week and the first week in April. Also amending Chap. 3, Sec. 2, relative to the time of board meetings from 7.30 to 7.45 o'clock.

Some discussion of an important nature followed, after which the report was accepted.

Orders were passed appropriating $12,875.31 for May expenses, authorizing the headmaster of the High school to employ clerical assistants during the ensuing year at $8 per week; closing the present High school term, Tuesday, June 26, and grammar schools, Thursday, June 28; appropriating $100 for the June drill of the High school battalion.

The Change from Girlhood to Womanhood is fraught with dangers. At this period the young woman is especially sensitive, and many nervous troubles, which continue through life, have their origin at this time. If there be pain, headache, and nervous disturbances, or the general health not good, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best tonic and nerve at this time. The best bodily condition results from its use. It's a remedy specially indicated for those delicate weaknesses and derangements that afflict womenkind at one period or another.

For all women, at all times of life, in all cases of peculiar nature, "Prescription" is the safe agent that builds up, strengthens, and cures.

In catarrhal inflammation, in chronic disorders and displacements common to women, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money is refunded.

A great many medicines "relieve" Catarrh in the Head. That means that it's driven from the head into the throat and lungs. But, by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy perfectly and permanently cures.

She was the daughter of Labadie M. and Mary Maynard, and was born in Boston, Oct. 5, 1859, her parents removing to Somerville some ten years afterwards. She was educated at the Somerville High school, and graduated at the Somerville High school in 1878, and had the honor of delivering the valedictory for the class, showing even in her school days rare scholarly attainments. Her marriage to Mr. George W. Wilder took place eleven years ago, and Rev. E. Winship of Somerville officiated. When her illness became critical, she courageously accepted the one chance remaining. The funeral services were held on Monday at her late home in Newton Highlands. Rev. Mr. Winship officiating, and although the services were private, there was a beautiful and generous tribute of flowers from sorrowing friends and neighbors.

The choir of St. Paul's church, with the church officers and their wives as guests, passed a most delightful evening in Stevens Hall last Wednesday. The supper was arranged by a committee of ladies of which Mrs. Daniel W. White was the head and in every detail the preparation was most careful and excellent. After supper Alexander Tyler, Esq., and Mr. John W. White briefly addressed the company and their kind words will long remain in the memory of those interested in the choir. A little while was then devoted to music. A quartet, consisting of Miss Bragdon, Master Theodore Wood and Messrs. Lyman and White sang the Lullaby from "Erminie." Mr. John White delighted the boys with a topical song "Victoria's Vigilant" and Master Franklin L. Wood sang, by request, the little song "Sweet Marie." Mr. Fernando H. Wood, pianist, very kindly accompanied the singers. The music was all received with most hearty signs of appreciation and pleasure. The last hour of the evening was occupied by Prof. Kenney, president, who fairly took the company by storm. At a meeting of the active members of the choir, held just before supper, the following officers were chosen: President, the Rector; vice-president, the St. Warden; musical director, Mrs. Alexander Tyler; secretary, Mr. C. F. Johnson, Jr.; treasurer, Mr. L. P. Leonard.

Herr Hugselspiel (sadly). "Ach, himmel! How is it you look so gay and happy when das German opera and all those Wagner singers are no longer here?"

Herr Hornlieb (smilingly). "Ha! Dose Wagner singers go, but I care not. I haf taken a room next by a dentist's office, and dot dentist is busy all day."

Why He Was an Exception.

"It makes me tired to see the manner in which these newspapers are run," said the man in the smoking car as he took off his glasses and let his paper drop across his knees.

The man who sat next to him had one lock of hair—an oasis in a desert of scalp—which he spent most of his time in smoothing reflectively.

"I s'pose," he said slowly, "that you could give 'em all points?"

"I'm sure of it. Couldn't you?"

"No, I don't think I could."

"Do you mean to say that you couldn't tell the editor how to run his paper?" exclaimed the kicker in a tone that had absolute dismay in it.

"I do, indeed," replied the man with the oasis earnestly.

"Well, I must say there are not many like you."

"I know it. I used to be like you are. But now I'm trying to run a newspaper myself, and I'll tell you, my friend, I'm not saying a word, not a word."—Washington Star.

Wrestling With English.

All strange tongues hold pitfalls, but the English language seems to be rather more provided with traps for the unwary than almost any other. Vassar girls had a private laugh not long ago at the eulogy bestowed by a French gentleman whose admiration for the young undergraduates considerably exceeded his ability to speak it in English. He had met the young women at one or two day festivities and was sufficiently impressed, but when, at an evening reception, they burst upon him in the bravery of full dress the admiring Gaul felt at once the handicaps of his vocabulary. "I cannot say," he confided to one of his hosts, "how beautiful the young ladies appear in their nightdresses."—Her Point of View in New York Times.

Patrick Reeh had his hand badly crushed at the Rubber Mill last week.

The Newton Rubber Co. have commenced running a night force in order to keep pace with their orders.

There are letters at the postoffice for Mrs. H. Locke, Mr. Curtin and Geo. Mason.

Mr. I. N. Moody, drug clerk for W. H. Kerrigan & Co. has severed his connection with the firm.

J. A. Cahill has the contract for watering the streets of this village this summer.

Mr. M. L. Stevens of Newton Centre has purchased Mr. Frank Fanning's new house on Boylston street.

Miss Clara M. Cushman, a returned missionary from China, will speak in the Methodist church on Sunday morning, May 27th, at 10.45 under the auspices of the auxiliary of the W. F. M. S.

Mr. Horace Bacon celebrated his 75th birthday on Monday evening, about twenty of his family and intimate friends gathered at his pleasant home to enjoy a quiet evening of social pleasure. A collation was served and Mr. Bacon was presented with a pair of gold bowled spectacles.

The striking operatives at the Newton Mills have made a name for themselves this week. The Boston papers have commented them, Boston labor organizers have harangued them, and yesterday they went to Boston to the number of 50, marked upon the State House and didn't see the governor. They are pretty well disgusted this morning. A member of the Federation Board of Arbitration held a star chamber meeting last yesterday afternoon in the office of Postoffice block, from which everyone but strikers were excluded. A representative of the Washington Mills of Lawrence was here yesterday looking for girls. The unions have formed preliminary organizations with officers, and on Saturday permanent organization will be perfected. The silk industry here for several years has been in a precarious condition and it would not be surprising if a continuance of this trouble resulted in shutting the mill up for good. The business failed up last fall, setting at a small percent, and a long time en-due before it was decided to reopen it; and now the operatives ask more time and more money. They have been granted more time, which would increase their $3.10 a week, about which so much is said, just one third or to $4.14. None blames them for wanting their old wages, but it seems rather unreasonable to insist on both demands now, when business is in such an unsettled condition.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

James McAllister has succeeded John Warren as drum major of the band here.

Mrs. Flynn has returned to her home from the Newton Hospital greatly improved in health.

Wilfred Keel, operator at the station, has resigned and Frank Manning has succeeded him.

Mr. Riley, superintendent of Bishop's paper mill, has rented the Fuller house and is now occupying it.

Bi-hop's mills resumed running Thursday, after suspending work for some time on account of putting in two new boilers. The prospects now for a steady running are favorable.

A horse owned by Officer Harrison, attached to a heavy wagon, ran from his residence in Weston, Monday, before being stopped. The course of the horse was in some instances almost impossible to get through without a smash-up, yet no injury to anything resulted, which was very fortunate.

The "Growing Hand" for Plants.

"It seems incredible," said George Marsh to the corridor man at the Laclede, "that there should be such a thing as a 'growing hand' in the planting of flowers and other plants, but it is recognized even by florists, and it has grown to have a regular name. Some people will read directions for preparing the soil and planting the seed or slips and follow them faithfully, and yet nothing will grow, or if it grows at all it will be stunted and almost worthless, while another, without half the care and trouble, will have everything live and thrive."

"I saw a little girl bring back what appeared to be worthless sticks of some plants which she had found in the woods. Her mother wanted them to live, and selecting the best she planted and tended them with the greatest care. The little girl took the ones that had been discarded and started a little 'garden,' as she called it, of her own. The ones that received the attention died. Those which the little girl stuck into the ground lived and subsequently bloomed. It would appear as if plants had an affinity for some people and not for others."

Half Married For Half an Hour.

At Dunmow parish church the wedding of a coal porter with a young woman formerly employed at the vicarage was interrupted in a curious manner. The bride and groom were kneeling at the chancel steps for the first part of the ceremony, and as they rose to go to the communion rails to complete the rite the best man, probably thinking it was all over, hurriedly snatched a kiss from the bride in accordance with an old custom which is still observed in many country towns. The officiating clergyman, the Rev. C. C. Naters, enroute in charge, was most indignant at the proceedings and ordered the wedding party to leave the church for half an hour. The partially married couple lingered about the precincts for that period of time, when the offended clergyman returned, and after admonishing the best man, who was the bride's brother-in-law, for his levity in interrupting the service in the manner he had he proceeded to finish the ceremony.—Westminster Gazette.

Painters' Pickle.

Painters' pickle is used for removing old paint. It is useless to waste time and money applying good enamel paint over old paint, for it quickly cracks and grows shabby. Mix 1½ pounds of stone potash, 1½ to 2 pounds of soft soap and a half a pound of washing soda together and stir into about a gallon of water. The pickle should then be boiled till the potash is melted. Apply this with a brush; then let it stand for several hours. The work must afterward be washed thoroughly with strong, hot soda water, using no soap. This pickle may be applied equally well hot or cold. Great care must be taken in using the pickle, as it discolors the finger nails and takes the color out of anything it touches.—Boston Herald.
